PREFACE

This short resume of the History and Genealogy of the KENDALL FAMILY of America is written with the hope that it will inspire each and every individual family to write a history of their own family and distribute many copies among members of the family, and place copies of the manuscript in libraries for the information of others coming after us. For many this book can be used as a source book to get the records of early ancestors.

We have gathered the information in this book from many sources. It indicates how and where you may go for other information. The Scrap Book has proven itself to be one of the most valuable books in the world, by preserving some of the most valuable information we now possess. By all means have a Family Scrap Book and record every important family event.

We have just listened to the Court of Missing Heirs, broadcasting over a National hook-up announcing the death of a prominent citizen who has lived more than thirty years in Boulder, Colorado, near the Bank—his name Edward Kendall, who leaves an estate of more than nine thousands dollars and no record could be found in his home as to his family connections and the heirs of this estate. To say the least he was "one of these silly isolationists." In preparing this book we have observed that family records, as the years come and go, many times, become very valuable to some one. It is just the best of good common sense that every family should keep a history and genealogy of itself. Dates are very escential in any history. It locates the time and place. We know of a man who would give $10,000 for a picture of his great, great, great grandfather, with an authentic history written on the back of the picture, with place and date. Keep a Picture Scrap-Book with a history for each picture.

PRICE OF THIS BOOK POSTPAID $3.75

SHALL I EVER FORGET?

"Shall I ever forget the home of my childhood?
Yes; when the flowers forget the sun that kissed and warmed them.
Yes; when the mountain peaks are incinerated into ashes.
Yes; when love dies out in the human heart.
Yes; when the desert sands grow cold."

GENEALOGY A SUCCESSIVE.... SERIES OF FAMILIES:

Prof. Conklin in a famous witticism said, "Wooden legs are not inherited, but wooden heads are." This is because wooden legs are acquired and wooden heads are inborn.

Daniel Webster said (1782-1825):

IT IS WISE for us to recur to the history of our ancestors. Those who have no regard for such history, and for their posterity—those who do not look upon themselves as a link connecting the past with the future by the transmission of life and family name, do not perform their duty to the world. To be faithful to ourselves, we must keep both our ancestors and their posterity in our thoughts and affection; living in the memory and retrospect of the past and caring with affection for those who are to come after us. We are true to ourselves only when we feel a becoming pride in the blood we inherit and which we are to transmit to those who shall fill our places."

Chapter I

THE BIBLE is full of Genealogies, informing us of its importance. Rev. Samuel Kendall said, "Blood tells in everything that has blood. It flows in the River of Heredity. If mis-directed it creates weakness, ignorance, misery, disease, death, prematurely. Rightly directed it makes for strength, intelligence, health, happiness and long life. There is a reason for your wooden leg and your wooden head, your capacity to do this and that kind of work, your physical make-up, tendencies and powers. Unless we understand heredity we cannot understand human life."

UNFINISHED KENDALL MEMORANDUM

Worth Preserving

By Parks, Stokes and Kendall of London and Oxford, England, Highly Recommended Research and Genealogical Experts.

WE SECURED the services of the firm of Parks, Stokes and Kendall, genealogists, to link the Kendalls of the first two English settlements in America with their English ancestors — Jamestown, Virginia, and Plymouth, Massachusetts, Their final records were to have been put in manuscript, fully detailed and explained, but World War Two in 1942 wrecked many old Libraries, Archives, Churches and other historic places, before they completed all the records. They succeeded in getting to us the following Kendall Memorandum, notes and data, and we may never know more than it tells us. Preserve it for what it is worth. We can accept it as correct, until mistakes are found, if any. We called for data beginning with the discovery of America.

MR. NORMAN F. KENDALL, Grafton, W. Va., U. S. A. Find herewith our unfinished notes. We cannot finish them. German bombs have wrecked our every plan. If anything is left, and we are living, we may be able to finish them after the war for you. We have only given you the male members of the families. Keep the notes. We hope some day to hear from you again. You have our very best wishes for everything good.—Parks, Stokes, and Kendall.

UNFINISHED KENDALL GENEALOGY MEMORANDUM—NOTES.

1599-1686—WILLIAM KENDALL, above, merchant, statesman, Jamestown, Virginia, made his first business trip to America when 18 years of age. Wives: first wife, Widow of Thomas Carrington, in North Yarmouth, Norfolke County, England. Ruth Carrington, his step-daughter. Mrs. Kendall died shortly after her marriage to Mr. Kendall. No children. Second wife was Susanna Baker, sister Daniel Baker, widow of Thomas Eyer, widow of Capt. Francis Pott. His step-children, John, Thomas, and Daniel Eyer. Mr. Kendall had two children by this union, MARY KENDALL, who became the wife of HANCOCK LEE, the emigrant, and became the progenitors of the great American Lee family. Captain WILLIAM KENDALL was the second child, who became an outstanding statesman and business man of Virginia. Third wife was Sarah Mathews, widow of Capt. Walter Mathews, relative of Governor Mathews, of Jamestown, in 1684. Mr. Kendall died in 1686. A few weeks after his death, his child was born, and Mrs. Kendall named it William Kendall, after his father. Mrs. Kendall married for her third husband Samuel Palmer. Mr. Kendall had a large estate both in England and America. He was an outstanding political figure for more than a third of a century in Jamestown, Virginia.

1617-1679—JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, above, half brother of Lt. Col. William Kendall, son by the Arlington marriage, general manager of his half brother's vast business enterprises, receiving an annual salary of 24,000 pounds of tobacco. Business letters show that this John Kendall had considerable business interests of his own. The records show that he married Susanna Savage, age 18 years, in 1667. She was born in 1649 and records show four children to this union—John; Susanna; Thomas; William. That after Mr. Kendall's death, Mrs. Kendall married, second, Henry Warren, and after his death married, third, Hammond Firkettle. The above are Virginia Records in England.

1580-1660—JOHN KENDALL, above, son of John and Mary Miles Kendall 1548-1628—married Elizabeth. Letters and other items in the Archives of London show at least two sons FRANCIS and THOMAS went to the Plymouth, Massachusetts Colony.

EARLY HABITATION AND NAME OF THE KENDALL FAMILY.

The Kendalls are English. The name originated in the Dale of the Ken River—a combination of the words Ken-Dale. In 1060 John and Thomas spelled their names Kendale. Richard Kendale in 1355 still adhered to the original way of spelling the name.. John Kendal, secretary to King Richard III, dropped the letter "e". General John Kendall, 1421, General of the Infantry of the Knights of St. John in 1477, added an "l". He was awarded the first medal ever given an Englishman. It was for "outstanding service to his country."

Some writers interpret the name from Anglo-Saxon words "cyn" meaning "kindred," and "dael," meaning a dale or valley. Its meaning therefore would be "valley-kindred," or "relatives of the dale." Others very erroneously say the name was taken from the town of Kendal in England. This town was incorporated in 1576, more than 500 years after the name was well known. Some writers say the town Kendal was laid out by and named for John Kendall, a wealthy and prominent citizen of Westmorland. It was in the town of Kendal that Katharine Parr was born in 1513—married 1543—died 1548. Some genealogists say "that some of her ancestors belonged to the old established Kendall family in the peaceful dales of Westmorland." Her home was in Kendal. It was here King Henry VIII courted and married her. KATHARINE PARR "was the fairest, discreetest, and most meritorious of all his six wives." He was the worst husband, "if not the wickedest man, who ever abused great talents, great powers, great position, and disgraced the crown of which she, his last consort, was, perhaps the brightest ornament." The last wife, Katharine Parr, of Henry VIII, was "The first Protestant queen of England, and was an English woman born."

KENDALL PIONEERS.

The Kendall family is a pioneer family in America. Pioneers have very little opportunities to get an education except through the "Old University of Hard Knocks." It is in America where the word Kendall is variously spelled. My father received three deeds for three properties, and the word Kendall was spelled three different ways by three different lawyers. We have received communications from all over the world giving information on the Kendall family. Here is the way many letters are signed:— Kendale, Kendle, Kindle, Kendell, Kandle, Kandall, Kindall, Candale, Cendall, Kendall, and this last way is most universally used, and is the correct way.

THE MOST AUTHENTIC KENDALL RECORDS begin in 1243 in Westmorland county, England. Histories, Manuscripts, Letters, Church Records in the archives of London, and Oxford, England, speak extensively of Kendalls from 1300 down to the American Revolution. They speak of Bartholomew Kendall in 1301, his sons, Thomas, and William. Thomas who married Elizabeth Fitzherbert and their two grandsons, Thomas and Richard, who were killed in the Battle of Bosworth Field in 1485. George Kendall, son of Henry Kendall and wife Frances, was baptized June 26th, 1638. We have a picture of the Kendall Manor which remained in the Kendall family for eight generations, until George Kendall who was born and baptized there, sold it to the Jennens family. There is a monumental slab in Smithsby church in Derby county, commemorating the memory of Lady Joan, great, great granddaughter of William Kendall dated March 1350. The remains of the Smithsby Manor Hall, seat of the Kendalls from 1462 to 1662, stands in 1940. Sir Walter Scott occupied the observation room on this Hall and wrote much of "Ivanhoe" there.

There is an alabaster monument to HENRY KENDALL, and his wife, Elizabeth Armstrong-Kendall, and their sixteen children in the wall o[illegible] chancel in Smithsby church [illegible]ted April, 1627. The nine sons are shown in small statues under that of their father, and the seven girls are shown in the same manner under their mother. This is in Nottingham county, England. Names of the sons are Henry, Gabriell, William, George, Thomas, Stephen, John. Thomas, John. Daughter's names, Elizabeth, Margaret, Jane, Dorothy, Elianor, Hannah, and Abigail. Repeated name, one is dead.

There is also a memorial slab in this church placed there in June, 1500 in honor of WILLIAM KENDALL.

Henry Kendall's daughter, Katharine, married Thos. Babington of Rothley Temple, England, in which is a fine portrait of her painted in 1538,. We find in Westmorland county, England, a JOHN KENDALL who was Prior of Belvoir in the year 1288, and was held in high esteem by the city of Kendal.

RICHARD KENDALL, 1355-1431 was one of England's greatest scholars. Served under five Kings as "Minister of Education and Law."

Just before the Second World War March 14, 1938 I received a photograph of HETCH PARISH CHURCH, Herlfordshire, England. Erected by Sir Edward and Lady Kendall, In the 13th Century in the time of King Edward III; it still contains the effigies of Sir Edward and Lady Kendall. The photo was furnished by Mary Kendall-Cronnin, 1133 Eastmorland, Memphis, Tenn. The church is in fine preservation. Monuments of many Kendalls may be found in the Church Cemetery. (Wonder if the German bombs have destroyed the church in 1942?)

RV. B. H. WILLIAMS, VICAR OF AUSTREY, England, gives us a verbatim abstract from his church register from 1588 to 1768, a list of 50 Kendall families. Some genealogists say that GEORGE KENDALL given in this list is Capt. George Kendall, gent. who came over with the first settlers of Jamestown as one of the first members of the Council in 1607, and was later murdered by America's first dictator. His genealogy: GEORGE KENDALL, gentleman and Cicely, his wife, had Isabelle Kendall, baptized March 26, 1569; also had Elizabeth Kendall, baptized April 5th, 1572; also had Margaret Kendall, baptized March 20, 1575; Isabelle, daughter, George Kendall, gent. was married November 22, 1585; Henry Kendall, son of George Kendall, gent. married Jeane Martine, November 11, 1607; George Kendall, Gentleman, died overseas, age 62 years, buried August 14th, 1608. (This is shortly after the murder of Capt. Geo. Kendall at Jamestown.) Cicely, his wife died March 9th, 1611.

Chapter II

"No tyrant here can wield the accursed rod
Where all breathe the atmosphere of God:
This goodly land by Nature's stern decree

KENDALLS AT JAMESTOWN VIRGINIA—1607-1700.

SIR EDWIN SANDYS, whose ancestors were Kendalls, was one of the largest stockholders, and the idealist, of the Southern Virginia Company, that had a charter for Virginia for the purpose of colonizing the territory. Jamestown was their first successful effort. Sandys was determined to make it an ideal colony; his partners wanted it to make money regardless of what kind of colony it was —"money comes first with us" they said. Sandys replied, "that idea, gentlemen, will keep the world in hell, as long as it prevails —the welfare of humanity should come first, not dividends." He further said, "we want the leading political idea of Virginia to be Liberty—freedom under just and equitable laws sponsored and approved by the people themselves —that no individual should have legal privileges which others did not have—just enough government to preserve law and order—that every man is entitled to complete freedom so long as it does not interfere with that of others—cut out the interference from whatever source it comes, and all interference comes from the concentration of man power, and the concentration of wealth—if these are not controlled, there will be revolutions, and upsets, in every generation until the end of time." Sandys further said, "these two basic interferences can only be prevented by just laws, promptly and vigorously enforced—it is prevention that saves liberty at its best—that is prevent the things that destroy it from becoming strong and powerful—if organized and concentrated power of men and wealth becomes the government behind the government—that is the dictator — about the only remedy is revolution and war."

BIRTH DAY OF FREEDOM IN AMERICA.

Historians say, "Sir Edwin Sandys made Virginians law makers. After he got full control of the Virginia Company he at once ordered the governor, Sir George Yeardley, to call an 'Assembly of Burgesses' to meet at Jamestown June 19, 1619—the first colonial assembly ever convened in America and the above date is taken as the 'Birthday of Civil Freedom in Our Country'. The acts of this First Assembly was approved by the London company July 24, 1621, by ordinance which is considered the "Written Constitution of the Jamestown Colony, and thus the Virginians had acquired civil freedom."

THE NEW GOVERNMENT set up, consisted of the Governor, the Council, the Burgesses. They met together in one apartment and transacted the business of the colony. The members were elected by the different boroughs, and the representative, or popular branch of the legislature, and was called the House of Burgesses. Captain George Kendall, a cousin of Sir Edward Sandys, was a member of the first Council in 1607; he built the first fort, and defended the town against the first Indian attack. By the year 1624 the colony had cost the Virginia Company 150,000 pounds sterling of which 80,000 pounds sterling had been subscribed by John, William, Thomas, George, Henry, Bartholomew and other members of the Kendal family as well as the Sandys and other members, descendents through the female line. CAPTAIN GEORGE KENDALL and Captain John Smith were dissatisfied with the management and the conduct of certain members of the Council, especially John Ratcliffe, who was charged with buying and kidnapping Indian women and girls for "temporary wives and immoral purposes."So Ratcliffe organized what he called "his gang" and took over the government. This made him "our FIRST DICTATOR, a man living under an assumed name, shrewd and energetic, had no regard for human life, decency, or law, a notorious liar with rotten morals. To show his authority he jumped on James Read, the FIRST BLACKSMITH in America, with the intentions of beating him up, but the smith soon put him down for the count, and he roared out an order condemning him to death for beating up the president. Read asked to see the dictator in private, knowing he hated KENDALL AND SMITH. Read offered to give him some important information if he would not kill him. The dictator agreed, and Read told him that Kendall and Smith were planning to "oust him from his office." Ratcliffe at once ordered "Kendall shot for his plottings against the ruler, and his defense of the rights of heathen men, women and girls." Ratcliffe took Kendall out in THE KENDALL FORT in Jamestown and had him shot to death. James Read then admitted that what he said about Smith and Kendall to Ratcliffe, to save his own life, was entirely false.—"a lie."

Thus Capt. GEORGE KENDALL, FIRST OF THE NAME in Jamestown colony, one of its first financial supporters, a member of its first council, its first military officer, its first defender against Indian attacks, the first defender of the Indians' just and civil rights, was put to death by the first Dictator in America on a false charge by the first blacksmith to save his own life. So Captain Kendall, without a trial, the victim of a dictator's hate, the false charge made by a man to save his own life, was buried in the Church yard at Jamestown with military honors, with REV. ROBERT HUNT, FIRST PREACHER of Jamestown, minister in charge. Rev. Hunt said in part, "The illegal and unjustifiable murder of one of our most honorable, upright, Christian citizens, has brought us together today. This act will be a stench in the nostrils of every decent, law-abiding Englishman as long as time shall last. It will be a historic disgrace upon every living member of the Jamestown colony to the end of time. We hope, we pray, that this crime will fix your minds and hearts on just and decent laws, enforced by honest officers, by the will of the people, and against dictatorial laws, and government." Rev. Hunt in closing his remarks said, "As sure as there is a God in Heaven this crime will be avenged."

This last prophesy came true a year or so later. Ratcliffe and twenty-five of his men went to Orapaks, where Powhatan was, under the pretext to buy corn, and at once began to charge the old Indian chief with unfairness, and Ratcliffe began to demand all the Indians had, and Powhatan and his five young wives fled from the store house and ordered his men to capture Ratcliffe and his men, and put them to death. All of Ratcliffe's men, with himself, were captured but two, who escaped. One of the white men who escaped witnessed the "Indian killing with all its horror." He said the way they killed Ratcliffe was too awful to tell. So ended the career of the first Dictator—the murderer of George Kendall.

MILES AND EDWARD KENDALL

The next Kendalls to arrive in Jamestown was in 1610. Two ships on their way to Jamestown were wrecked on the uninhabited islands of what is now called the Bermuda Islands, in 1609. George Somers and Captain Gates had charge of the ships and out of the wrecks they built a boat and brought their passengers to Jamestown, and among them were Miles Kendall and Edward Kendall, first cousins of George Kendall, who was murdered by Ratcliffe. George Somers named the islands on which they were wrecked "Somers Islands" by which they were known in early history, and they were claimed, and were a part of the Virginia Company holdings and belonged to Virginia. Very little history has been uncovered on these two boys. One item says "They both had large families." A prominent family of Kendalls originated at Norfolk, Virginia, that have no other place of beginning. They claim to be descendents of Miles Kendall. History further tells us that Miles Kendall was made Governor of "Somers Islands" (Bermuda).

THE FIRST TWO BOOKS ever written and published in what is now the United States are prophetic of the tastes and tendencies of the two great Colonial Settlements—Virginia and New England. They were in verse—the one a translation of Ovid's Metamorphoses, by George Sandys, Treasurer of Virginia, brother of Sir Edwin Sandys, who owned and controlled the largest amount of stock in the Virginia Company, and they were cousins of Captain George Kendall, and Edward and Miles Kendall. The other book was the Bay Psalm-Book, in New England.

In our family histories we call these two most excellent families of Miles and Edward the "LOST TRIBE OF KENDALLS," because they make the Genealogist loose his trail more often than anything else. The second World War stopped further reseach on the families of Miles and Edward Kendall. Our London genealogist says "there is a memorandum in the Archives stating that one of them raised nine boys and two girls, the other eight boys and four girls." We have been given the names of William, Mary, Charles, Thomas, and John (1650-55) of Northumberland county, Va., and John of Charles City county, and Robert Kendall (1638). These were all relatives of Col. Wm. Kendall and his kinsman John. Col. Wm Kendall received from Gov. Berkeley about 30,000 acres of land to pay the transportation of colonists who wanted to locate in Northumberland and Accomac counties and around Jamestown. The names of these people are listed at Richmond, Va. However, most of the last Kendalls returned to their homes in England.

TOBACCO AND FUR USED FOR MONEY.

FROM 1607 TO 1624 there had been 9,000 colonists brought to the Jamestown community. Deaths from epidemics, Indian massacres, and those returned to England in disgust, left the population only about 1,800. The Indian massacre of 1622 reduced the 80 settlements to 6 or 7. The massacre of 1644 was waged on outlying settlements with deadly effect. However by 1650 the population had risen to 20,000, and they owned 30 ships to handle their trade. In 1688 there were about 45,000 people in Virginia, not counting the Indians. There were 48 Parishes. Each parish contained a church with a parsonage house, and glebe attached, and the clergymen was by law given 4,000 pounds of tobacco, each, as an annual salary. Col. Wm. Kendall and his kinsman, John, contributed 5,000 pounds. Tobacco and fur were used as money. A fixed price was set on these commodities, annually.

JOHN KENDALL, the kinsman, says, "That Gent. JOHN ROLFE did two things that saved the life of Jamestown, and Virginia, and the Kendall Family investments, in the same, by first marrying POCAHONTAS, the Indian Princess, which prolonged the Indians' friendship toward the colony, and second, by discovering that tobacco could be grown as a profitable crop. The marriage took place in the Jamestown church in 1613, and in 1618 he raised a large crop of tobacco for the purpose of exchanging it with the Indians for fur. Instead an English exporter paid him 1,000 pounds for his crop, and at once this started a great profitable business in Virginia."

LATER COL. WILLIAM KENDALL said, "While tobacco was the financial savior of Jamestown, it started something that will be more destructive in the end than it has been beneficial, by starting black human slavery in 1619 to get cheap labor to produce it."

JOHN ROLFE AND POCAHONTAS.

Since several Kendall families can trace their direct descent from JOHN ROLFE AND POCAHONTAS, the Indian Princess, we might say that John Rolfe, first secretary and recorder of the Jamestown colony in Virginia married 1613 (old date) Pocahontas who died of small pox (born 1595, died in England 1617). They had one son THOMAS ROLFE born 1614, married Jane Poythress. From here you can trace his descendents through THOMAS JEFFERSON'S genealogy. JOHN JEFFERSON from Wales was one of the first settlers of Virginia, lived at Osborn's on James rive in 1619, and he with the Kendalls, and others set up the first free government in America, and this John Jefferson is the great, great, great grandfather of Thomas Jefferson who wrote the Declaration of Independence 157 years later. We might further state the famous Virginia Mason family were involved in making Virginia a government by the people and for the people. CAPT. WILLIAM KENDALL, high sheriff of Northampton county, Va., married Ann Mason and the name Mason persists as Mason Kendall, Geo. Mason Kendall. GEORGE MASON the 4th, died in his home, he built in 1755-58, on the Potomac river, nine miles below Mt. Vernon—a neighbor of George Washington, and a colleague of THOMAS JEFFERSON. GEORGE MASON wrote the first Constitution of Virginia. In 1776 he wrote the Fourteen Point Declaration of Rights which was a model for all the states and the Famous Federal Bill of Rights. Mason was a powerful pleader for liberty. He inherited a great estate and married another. Owned 15,000 acres of Potomac land, 60,000 more acres in Kentucky, a share of 600,000 acres more in the Northwest Territory—one of the richest men in all the colonies. Mason had five sons and four daughters. In 1860 Gunston Hall passed from the Mason family. By 1912 it had become a lumber camp. Two white families, and two negro families lived in the house and mules were stabled in the cellar. In 1912 Louis Hertle of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago bought the property, and has lived there 30 years and spent a fortune restoring it to its former glory. He is going to give it to the State of Virginia when he dies. When you visit Mt. Vernon visit Gunston Hall. George Mason, Father of the 150-year-old Bill of Rights, built and lived in this Hall, one of Virginia's Great Houses.

Chapter III

Jamestown, Virginia Kendalls 1607-1700

Woburn, Massachusetts Kendalls, John, William, Francis, head of the three largest Kendall families in America.

JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, and LT. COL. WILLIAM KENDALL, half brother, lived in Jamestown, Northampton and Accomac Counties of Virginia. Owned vast estates in America and England. Col. Kendall was the most outstanding political and business figure in Virginia for more than a third of a century, serving in the House of Burgessess and for eight years its Speaker. He was known as "Virginia's Great Peace Maker." The Indians had absolute confidence in what he said, and so did the different Boroughs. Bacon's Rebellion was his toughest problem. Bacon was Kendall's devoted friend, and the Governor had to rely on Kendall to save his neck. He sent the Governor and his staff to John Kendall's (kinsman) home in Accomac County to live until he adjusted the differences. Mr. Kendall told the Governor he was absolutely in the wrong in becoming a dictator and not defending the outlying settlements against the Indians, and that Bacon was right, when he at the request of the people, took the army for the purpose of protecting these frontiers. At the request of the Legislature, Mr. Kendall, speaker, prepared the document requesting the removal of the Governor until the Indian wars were terminated, and the Governor signed on the dotted line, because Kendall told him if he did not do so, the people woul dexecute him and nobody could prevent it—they will not stand for dictatorship. The people felt that it would be wise to burn Jamestown, so the Governor would have nothing to come back to, which they did by each man firing his own house. Kendall was obliged to see the Capitol burned. The town was rebuilt by the orders of Kendall as soon as the Rebellion was over. John Kendall, kinsman was his roving ambassador and business manager, keeping Col. Kendall in close touch with each of the 80 settlements. Col. Kendall died in 1686. Capt. Kendall, his son succeeded him in the Legislature and Sheriff of Northampton County. His daughter Mary married Hancock Lee and became one of the progenitors of the famous Lee family.

JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, and COL. WILLIAM KENDALL were cousins of FRANCES, alias MILES KENDALL, of WOBURN, Massachusetts, who came to America shortly after his Virginia relatives. These three KENDALLS, are by far, the progenitors of the three largest Kendall families in America. Their descendents are scattered throughout the United States and Canada, in great numbers.

1617-1679 — JOHN KENDALL, kinsman — Wife SUSANNA SAVAGE—1649-1729.

JOHN KENDALL, kinsman—born 1617, died 1679, married SUSANNA SAVAGE, June 4, 1667, age 18 year; born June 3, 1649, died in 1729 at Williamsburg, Va. Children: John, born July 10, 1668; Susanna, born August 12, 1670; Thomas, born June 27, 1672; William, born January 7, 1674. After Mr. Kendall's death, Mrs. Kendall married 2nd Capt. Henry Warren, Sept. 15, 1680. Children: Joseph, William, Elizabeth, Hester. Mr. Warren died, and she married 3rd Col. Hammond Firkettle in 1702. No children. SUSANNA SAVAGE KENDALL-WARREN - FIRKETTLE was the daughter of Capt. John Savage, and a granddaughter of Capt. Thomas Savage of Savage's Neck in Accomac County, Va. Thomas Savage was born in England in 1594; came to America in 1607 with the Jamestown Kendalls—died in 1635. As a boy he was exchanged for one of the sons of the great Indian Chief, Powhatan for the purpose of one to learn the Indian language and the other English so they could become government interpreters for the Indian and Colonial governments. While they were negotiating a settlement between the Indians and Whites over a dispute, an aggrieved Indian shot an arrow through Savage's body, from which he died. (See Diary of John Pery in Lawrence's Colonial Families of America, New York 1932). Thomas Savage's wife was Hannah Tyng, an English lady. Their son John Savage, gent., born 1624, died 1678; married Ann Elkington; had two children; Susanna, who married John Kendall, kinsman; Grace, who married George Corbin. The Savage family has rendered distinguished service in the progress and development of America. If its accomplishments were put into a book it would make interesting and valuable reading.

DETAIL HISTORY OF THE OLD JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, BIBLE RECORD

Study the UNFINISHED KENDALL MEMORANDUM CHAPTER in this book as a starting point for this Bible Record. The dates in parenthesis refer back to the party mentioned. Same is true of twin and kinsman. Sarah (Payne) is in parenthesis, because two or three good genealogists insist that her name was Sarah Payne Mason; that over the years, old faded records caused the family to drop the word Mason; that at this time the Masons were marrying into the Kendall family, and very few Kendall-Payne marriages are recorded in this generation.

ELIZABETH ANN, alias, MARY WASHINGTON, wife of THOMAS KENDALL, son of John Kendall, kinsman, was a daughter of HENRY WASHINGTON in Accomac County, Va. In the Washington data in London, England, is a letter stating that, "THOMAS KENDALL, nicknamed Elizabeth Ann Washington, his wife, MARY, as a pet name in honor of his distinguished cousin, Mary Kendall, daughter of Lt. Col. William Kendall, distinguished statesman of Jamestown, Virginia."

JOHN KENDALL BIBLE AND PRAYER BOOK RECORD.

SARAH KENDALL 1762, married Enoch Harding, will in Stafford County, Va., in 1808.

ELIZABETH KENDALL 1758, married Peter Knight. All these belong to some of the above families. THE ABOVE IS KNOWN IN HISTORY AS THE SIX KENDALL BROTHERS.

Chapter IV

OLD KENDALL SETTLEMENTS —ENGLAND.

THE KENDALL FAMILY LIVED AND FLOURISHED in England in the days of William of Normandy (1066). They inhabited Westmorland, Cumberland, Yorkshire, Hertfordshire, Derbyshire, Leistershire, Warwickshire, and Cornwall. Lt. Col. William Kendall of Jamestown, Virginia leaves an estate to his family relatives in North Yarmouth, County of Norfolke, and also to the eldest son of his brother, John Kendall, at Brenton in same county. It is from the above places the Kendalls came to America.

OLD KENDALL SETTLEMENTS IN AMERICA.

The first Kendalls to arrive in America was in 1607, at Jamestown, in James City County, Va., and in the two peninsula counties, Northampton and Accomac. The New England Kendalls came about 1638 to Massachusetts at Redding and Woburn.

THE OLD KENDALLS TRAILS IN AMERICA.

The only means of easy travel and transportation in the old days were the rivers and the connecting Indian trails, which were used by all travelers to 1700 or later. The Indian Trails were valuable because they lead through the mountain passes. It was using these trails that lead to most Indian Wars, because they passed through their hunting grounds. Mountain passes were usually located at the source of river systems. For example KENDALL TRAIL NUMBER ONE — the James River from Norfolke, Va., to Covington, thence through the pass to White Sulphur Springs, now W. Va., connecting with the Kanawha river, and by way of this river to Scarry Station, west by a pass to Guyandotte river to the Ohio. KENDALL TRAIL NUMBER TWO, the Potomac River, almost meets the Monongahela, which with the Allegheny forms the Ohio. The Kendalls followed the Monongahela, to Morgantown, Fairmont, Dent's Run, then on to Ritchie, Tyler and Wood counties, now W. Va. As a side trail the Shenandoah River was a favorite trail for the Kendalls. Nimcolin's Trail from Hagerstown to Cumberland, Uniontown, Brownsville, to Pittsburgh, and a southern branch by way of Washington to Wheeling. This trail was extensively used by Kendalls. One old Kendall diary calls the Rappahanock River and the YORK river, KENDALL TRAILS THREE AND FOUR . . . JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, marks KENDALL TRAIL FIVE, as running from Cape Charles, north, through the Virginia Peninsula to Salesbury, Md., through the forest to Delaware River, and later James Kendall, a descendent of John, calls Chesapeake Bay and Susquehanna River KENDALL TRAIL SIX and Delaware Bay and River, ..KenALL TRAIL SEVEN.

KENDALL TRAILS OF NEW ENGLAND.

The rivers, Connecticut, Merrimac, Blackstone, Hudson, Lake Champlain, St. Lawrence, and the Atlantic Coast Line from Boston to Newfoundland is given as KENDALL TRAIL ONE AND ITS BRANCHES. They give the Great Lakes, and along the entire United States and Canadian border line to Vancouver as KENDALL TRAIL TWO.

THE KENDALL TRAILS FROM 1760 to 1900, are simply extensions of the OLD TRALIS with new additional ways of travel—the Covered Wagon, the Stage Coach, the Rail Road, the Canal, the Automobile and the Aeroplane. TRAIL ONE is extended from Memphis, to Arkansas, Texas, Oklahom,a New Mexico, Arizona, to Southern California. TRAIL TWO is extended from Wheeling, W. Va., through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, St. Louis, St. John, Kansas, Denver, and Castle Rock, Colorado Salt Lake City, Ogden, Utah, Reno, Nevada, Sacramento, San Francisco. From St. Louis the Trial follows the Mississippi and the Missouri Rivers to their source and down the Columbia River to its mouth. William Kendall helped Lewis and Clark blaze this trali. The year 1760 was the time the American colonies begin to "get together" religiously and politically for self protection and self preservation. Finally this united and co-operative spirit led to the Revolution and American Freedom.

FIRST MIGRATION OF KENDALLS; 1607 TO 1760.

In Virginia along all the first seven Kendall Trails may be seen a lonely pine tree, a sturdy box tree, standing beside an old tumble-down foundation, a moss covered bank cellar, and silent old chimney, announcing the fact that an old pioneer Kendall family had once lived there. But when his land refused to yield any more abundant tobacco crops, and the fur-bearing animals crawled farther back in the mountains, these old Kendall families with their old cow, pack mules and horses sought better lands for better crops, better hunting grounds for better fur. It was fur and tobacco that made them rich in money, because fur and tobaccco were used as money in Virginia in these old days. In 1760 about 90 per cent of all southern Kendalls lived North of a line drawn from Norfolke to Petersburg, to Lynchburg, to Covington, Va., at the W. Va. line near White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. A few families lived south of this line at friendly Indian trading posts.

OLD STAFFORD COUNTY, VIRGINIA, was the center of the largest single Kendall settlement, in the south lands including adjoining counties east, south, west and all counties north in Virginia in 1760.

KENDALL TRAIL NUMBER ONE IN NEW ENGLAND, around Woburn, Massachusetts, had the largest settlement of Kendalls in the north in 1760.

Along Kendall Trail Number Six prior to 1760 we find Kendall settlements in Maryland in the counties of Somerset, St. Mary's, Dorchester, Charles, Prince George, Kent. These early settlements were made from 1646 to 1735.

From 1760 to 1780 the Kendall settlements in America remained at a standstill, due to the Revolutionary War.

THE GREAT KENDALL EXODUS.

THE PERIOD FROM 1760 to 1825, was one of the greatest periods in our national history. Every event in this period was vastly important, when we take into consideration what these events were. We had convinced our selves that we were a people, distinct from all others; and we made the rest of the world accept this fact, and that further we wanted to be let alone, and the growth of the country made our wishes respected.

It was during this period that a large scale migration of Kendalls took place from Virginia. Most of them came from Kendall Trails Number one and two. They settled in northern Kentucky, in Meade, Jefferson, Harrison, Greenup, Morgan and surrounding counties. Some Kendals settled in and around Nashville, Tennessee, and in Henry county. Others went into Randolph, Halifax, Rutherford, Wilkes and other counties in North Carolina. Others passed on down the Mississippi centering around Vicksburg, Jackson, Natches, Raymond, and other adjacent points. Other Kendall families took up their homes in Louisiana in' New Orleans, Opelousas, and other points. Only a few Kendall families in this period located in Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, and Florida. In this migration, the greater part of the Kendalls came from the northern neck of Virginia. Several came from the James River Kendall trail. Some of these located near what is now Charleston, W. Va., centered around Kendalia, named in honor of Joseph Kendall, from King George county, Va., who owned 33,000 acres of timber land here.

THE NORTHERN MIGRATION of Kendalls took place at the same time of the Southern migration. The greatest number of Kendalls for this exodus came from the counties of Westmorland, North Umberland, King George, Stafford, Orange, Culpeper, Warren, Fauquier. They followed the trail along the Potomac river north, and others followed the trail along the Shenandoah river by way of Winchester to the Potomac river at a point where all crossed into Maryland and located at Hagerstown, where a large colony of Kendalls lived for many years, and from this point they took up residences in other parts of Maryland, and also over in Pennsylvania at Waynesboro, Chambersburg, McConnelsburg, Greencastle, Bedford, Meyersdale, Somerset, Connelsville, Uniontown, Brownsville, Washington, Waynesburg, and many other points in the southwest corner of Pennsylvala.

THE NEW ENGLAND KENDALLS in this period made large migrations (1700-1825) into Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Montreal, Quebec; all along the coast to Newfoundland, then came from Massachusets into Connecticut, Rhode Island, Southern New York, Northern Pennsylvania, Northern New Jersey, including large numbers of Kendalls locating in New York City and Philadelphia.

THE LAST STAMPEDE.
Period from 1825 to 1900.

More than 20,000 Kendalls engaged in the Last Stampede for the Last Frontier in "Uncle Sam's Domain."

The third and final mass shifting of our population in this period reached its peak in 1848-'49. The starting point was the Ohio river and southern end of the Mississippi river. The course taken by the Kendalls is described in a preceding paragraph — "Kendall Trails From 1760 to 1900."

The 1825 to 1900 period is referred to in history as a brilliant three ring circus, filled with great side shows, thundering brass bands, brilliant fire works, and indescribable caravans.

AMOS KENDALL.

It was ushered in by the revolutionary administration of GENERAL ANDREW JACKSON with the brilliant AMOS KENDALL, as his chief political and financial advisor, and Post Master General. This administration took the government out of the hands of the entrenched old school politicians and placed it in the hands of the rank and file of the people. Jackson and Kendall held that when a people votes for a change they should have it. If the enemies and their employees, were left in office, the people, in fact, would get no change in government. The building up of a great fixed office holding class ultimately means the wreck and ruin of any nation. A thousand years exeperimenting with once in office always in office, makes clear what happens. The slogan "To the Victors belongs the spoils", came into existence, which meant new faces, new ideas, new personalities, new approaches, a look in on what had been done, and bringing up to date what people wanted. If this is not done the only difference in the parties would be, that one was a "high-cock-a-lorum, the other a "Lo-cock--a-hirum". So thought Jackson and Kendall.

SPRING TIME OF AMERICAN HISTORY.

This was the Spring-time of American History. A restless sap coursed through the veins of the people. They obeyed the Bible injunction, and moved—literally—"took up their beds and walked." A vast nation forming, changing, all in motion, nothing complete, a National Pageant taking place without having time to rehearse. Not the young only, but the old, quiting their comfortable homes in the East to follow the sun over good lands, bad lands, deserts, swamps, bridgeless rivers, trackless mountain ranges, stretching from coast to coast, and along almost every mile of everytrail and road used, could be seen thousands of graves of men, women, children, and wrecks of covered wagons, coaches, sleds, and skeletons of horses, mules, oxen, cattle and dogs—all following the rainbow to its end where stood the "Fabulous Pot of Gold." They had not learned that the "pioneer's reward is usualy hardships, suffering, loneliness, poverty and death." Just a sacrifice for future generations, who seldom remember them for their effort.

WESTERN CRAZE.

It was litle wonder why Samuel, James, Ransom, Thomas, Zachariah, Mansfield, and Rev. William Kendall, who lived in Virginia along the border line of Pennsylvania asked: "What is the Western craze all about?" We have low priced land, fine water, best timber in the world, coal everywhere, good markets for everything at Wheeling and Pittsburgh, and passable roads. Rev. Kendall would say, "Heaven, and historians may know what it's all about. I don't. All we know is our children are leaving us for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Indian Territory, Colorado, Texas, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and California, and we will probably never see them again, and many of them and their descendants, will forget us." I am a member of the above families, and in gathering this history I found what my Great Grandfather said to be true.

SWARMING TIME IN AMERICA.

What realy did bring about this "Swarming Time in America" was the disasterous panic of 1837-39, the Mexican War, the Indian Wars, the Civil War, the annexation of Texas, New Mexico, California, Oregon Territory, Purchase of Alaska, the Big Run for land in Oklahoma, the Mormons, the Slavery question, free land, Rail road development, the Telegraph, and the Great rush for Copper, Silver and Gold. My Grandfather, Elias Kendall, told me that it was an arresting sight to see great droves of people with their equipment going west by rail and canal, by stage and river packet, on foot, on horseback, in wagons, see-sawing over mountains, ferrying across rivers, clattering along the great Cumberland Road—the National Pike from Cumberland, Md., through Wheeling, W. Va. across passes in the hills, and along valleys where road houses and wagon sheds were built to take care of travelers going West, cheered on by a vision of quick riches, and a happy life."

Chapter V

AMOS KENDALL ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE MEN IN AMERICA.

JUST A PARTING WORD ABOUT AMOS KENDALL, the leading inside man of Jackson and Van Buren administrations. A descendent of Francis Kendall of Massachusetts, the progenitor of the family in New England about 1638. Zebedee, 4th American generation was his father. Amos was born August 16, 1789, died November 12, 1869. Was highly educated; taught school at $14.50 a month; graduated in law; was employed by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay, of Kentucky as private teacher for their five children, at an annual salary of $300.00, with room and board, and free use of Mr. Clay's library; was authority on banking and currency setting up the banking ideas of the Jackson and Van Buren administrations which has grown into the modern banking system; owner and editor of news papers; refused to go with the South in secession; gave all out support to Lincoln to preserve the Union at any cost; established the Columbia Institution for the Deaf and Dumb; endowed two mission Sunday Schools; contributed $100.000.00 to Calvery Baptist Church and its work, Washington, D. C.; a great Bible student, a great Sunday School man; a great churchman; great newspaper editors pronounced him "a brilliant thinker and writer." By refusing to pay a large illegal bill to some post office grafters he was sued for damages for not paying it and keeping quiet; a judgement was given against him for $11,000, and refusing to pay it, he was committed to the prison limits of Washington, D. C.; Resolutions from the legislatures of Maine, and other states protesting against such unjust "rotten" judgements, and that something must be done about it. Jackson decided to clean up the courts. Congress exhonerated Kendall, relieved him of the judgement, and refunded him for all costs and attorney fees.

KENDALL'S NEW AGE OF RAPID COMMUNICATION.

Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse in 1845, inventor of the Telegraph in 1837, called on Amos Kendall, informing him that he had no prospects of getting the Government to take over his patents and he was discouraged and unless he could find some one who could sell the idea, it would do him no good, and that he would like to turn his interest over to him. Mr. Kendall accepted the proposition, and Morse turned it over to him with full power to manage and dispose of his patent rights according to his discretion. Mr. Kendall turned to private enterprise to develope this, "the greatest discovery, to launch a new age, to bring all people closer together in one great brotherhood." Mr. Kendall traveled all over the country, selling this idea and organizing companies, until he built the great Telegraph System. Out of it he made a fortune, for himself, for Prof. Morse, Alfred Vail, Prof. Gale, and Hon. O. J. Smith of Maine, his partners. SO AMOS KENDALL LAUNCHED A NEW AGE OF RAPID COMMUNICATION.

ON THE DEATH OF MR. KENDALL, Nov. 12, 1869, Prof. Morse said, "I have this moment received a telegram, announcing to me the death of my excellent, long-tried friend, Mr. Kendall. I feel that I have lost a father rather than a brother in age, for he was one in whom I confided as a father. so sure was I of affectionate and sound advice. I am sorely beriev-ed in the loss of such a friend. A friend upon whose faithfulness and unswerving integrity. I have ever reposed with perfect confidence, which has never in the least been betrayed, and a friend to whose energy and skill in the conduct of the agency which I had confided to him. I owe (under God) the comparative comfort which a kind providence has permitted me to enjoy in my advanced age. Mr. Kendall, my best friend, was a great man, a great scholar, a great business man, a great statesman, a great Christian, who was known and loved by almost every great man in this country. My age and infirmity make it sure that I shall see him again soon. Samuel F. B. Morris. New York.

NO NAME IS MORE FAMILIAR to the American people than that of AMOS KENDALL, no man was more universaly respected for his intellect, integrity, and moral worth. One time an active politician, the bosem friend and confident of General Andrew Jackson. A cabinet officer of that patriotic old President, he made his mark by the intelligence and stern justice with which he discharged his duties and by the tenacity by which he clung to the President through the troublesome times of his administration. Next to Jackson himself, he was the favorite of his party. A brilliant man in whom all listened to, and had confidence in: The State Sentinel, Harrisburg, Pa.

IN 1834 MISS HARRIETTE MARTINEAU a noted writer of Washington, D. C. said:

"I was fortunate enough once to catch a glimpse of the invincible Amos Kendall, one of the most remarkable men in America. He is supposed to be (and is) the moving spring of the Administration; the thinker, planner, and doer; but its all in the dark. Documents are issued, the excellence of which prevents their being attributed to the persons who take the responsibility for them. The brilliant letters of President Jackson to his cabinet are no doubt written by Kendall. But Kendall says "The Old Hero, General Jackson has a great mind; he just tells me what he wants and I write it down for him. However Kendall is undoubtedly a great genius. He unites with his great talent for silence, a splendid audacity."

The Washington Evening Star said:

IF THERE LIVES A MAN entitled to be heard attentatively and respectfully on the subject of Secession, that man is surely Amos Kendall, the right hand man of Andrew Jackson, in times as trying to the party, and the country as those now upon us. In those times, next to Jackson's, his mind was the controlling one in the government stamping the impress of its patriotism and will, more indelably, upon the future of the United States than those of all the rest of Jackson's constitutional advisers." (We have just mentioned a few things about the doings of this man. Read the 700 page Auptobiography of Amos Kendall, edited by his son-in-law William Stickney published in 1872.)

AMOS KENDALL Was the FIRST American Political Leader to Organize a Party Political Machine to Aid Jackson to Crush a Financial United Two Party Machine. It worked, and it still lives.

GEORGE WILKINS KENDALL. 1809-1867.

GEORGE WILKINS KENDALL was an outstanding member of the clan, a descendant of the original New England family, Francis and Mary Tidd Kendall, 1644. Nathan Kendall, 5th generation, grandfather, had a son Thaddius Kendall, born Amhurst, N. H. 1772, married Catherine Fletcher 1800, died 1801. Second wife Abigale Wilkins, married in 1803, died in Mobile, Alabama, 1853. Their children were George Wilkins Kendall, born August 22, 1809, died in Texas Oct. 2. 1867: Thaddius R. died in Mobile, Alabama. Catharine married a Rex, lived in Alabama.

Mr. Kendall established THE PICAYUNE in 1837, the first low priced newspaper in New Orleans. It was brilliantly edited and full of catchy witticisms, a financial success. It was later enlarged under the name, New Orleans Times-Picayune. As a soldier in the Texas-Mexican War, he furnished his paper "with thrilling adventure and hot war news, and the people all over the nation, sought and bought it, as if it were biscuit and honey." As soon as the Mexican mess was over, he went to Europe to furnish first hand news for his Picayune on the upheavels over their, returning to this country in 1851. The Times-Picayune frequently exhibited a cavalry flag Kendall had taken in battle. While in Europe he supervised the publication and illustration of his writings about Texas and Mexico. He married while in Europe. He had two children, Georgana and Caroline. He finally settled down on the hills west of San Antonio, as rancher and farmer.

It was when THE REPUBLIC OF TEXAS sent out a call for men that Kendall quit his successful publishing business and went to Austin and joined up with 300 Cavalerymen under General Hugh McLeod in 1841, and started on the disasterous journey to Santa Fe to establish jurisdiction over New Mexico by Texas. The Mexicans in overpowering numbers finally surrounded what they called, "the 300 fighting wildcat devils, led by KENDALL THE MAIN TOM CAT" and captured them and sent them to Mexico City as prisoners of war. It was here that Kendall suffered an attack of smallpox and was placed with lepers. Just as he had his plans made to escape from this den of horror, orders came for his release and he was returned to New Orleans, and to his astonishment he found himself famous. Personal stories of his thrilling adventures in Mexico were widely read throughout the United States. Kendall had a consuming, ambition to have the "TEXAS EMPIRE to become a part of the United States." The problem holding it back was the battle between the free and slave states." Kendall said, "Texas is the best and finest piece of earth God ever made, and I shall give the rest of my life, with every ounce of energy in it, to have it become a part of the greatest Nation on earth, the United States of America. "He at once threw the weight of his national popularity into the campaign of 1844, on the side of James K. Polk for president bcause he was for annexing Texas to the United States. Kendall told Polk that it would mean war and not to be caught asleep. In this Kendall was right. The Government said, "Kendall was the best informed man in America on Texas and Mexico, and they would rely on him to give it the information and news it must have during the conflict, and he became a soldier and "the best war correspondent, in fact the most successful, in the nation." After the war, Kendall launched a campaign to tell the world the virtues and values, and opportunities of Texas. He invited every one who wanted land and a home to come to Texas, and they came by hundreds and by thousands from every part of the world. His neighbors named Kendall county for him. The people wanted him for governor, but he refused the job. When he died he was acclaimed by newspapers as one of the nations great editors, and by Texas as one of her most valuable citizens. One hundred years after he left his news paper desk to fight for Texas (1840-1940) the state paused to pay tribute to George Wilkins Kendall, who was a pioneer, if unofficial, press agent for the state. It was he who induced so many Kendalls to go to Texas.

A KENDALL FAMILY PECULIARITY:

When, if ever, does a blood stream run out? "Blood will tell" in plants and animals. We do not expect to gather grapes from thorns nor figs from thistles. We do not expect great race horses to be born from draught horses, nor prize cattle from scrubs. Here is where man puts in a "BUT." But when it comes to the human family many people honestly believe that good children will be born from bad parents quite as often as from good parents; that health will come out of weakness, and that wisdom will be the fruit of the family tree of fools. In addition to this, even when children are born weak, unhealthly, short-lived, or foolish, such well-intentioned persons believe that education, moral teaching, medical science and good environment generally will transform natural weakness into strength, folly into wisdom, and put brains into empty heads. Dr. Wiggam, continues and says, I have seen the pedigrees of most of the world's great race horses, and they practically all go back to Eclipse and Hambletonian 10, that lived more than a hundred years ago, and David Starr Jordan, says that the "blood of Eclipse is to day flowing in the veins of every great race horse of the world." Eclipse has the faster blood stream. We actually and literally see that from dogs to kings, from rats to college presidents, blood always tells.

CHROMOSOMES:

Dr. Woods says, chromosomes are the most important things for their size in the whole world. They control the inborn tendencies of the growth, and developement of the body and brain; while on the other hand, those which are set aside in the germ-cells for reproduction carry the inborn health and weakness, sanity and follishness of the parents, grandparents and other ancestors down the stream of the GENERATIONS. The chromosomes are the sole bearers of heredity, the DETERMINERS.

We quoted the above to bring us up to what we want to say. (If you want to know something worth while we advise every man and woman to read and re-read many times "THE FRUIT OF THE FAMILY TREE," By Albert Edward Wiggans.)

KENDALLS A POLYDACTYLISTIC RACE:

Many articles have been written on the subject of Polydactylism by noted American, and English doctors, and also by a number of German Scientists, using the Kendall family as a basis because of its long past recorded history, beginning before the year 1100 where we find records of John, James, and William Kendall spoken of as General John Six Finger Kendall, Capt. Six Finger Kendall, Ship Capt. Six Finger, Six Toed William Kendall. The Genealogist of London, England, tell me you can find such records all down through the generations in the Kendall family from that early day until now, and probably existed in this race for centuries before that distant day. We have found similar records in many old doctor books published in 16th and 17th century. Within the last 20 years we have had letters from Kendalls and their descendents, asking about these extra digit Kendalls, from New Zealand, Canada, Mexico, Australia, South Africa, India, and more than a dozen states in the U. S. A. Dr. George Adami, Prof. of McGill University, later head of the University of Liverpool, where he died wrote exhaustively on the subject, but does not trace the subject to its source. The German writers say these "extra digit Kendalls" are usually prodigies, great mathmaticians, musicians, scientists, gifted orators, etc. When Rev. J. J. Kendall, D.D. of Ipswich, Mass. made a statement to AMOS KENDALL when referring to Zerah Colburn, in 1811, child prodigy-six years old and six fingers and toes, able to answer any problem in mathamatics when the problem was stated to him, and do it quickly. Dr. Kendall said. "He must be a cousin of ours. I have never known or heard of a six digit person that was not a descendent of the Kendall family. AMOS KENDALL found out later that Zerah's great, great grandmother was a Kendall. We have a letter from a noted doctor at the head of a large hospital who is now writing a book on the subject. His grand mother is a Kendall and his family have the extra fingers and toes. A noted Kendall doctor and surgeon, recently died, who had six fingers and toes on each hand and foot. He was a brillian pianist. He said his trouble was to find a six finger pair of rubber gloves when performing an operation. This writer had an uncle and great aunt who had the extra toes and fingers. Read again what is said at the beginning if this chapter.. This extra "finger" blood has lasted in the Kendalls for more than 900 years. How long does it take a certain blood stream to disappear?

Chapter VI

GENEALOGY OF WILLIAM AND JAMIMA KIRK KENDALL

Married May 10, 1738

JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, married SUSANNA SAVAGE, June 4, 1667.

THOMAS KENDALL, son John, kinsman, married Elizabeth Ann, alias Mary Washington May 18, 1692.

WILLIAM KENDALL, son of Thomas and Mary Washington, married Sarah (Payne) (Mason), May 10, 1716.

WILLIAM KENDALL, Jr., son William, Sr., and Sarah Payne (Mason), married Jamima Kirk May 10, 1738.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM KENDALL AND JAMIMA KIRK.

1. Jesse; 2. Thomas; 3, George; 4. Anne; 5. John; 6. William, twin; 7. Samuel, twin; 8. Mary Ann; 9. Lizzie; 10. Jeremiah.

No. 7. SAMUEL KENDALL, twin, 1749-1821:—

SAMUEL KENDALL, twin, married Mary Smith, March 15, 1780, born 1750, died 1809, in Fauquire County, Va. Samuel Kendall, twin, belonged to a company of Home Guards, during the Revolutionary War to protect the frontiers against Indian raids. During a skirmish his left knee was shattered by a bullet from an Indian's gun, making him a cripple for life. He made a visit to his sons in what is now Marion County in 1820, the year before he died. He was a breeder of fine horses and cattle. His farming activity was mostly confined to raising tobacco He was a veterinarian; owned and operated a country store and blacksmith shop. He and his twin brother, William, owned and operated a water power grist mill, manufacturing corn meal, and feed. In 1790 a carding machine was added to the mill. He was a man 6 feet, two inches in height, weighed about 200 pounds; his hair was abundant and black; had a tenor voice, good singer, leader of country choirs, taught old time singing schools. Loved to play a violin; took it in the Episcopal choir and played it; the preacher vehemently protested that he should not play the sinful instrument in the church; Kendall took his pastor by the hair of the head and cuff-of-the-neck and shook him so hard that it nearly broke the preacher's neck, and informed him he would play HIS VIOLIN in church, and told the preacher he could not understand why his church only loved three things, "a long solemn face, a funeral, and a fuss." They fired KENDALL out of the church, and he joined the BAPTIST CHURCH, saying that "they at least liked one other thing and that was "water." It was not long until the people would not attend the church because Kendall PLAYED HIS VIOLIN in church To save the church, and an embarrassed preacher, he quit the church. He made an address to the congregation giving reasons for withdrawing his membership from the church. He said, "Brethren you cannot convince me that it is wrong to play the violin in church, or out. Neither can you convince me, that if I play my violin I'll have to go to hell to do it. The violin has the capacity of producing the finest music God ever put into the mind and soul of man. It awakens every fiber of the human body; it stirs the human mind to its loftiest imaginations, dreams and visions; it reaches down into the mysterious depths of the soul of man to the very gates of eternity. The violin does not sin when it does that. The violin does not sing ignorance, spite, malice, venom, hatred, contempt, jealousy and littleness, and make a fool out of God. Its mission is Love." He went up in the northern mountains of Farquier County among the hunters and trappers and played and sang his hymns, and they organized a church with the understanding that he would play his violin in the church; and went over in Warren County and organaized another similar church. It was at these churches that his son, REV. WILLIAM KENDALL, began his boy preaching career, and came to Dent's Run, (W.) Va. My father left me this story, saying "Father was well educated for his time, a very pleasing orator, extremely active, living about 100 years ahead of his time, and people do not like progress, and always fight the man that wants it. He was a good Christian man, and firmly believed in doing good rather than talking good. My mother was from a fine, well-to-do family. Taught music and subscription schools. A blonde, 5 feet 8 inches tall, a mild voice, commanding appearance, very friendly and sociable; always had lots of friends."

CHILDREN OF SAMUEL AND MARY SMITH KENDALL:

1. Samuel Kendall, 2nd., born April 18, 1781, twin, died Jan. 21, 1854. 2. Rev. William Kendall, twin, born April 18, 1781, died Jan. 28, 1855 (Named for their twin father and twin uncle.) 3. Ransom Kendall, Sr., born June 4, 1782. 4. James Kendall, born June 2. 1784, died in 1868.

No. 2. REV WILLIAM KENDALL:

Rev. WILLIAM KENDALL, married 1st. Elizabeth Simmons, born May 4, 1784, died June 4, 1824, on Feb. 6, 1803, married 2nd. Jennie Barker, Jan. 2, 1833, born 1798, died Feb. 20, 1846.

REV. KENDALL began to preach at the age of 16 years. His father secured the very best teachers obtainable in Northern Virginia, as private instructors, and he continued those instructions until he was 25 years of age. He was a man of fine appearance, slightly above 6 feet in height, pleasing personality, very sympathetic, had the usual Kendall distinction of big hands and big feet; liked to dress in style. In winter, as he traveled, his lonely mountain circuit, covering a distance of 278 miles before returning to his home in Virginia. He wore fur lined boots, an overcoat made of the fur of the black bear, and a beaver cap with large ear muffs. He always rode a white horse and was known as "the preacher on a white horse." REV. DAVE CUNNINGHAM and Rev. William Kendall were conducting a "big meeting" in the old log church on Dent's Run in December, 1799. Cunningham contracted pneumonia and died Dec. 31, 1799. The winter was very cold. Kendall closed the meeting, saddled Cunningham's horse, wrapped the body in a blanket tied it on the horse, and alone took his comrade in the ministry, through storm and snow, over hill, valley and mountain, to his wife and children in Culpeper county, Virginia. My grandfather, Elias Kendall, son of Rev. William, said his father was a fine scholar, and an unusually pleasing speaker. He further said that his father installed the first Iron Stove in a church in Mannington District, and that it attracted larger crowds than the preaching. Elias Kendall was born in 1816. Rev. William Kendall owned considerable land here and in Eastern Virginia. Raised pure bred horses and cattle, and was above the average as a farmer. JEREMIAH KENDALL, his uncle, living near Uniontown, furnished him a church or two and prevailed on him to come to Dent's Run in 1821 to live, and to bring his brothers, Samuel and James and take up some 25 and 50 cents an acre land along a proposed State Road to be built by Pennsylvania and Virginia by way of Middleborune for a shorter way South. It would give them markets for their horses, cattle and farm products.

The first Mrs. Kendall was a Simmons, a member of one of the leading families in Northern Virginia. Her father was a leading tobacco merchant, and owned several stores. The second Mrs. Kendall belonged to the Barker family, that came from Plymouth, Mass., where the other large Kendall settlement was. She was in some way related to the New England Kendalls, and her parents came to the Kendall settlements here. The family is prominent. They have two books printed on their genealogy. It is further recorded that Rev. John Simmons, pastor at Clarksburg (W.) Va., in 1788 was the uncle of Rev. Kendall's first wife. It was from this church I (Norman F. Kendall) was elected to the Methodist General Conference at Los Angeles, California in 1904, 116 years later.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM KENDALL AND ELIZABETH SIMMONS:

1. Matilda, born 1804, died Oct. 25, 1891; 2. Mary Kendall, born 1808, died Nov. 6, 1886; 3. Mildred, born July 1, 1811, died Feb. 9, 1891; 4. Judah, born June 22, 1813, died Feb. 22, 1894; 5. Elias, born March 10, 1816, died April 4, 1905 (twin) Eliza, born March 10, 1816, died Apr- 24, 1883 (twin) 7. Stephen, born Dec. 26, 1817, died Nov. 18, 1893; 8. Dr. James, born March 9, 1821, died Feb. 18, 1883. Child by 2nd wife, Jennie Barker; 9. William, Jr., born Jan. 8, 1834, died April 29, 1901, single, in Monongalia County, W. Va.

No. 5 ELIAS KENDALL, son of Rev. William, born 1816. He married ISABELLE SNODGRASS, August 30, 1838. License is recorded in Clarksburg, W. Va. Elias Kendall owned 476 acres of land on Kendall Run, Warrior Fork, of Buffalo Creek, 10 miles west of Mannington, Marion County, W. Va. Was a good farmer, breeder of thorough bred horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Lived in a hewed log house.

He was above six feet in height, slender built, very active, mild in disposition, voice and manner, friendly and hospitable, educated in the "old subscription school," was a school trustee, overseer of the poor, road supervisor, a Baptist, union-Democrat, belonged to the Farmers Grange, anti-saloon society, and anti-slavery society, and living close to the Mason-Dixon Line he had his horses and cattle stolen from him three different times by both the Union and Confederate soldiers. He said, "In this way I was forced to contribute to both causes, regardless of my opinion."

When his twin sister, (Mrs. John Wetzel) died in 1883, twelve years before he died, he said, "Half of me died. We loved, we thought, we believed, we laughed, we cried, we rejoiced alike, we were alike. We were together as much as it was possible; apart we were like fish out of water. We were half happy apart and wholly happy together. Since she left I feel lonely. I often wonder if all twins, have, so to live?"

Elias Kendall and his wife Isabelle (Snodgrass) Kendall grand parents of Norman F. Kendall. See genealogy of Wm. B. C. Kendall elsewhere. Names of their children: Alva S., Sarah I., Wm. B. C., Susan, Luvina, John W., Raymer B., and James F.

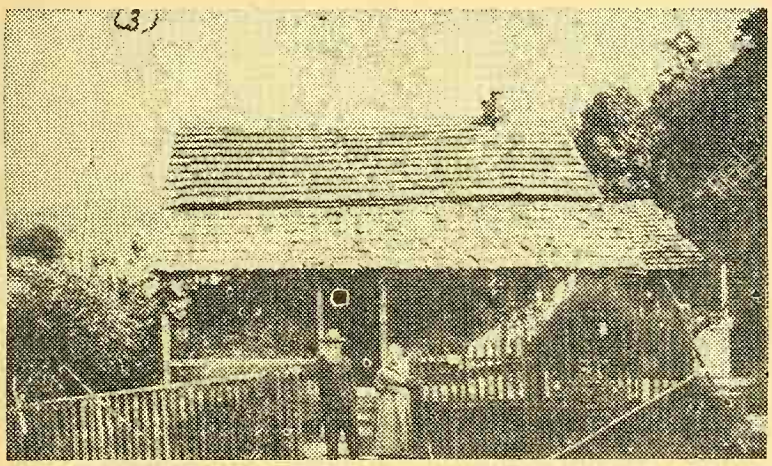
Elias Kendall, 1816-1905, married Isabelle Snodgrass, August 30, 1838, at Clarksburg, W. Va., born 1821, died 1892. Children born 1839 to 1854. Lived on Buffalo Creek, Warrior Fork, west of Mannington, W. Va.

ELIAS AND ISABELLE SNODGRASS KENDALL rest in the Kendall Cemetery within a few hundred yards of the home they occupied for 67 years. His son, William B. C. Kendall built a strong wall of cut stone around their graves. Within its inclosure lies a good man and good woman, a good father, a good mother; they loved their country, their state, their county, their children, their home, and their God, and here they will rest until the day of the final resurrection to their Heavenly Home.

Mrs Isabelle Snodgrass, wife of Elias Kendall, born Jan. 13, 1821, died June 23, 1892, daughter of William B. Snodgrass, a pioneer family who settled in the community, where the Kendalls lived prior to the year 1800. Her father was born 1796, and her mother, Mary Joliffe, born 1803. There were 14 living children in the family, all well educated for their day. (See in this book the Snodgrass Chapter.)

CHILDREN OF ELIAS KENDALL AND ISABELLE SNODGRASS:

1. ALVA, born Aug. 10, 1839, died Jan. 14, 1918; 2. Sarah J., born Sept. 20, 1842, died in infancy; 3. William, B. C., born May 18, 1844, died May 16, 1926; 4. Susan, born Feb. 2, 1846, died 1868; 5. Luvina, born April 2, 1848, died Dec. 28, 1918; 6. John W., born Nov. 25, 1850, died March 25, 1932; 7. Raymer, born Nov. 25, 1851, died Feb. 28, 1918; 8. James F., born Feb. 12, 1854, died in childhood.



KENDALL HEWED LOG CABIN Erected Deep in an Unbroken Forest at the Head of Kendall Run in 1869, the Home of William B. C. Kendall and Rachel Virginia Cunningham Kendall. Children: Norman F.; Porter J.; Ross M.; Fanne B.; A. Ward; Howard; Bertha D.; and Everette Grover.

1. William B. C. Kendall, father; 2. Rachel Virginia Cunningham, mother; 3. Norman Festus; 4. Porter Jonas; 5. Ross Monroe; 6. Fannie Bell; 7. Archibald Ward; 8. Howard; 9. Bertha Dell; 10. Everett Grover; 11. Mother at age 60 years. Number 1. and 2. ages 23 and 19. Married January 27, 1868. Lived near Rymer, West Virginia.

WILLIAM B. C. KENDALL, 1844-1926, son of Elias, married RACHEL VIRGINIA CUNNINGHAM, February 27, 1868. Rev. Martin V. B. White of the Methodist church, officiated. The marriage license is recorded at Fairmonth, W. Va., where more than two hundred other Kendall marriage licenses are recorded. William B. C. Kendall, six feet, two inches in height, weight 200 pounds, a man of powerful physical strength, and indurance. His hair and beard was black and abundant; had a well modulated voice, reserved and mild in his demeaner, very positive in his convictions on any subject; his decisions were usually final; was an inveterate reader on almost every subject. He kept files of everything he read; books, papers and magazines. When he died he had complete files of the Christian Herald, New York World, and Tribune, Wheeling Register, and all Marion County papers, especially Fairmont Index. He and Clarence L. Smith, editor of the Index, were great "cronies," or pals. His own record shows he read his Bible through 22 times in 67 years. He knew the books of Matthew and John by heart. His records show he loved the History of America, India, and China best, and English history next. He was especially fond of biographies of all great men and women. He read his newspapers like he read his Bible — every thing in them. He was educated in subscription schools and by private teachers until he was 17 years of age. He then entered Duff's College, Pittsburgh, Pa., from which he graduated. He received one "Special Diploma," on Penmanship, crediting him "as the best penman to ever gradute from that institution," and to the day of his death "he knew how to swing a pen." The prize was a solid gold, oblique pen, given to him by the college. It came to me after my father's death, and I passed it on to my youngest brother, Everett, at Ada, Oklahoma.

WILLIAM B. C. KENDALL lived in a hewed log house at the head of Kendall Run Warrior Fork of Buffalo Creek on a 100 acre farm given him by his father, Elias, as a wedding present, and is a part of the 476 acres owned by his father. He was a man, history calls an "All out prepared man for Pioneer Life." He was a good veterinarian, a good herb doctor, a good extractor of teeth, a carpenter, a cabinet maker, a blacksmith, a wagon maker, cooper, a barber, a good farmer, a breeder of all kinds of thoroughbred animals. He trained horses and animals for the circuses, and for a time was a ring master in a large circus. He trained animals on his farm from snakes to horses.

He was a bridge builder in the Union Army, hired two substitutes to fight, one of which was killed, in battle. He was a Justice of the Peace, school trustee, overseer of the poor, superintendent of roads, a surveyor, a Baptist, a Democrat, a president and secretary of the Farmers Grange, and belonged to the Odd Fellows, and Masonic Lodges. I own the I.O.O.F. documents. He belonged to the Hoshimka Lodge No. 558, I.O.O.F. of the State of Pennsylvania, at Waynesburg. Admitted to the Lodge by initiation on the 15th day of February, 1866. Samuel McAlister, N. G., J. Y. Temple, Secretary. My recollection is he joined the Masons at Waynesburg, Pa. He took the tri-state prize as the best clog dancer in Ohio, Penn., and W. Va.

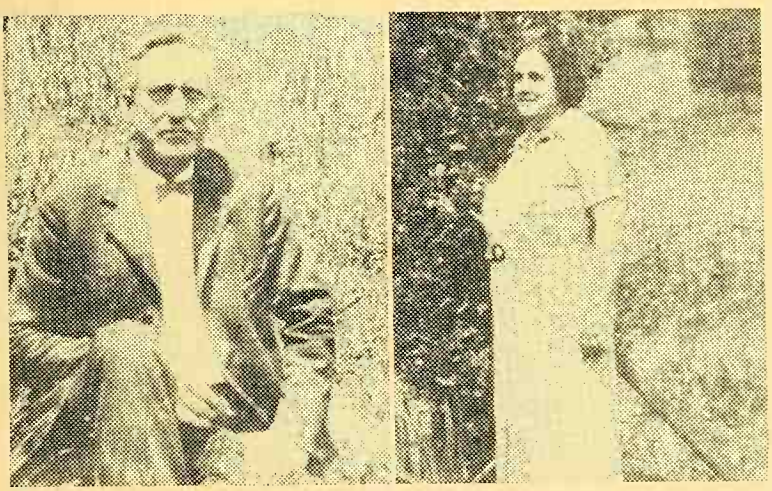
8. EVERETTE GROVER KENDALL, son of William B. C., and Rachel Virginia Cunningham Kendall, born Oct. 29, 1888, married Gladys M. Ikemire, Jan. 8, 1916, at Robinson, Crawford County, Ill. Officiating minister, Rev. L. H. Loar, of the Methodist church. Mrs. Kendall was born July 27, 1899, daughter of Michael and Ida G. Newlin Ikemire, of German descent. Mr.



Howard Kendall and Wife, Sadie May Hibbs, married 9-12,1901 ages 24 and 18. Children: Paul McLyn; Ralph Emerson; Earl Wayne; Clyde William.

Everette Grover Kendall, son Wm. B. C. and Rachel V. Cunningham Kendall, born west of Mannington, W. Va. Married Gladys M. Ikemire in 1916. Have a daughter, Virginia Alice Kendall. Live at Ada, Oklahoma.

Kendall was born in the Old Kendall hewed log cabin, on the head of Kendall run, ten miles west of Mannington, Marion County, West Virginia. It was here he learned his ABC's, how to make butter with an old dash-churn, and drink the buttermilk, how to skin a squirrel, hoe corn, dig potatoes, ride a horse, drive an ox-team, and drill oil wells. At his request his father constructed him a spring-pole drilling machine, and with a piece of rope and a post digger for a bit he started his first operation, and his first oil well, back of the old smoke house, and after 32 days of toil and sweat he struck "oil" at the enormous depth of 23 feet, and it was a "gusher" a "flowing well." When his father came in from work and went to the well and dropped in the "Old Oaken Bucket" to get some cool, refreshing water, he found to his amazement that the faithful well had gone dry for the first time in forty years. He went to see how his son was coming with his oil well, and there was the explanation of "the well gone dry." Mr. Kendall has had many oil wells to come in "gushing gold from the ground," but they do not produce the same "mighty thrill he had when KENDALL WELL NO. ONE came in back of the Old Smoke House."

Mr. KENDALL still owns and operates farms in three different States. He thinks the best insurance for real happiness and against hunger is a little farm of 25, 50 or a 100 acres with a nice little five room cottage on it. "After World War Two is over, over there, you will understand what I mean."

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall were educated in the public schools. Mr. Kendall obtained his higher, and practical education by going out and uniting himself to well trained Oil Executives in every department of the business. He learned some good lessons under Mike Benedum, born at Bridgeport, Harrison County, W. Va., known in the "World of Oil," as the "World's Greatest and Most Successful Wildcater." He served for a time as Superintendent for Arkansas Fuel Co., and other oil companies. He is now engaged in the production of Crude Oil, Natural Gas and Gasoline, on his own. He has become one of the big oil men of the south west, owning large areas of producing oil territory. And is amassing considerable wealth.

He lives in Ada, Oklahoma, and is one of the leaders developing that fast growing town, devoting much time to material and civic development of the city; showing his faith in his home town by building himself one of the finest homes in that part of Oklahoma. He is an ardent supporter of the best school buildings and equipment obtainable, always preaching for a school system that will, at least, produce Good Lawabiding, Self-supporting Citizens, who will rely on their own initiative, and assume responsibilities, live within their income, and not rely on otheers to feed them with a spoon. He is a Methodist and takes an active part in the activities of his church. Politically a Democrat, belongs to Crawford Lodge No. 666 A. F. & A. M. Robinson Chapter No. 225 RAM, Olney Council No. 55 R. & S. M. Bloomington Lodge of Perfection, Zurrubble Council, Princess of Jerusalem and Mount Calvary Chapter Rose Croix & Peona Consistery AASR. He has been connected with banking business, farmers organizations and in fact with every movement that will make his community a better place in which to live. He has one daughter, Virginia Alice Kendall, born Oct. 30, 1916, at Robinson, Ill. She married Wendall Noland Young, June 15, 1936, at Ada, Oklahoma. They have two sons, Kendall Noland Young, born July 16, 1937, and Ronnie Young, born 1941.

ALICE KENDALL, Husband WENDALL NOLAND YOUNG. Their two sons, KENDALL NOLAND YOUNG and RONNIE YOUNG. Mrs. Young is the daughter of EVERETTE G. and Gladys M. Ikemire Kendall. The children were born in 1937 and 1941. Live at Ada, Oklahoma, where Mr. Young is engaged in the oil business.

Mrs. Alice Kendall Young was educated in the public schools and is a graduate of Christian College, Columbia, Mo. She wrote an Essay on Annuity Insurance, and was awarded the first prize over a large number of entries as having the outstanding essay on this subject. She was also highly commended on her exceptional work as an artist. Mr. Young, her husband, is the son of Rev. Young and Mrs. Ivan J. Young of Ada, Oklahoma.

Her father was a Union soldier. Mrs. Davis was a member of the Methodist church for more than forty years.

WILLIAM F. DAVIS was born in a "Mountain Log Cabin Mansion," built of round logs, size 12 by 16 feet, one story, puncheon floor, clapboard roof, one window, one door. (The author of this book was also born here). It stood a short distance from grandfather Elias Kendall's hewed log house, Warrior Fork of Buffalo Creek, west of Mannington, W. Va. After completing his education he was a farmer, worked in the steel mills of Wheeling, learned the carpenter trade, became a good architect, contractor and builder for public and private buildings in Wheeling, Fairmont, Webster county, and finally located in Sutton, W. Va. He was the first accredited architect from Mannington district, Marion Co., W. Va. Politically a Democrat, served several terms in the Town Council of Sutton, serving his third term as Justice of the Peace, also serving his second term as U. S. Commissioner (1942). Mr. Davis enters into every civic movement that has for its purpose, the making of his home town a good modern community in which to live. Mr. and Mrs. Davis had but one child, ROBERT GARRETT DAVIS, born in Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 4, 1890, the year the family located in Sutton, W. Va. Stella Bell, born 1896; 4. Russell, born 1899, died 1937; Ruth Sadie, born 1903. Of thes Flora May married John Goodnight in 1930; Ruth Sadie married Clyde O. Tukesbery in 1930; Stella Bell married Charles O. Watson, born 1890. Their 12 children were born between 1915 and 1936; namely, Jay, Margaret, Glenn, Incel, Leslie, James, Mabel, Evelyn, Omar Dale, Darius, Freeman, and Mavis May.

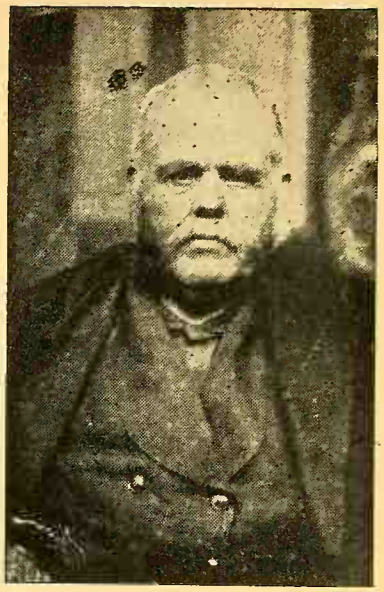
Chapter VII

STEPHEN KENDALL, 1817-1893, son Rev. William, brother of Elias, and Dr. James, married Mary Ann Watson, Sept. 13, 1837, born 1818, died 1862, on Dent's Run, Marion county, W. Va., buried near the Baptist church. Mr. Kendall owned large farms, and was not only a good farmer, but like most Kendalls, a lover of fine horses, cattle and sheep, and devoted much time in breeding thoroughbred animals. He also had a hobby of producing fine fruits of all kinds. He was the first farmer in western Marion county to introduce the idea of rotating crops. He also talked to his neighbors in season and out of season on the subject of "Scientific Gardening for Producing Well Balanced Nutritious Food for the Family." His neighbors would accuse him of "having new fangled ideas"; and at the same time he took all the prizes at the community fairs. Mr. Kendall would always reply to his neighbors' gibes by saying, "I think there is more sense in raising thoroughbred kids, fed on well balanced, scientifically produced food, than it is to raise thoroughbred hogs to be fed good food." Mr. Kendall was a large man, with a dry sense of humor, yet life to him was a rather serious matter. He carried his problems with him to his work, to his church, to his meals, to his home, and went to bed with them. It made him restless, and he conceived the idea that he could sell out his possessions and move west and leave them behind. At the death of his first wife he married Mary Ellen Kendall, daughter of Turner Kendall and widow of Ballas Thompson, and with her and her three Thompson children, son Dossie, two daughters, Lyda and Katy Thompson, and other members of his family by his first wife, in 1880, moved to Pase Conifer, Jefferson county, Colorado, where he died and is buried in Bear Canyon, about five miles from Castle Rock, Col., on West Plom Creek. He had eleven children by his first wife—



Stephen Kendall,
(1817-1893) son of Rev. Wm. Kendall, brother Elias, First wife, Mary Ann Watson; 2nd Mary Ellen Kendall, daughter of Turner Kendall. She was the widow of Ballas Thompson. Children were by the first wife, namely: Born 1839 to 1862, Silas (1839), Eliza A., George M., Emaline, James L., Martha A., William A., Elias M., Sarah J., Elizabeth, and Susie died in infancy.

all born in the Dent's Run community, Marion county, W. Va., between the years of 1839-1862, namely:

Silas S., born 1839, died 1908; William Asbury, born 1850, died 1930; Sarah Jane, born 1854, died 1920; (These three died in Denver, Col.) Eliza Ann, born 1840, died 1905; James S., born 1846, died 1917; Martha A., born 1847, died 1908; (These three died on States Fork, Marion Co., W. Va.) George M., born 1842, died 1920 at Salt Lake City, Utah; Emaline, born 1844, died 1913 at Bountiful, Utah; Elias M., born 1852, died 1914 at Mt. Grove Mission, Colo.; Elizabeth, born 1857, died 1899 at Beegum, W. Va.; Susan, born 1862, died in childhood on Dent's Run, W. Va.

STEPHEN KENDALL'S FAMILY MARRIED AS FOLLOWS:

7. GEORGE M. KENDALL, married Letitia Kendall, daughter of Turner Kendall, and Nancy A. Prichard Kendall, his wife, lived for a time at Metz, W. Va. Then with their family and the old covered wagon they moved to St. John, Stafford county, Kansas; and later moved to Salt Lake City, Utah. St. John, Kansas is one of the big Kendall centers in the west, for the Pioneers, along with Denver, Salt Lake City, and Los Angeles. George and Letitia Kendall had six children, born between 1869-1888, namely: Clarence M.; Minnie M.; Cora D.; Francis; Mattie L.; George Jr.

8. ELIAS M. KENDALL, married Martha Jane Fetty, Apr. 3, 1879, Dent's Run, Marion Co. W. Va., born 1855, died 1914 at Mt. Grove Mission, Colo. Children born between 1880-1896, namely: Ora Arta; Rosa Forest; Addie Francis; Chessie C.; Lessie L.; Lura W.; Stephen W.

9. EMELINE KENDALL, age 21, married William D. Baker, age 22, Oct. 2, 1866. He was a son of George and Ann Kendall Baker, 1844-1883, on States Fork, near Mannington, W. Va. Their three children born as follows: Rosetta May, born 1870, died 1910 at Bountiful, Utah; Ira D., born 1874, married Anna Laura Knighton in 1901, at Bountiful, Utah. Had 13 children; Stella Baker, born 1877, married Joseph Larsen, born 1868, children born 1900 to 1909 at Pleasant Grove and Spanish Fork, Utah. Their names: Velman Estell, Joseph W.

10. ELIZABETH KENDALL, born Jan. 16, 1857, died Mar. 5, 1899, married William McCombs Hall, son of John Hall, of Harrison county, W. Va., born 1848, died 1900. Lived near Mannington,

Emaline Kendall
1844-1913, daughter of Stephen Kendall, son of Rev. Wm Kendall, brother Elias, married Wm. D. Baker, went to Utah in 1889; died and buried at Bountiful. They were married 1866. Had Rosetta May; Ira Dage; Stella (Mrs. Joseph Larsen). Mr. Baker died 1883, near Mannington, W. Va. He was a Civil War veteran, and took part in 18 battles and skirmishes.

W. Va. Their eleven children born between 1875-1894, namely: Stella A.; Stephen A.; Granville Lee; Cora Jane; Ora; Lessie D.; William Jr.; Zella Elizabeth; Allie; Lamech Ray; Ivan Forest.

Almost all of the grandchildren of Stephen Kendall, mentioned above, have married and have large families, as well as many of his great grandchildren. His descendents, bearing the Kendall name, is greater than any other member of Rev. William and Elizabeth Simmons Kendall's family.

MARY KENDALL (Polly), daughter of Rev. William, sister of Stephen, married Jesse Shuman. Mary's other two sisters married brothers, sons of John and Elizabeth Smith Shuman, who settled on Minister's Run, in the Kendall community about the close of the Revolutionary War. The Shuman family are Germans, who came from Philadelphia, Pa. John and and Elizabeth Smith Shuman had 14 children, 13 of whom lived to raise families. At least six Kendalls married into the Shuman family in this early day. The Shuman boys who came to Minister's Run were John, Philip, and the one who served in the Revolutionary War, whose name I do not have. Here are the names of John and Elizabeth Smith Shuman's children: MARY; Rachel; CATHARINE; Joseph; Benjamine; JACOB; Letitia; JOHN; Sophia; David; Elizabeth; HANNAH; Joshua and one died in infancy.

It is evident that Mary Kendall's husband, Jesse Shuman, is a son of Philip, or the Revolutionary soldier. My mother Rachel Cunningham Kendall says that Mary Kendall and Jesse Shuman located on a short line railroad south of Wheeling on the Ohio side of the river, and that a daughter, of James and Catharine Shuman Kendall, Sarah, married a Levi Shuman, brother of Jesse, who also went to Ohio, for a time. There has been many later marriages of Kendalls and Shumans, since these pioneer days. The capitalized names above married Kendalls.

ELIZA KENDALL—JOHN WETZELL.

ELIZA KENDALL (1816-1883), twin sister of Elias, daughter of Rev. William and Elizabeth Simmons Kendall, married John Wetzel, born at Basnettsville, Marion county, W. Va. in 1800, died Dec. 9, 1875, at Ogden, Ill. The Wetzel, Morris, Tennant, Ammons, and Price families owned Sugar Camp Run, beginning at Highland M. E. church, and flows into Paw Paw Creek, west of Fairview. The town derived its name from a hotel owned by William Basnett (1815) when it was called Basnettsville, and the new name Fairview was selected by Malinda A. Jones, while standing in the tower room on top of the hotel, she said "What a fairview one has of this beautiful country from this point, let us call this town Fairview." Many members of the Wetzel family still live on the old Wetzel farm (1942) one hundred and two years after Miss Kendall and John Wetzel were married in 1840. A clipping from an old newspaper says "This Wetzel family, belonging, as they do, to the old pioneer, Wetzel, Indian fighters, are among the most progressive, up-to-date, scientific farmers in Marion county. Their farm is well laid out, with good fencing, clean fence corners, good buildings of all kinds to protect their thoroughbred horses, mules, cows and beautiful shepherd dogs. Convenience was the watchword for every thing on the farm and in the home. Beautiful flowers and shrubbery was abundant around the home. The farm suggested nothing but prosperity and happiness. The family was very active in church, school and farm organizations. Mrs. Eliza Kendall Wetzel was a charming hostess, an honest-to-goodness Virginia lady. Her home was a social center for young and old alike."

THE CHILDREN OF MR. & MRS. WETZEL were nine in number, born between the years of 1841 and 1860, and we name them in the order of their ages, as follows:

1. Mary Ellen (1841-1892), married Jacob Tennant. Lived in Wetzel settlement. Had issue.

2. Shrilda Jane, born 1844. Single.

3. Elizabeth Catharine, born 1847, married William T. Morris in 1872, born 1842. Their children: Tusca Morris, one of West Virginia's leading attorneys, Fairmont, W. Va.,; Mary E.; Morris; Viola M.; Mont, born 1887.

4. John Wesley Wetzel, born 1848, died 1897, married Carrie Ammons, born 1860. Their children, born between 1881-1895: Harry C.; Rose E.; Dessie P.; Lundasia; Birdie G.; Lois E., Dove Lillian.

5. Susanna Loretta, born 1850-

6. James L. Wetzel, born 1854, married Agnes Ingle, born 1862. Their children, born between 1881-1895: Stella M.; Nellie M.; Moddie O.; John Wesley; Homer D.; James R.; Harlan.

7. Calvin Niecen Wetzel, born 1856, died 1876. Single.

8. Charlotte M. Wetzel, born 1858, married Jesse Price. Children: Lois, born 1882; Laura Odie, born 1884; Okey Emery, born 1887.

9. Sarah Ann Wetzel, born 1860.

DR. JAMES KENDALL, Wife ELEANOR WILCOX.

DR. JAMES KENDALL, 1821-1883, son of Rev. William and Elizabeth Simmons Kendall, married Eleanor Wilcox. After the death of Dr. Kendall, Mrs. Kendall married Jesse Hunt, age 65, a leading merchant at Mannington, W. Va., on June 2, 1884, her age 56, Rev. Geoge W. Kinsey, officiating. Dr. Kendall lived at Rymer, W. Va., one of the leading physicians in western Marion county; had no children. Dr. Kendall in some way realized that he was soon to die. He supported the church, was an outstanding Bible student, contributed largely to the support of the poor and underprivileged, in fact as I knew him he was a very devout man. He almost worshiped his preacher father, and with all this he never identified himself with the church. He called on his neighbor and close friend, Rev. Dave Cunningham, born 1803, a famous old time "Hell, Fire and Brimstone" Methodist preacher to preach his funeral in 1880, at Old Emory Chapel Methodist church at Rymer, W. Va. It was announced two months in advance, and it drew the largest crowd ever assembled in that part of Marion county up to that date. It would have crowded fifty Emory chapels. A platform was hastily erected out in a big orchard close by, and on it sat Dr. Kendall, and from it Rev. Cunningham delivered his "famous funeral oration." It attributed to Dr. Kendall the qualities that made him a fine gentleman; a patriotic citizen; a physician who gave his life in service to his community to the extent of wrecking his own physical being. Rev. Cunningham, his best friend said, "Dr. Kendall, you cannot cure your patients unless they follow your instructions, and take your medicine as you direct. Neither can you save your own life by good works, alone, because the Great Physician has your case of sin and death, and life eternal, and unless you as his patient, follow his instructions and take his medicine, you will suffer the same fate that your patients would if they disobey your instructions—death follows disobedience, and not life. God opened the door to the remedy of sin and death, and Christ said I am the Way to life everlasting; it is so plain and simple that a fool need not make a mistake; you must be born again; I gave my life for you; you must admit it, publically; you must be loyal to me, with a heart and mind undivided; you must always show your appreciation, publically, and remember Me for what I have done for you; you must follow me. Dr. Kendall, that means eternal life. Let me further say, Doctor, that lack of appreciation for the good things that God and man has done for us in the world, is the most damnable, unforgivable sin ever turned out of the depths of hell. It has led to the crucifiction of every benefactor the world has ever had — even Christ himself. Dr. Kendall, do you understand what I have said to you?" "Yes I do. I never did before. I am very sorry. I should have been known as a Christian doctor and not just as a good doctor. I could have offered many a prayer, and much consoling advice if I had understood as I now do. So in the presence of these thousands of friends of mine I want to acknowledge Christ as my Savior and join the church. I am sorry it is so late in life." It electrified that great crowd. Such cheering I never heard.

NICHOLAS AND JUDA KENDALL BAKER'S CHILDREN BORN 1833 to 1849: Joshua, Elias, Sarah, John, Eliza, Cornelius. Of these SARAH, 1843-1895, was the wife of Henry Baker, son of George and Annie Kendall Baker. Henry is still living in 1942, age 97.

At her death Mr. Hayes married, 2nd, Serena Straight. Children: Amanda; Wilbert; Bruce. At her death he married, 3rd, some lady from Ohio and they had a child, Nina Hayes.

MATILDA KENDALL 1804-1891—WILLIAM SHUMAN 1807-1882.

MATILDA KENDALL, oldest daughter of Rev. William and Elizabeth Simmons Kendall, married William Shuman, born 1807, died Jan. 20, 1882. He was one of John and Elizabeth Shuman's 14 children. The Shuman family were emigrants from Germany, stopping for a time at Philadelphia, and then migrated to Minister's Run, Marion county, now W. Va. All their children were born on Minister's Run, west of Mannington, W. Va. between 1827-1840; nine in all.

1. James Shuman, married Ann A. Riggs, born 1832, died 1885, in Wetzel county, near Brink, W. Va. Children born between 1854-1872: William; Rosena; Stephen; Leander; Henry; James; Levi.

2. George Washington Shuman, born 1828, died 1894, married Mary Ann Floyd, born 1833, died 1895. Lived in Wetzel county, W. Va. Children, born between 1853-1870: Eli A.; Luceba; Martha E.; John L.; Oliver F.; Henry E.; Matilda E.

Have no further record except names of Henry, Elias, Lottie, Elizabeth.

MILDRED KENDALL, daughter of Rev. William & Elizabeth Simmons Kendall, married John Shuman, son of John and Elizabeth Smith Shuman, born on Minister's Run, near Arnettsville, Marion county, W. Va., April 11, 1803, died Feb. 12, 1875. Their 8 children born between 1827-1844, namely: Joshua; Eliza; Elizabeth; Mary Ann; Delila; Luvina; John Kendall; and William. Of these Joshua married, 1st, Nancy Compton; 2nd, Margaret King. Issue by 1st wife Dr. Phillip Edward Shuman (1853 - 1890), Glover Gap, W. Va., Mary Jane and Martin Luther. By 2nd wife Henry E.; James S.; Florence, and Charles Fleming. It was in 1890 that Dr. Shuman took sick at his home in Glover Gap. He was a very popular doctor and during one of Charles E. Wells' big "Mill and Bargain Store Days" that more than 100 people visited Dr. Shuman. During this visiting time Dr. Rymer of Mannington, W. Va. called to see him, and announced that Dr. Shuman had the small pox. Almost every one visiting him took the disease, and resulted in one of the worst epidemics of its kind to ever take place in northern W. Va. My father was a cousin of Dr. Shuman. My father and I with many others were stopped just as we were entering the house. He had three children: Francis Lee, born 1880, died 1881; Levy Lowell, lives at Wallace, W. Va. Has children: Lelia Emaline, married Mr. Farnall, lived in Bakersfield, California. Dr. Shuman's wife was Armannilia Deen. Dr. Shuman lived only a few days.

Chapter VIII

SAMUEL KENDALL, BROTHER REV. WILLIAM (twins)

SAMUEL KENDALL 2nd. (1781-1854), son of Samuel and Mary Smith Kendall (twin), married Mary Shuman in 1809, born March 10, 1786, died February 5, 1854. Lived on Dent's Run, west of Mannington, W. Va. They sleep in the Kendall Cemetery near the Kendall homestead.

SAMUEL KENDALL, 2nd, was a man over 6 feet in height, weighed over 200 pounds, rather dark in complexion, raven black hair, tenor voice, loved all kind of sports. He loved fine horses, especially race horses: his main hobby was hunting, as a rifleman, his marksmanship was seldom equaled. While resting on a log on upper Dent's Run creek, with his gun on his shoulder, with a pocket mirror in his hand picking a brier out of his face, he was made conscious that an animal was creeping up behind him, and shifting his mirror he discovered that it was a large panther, preparing to leap on him, and without moving, he shifted the mirror back in line with the sights on his gun, firing it, he drove the bullet into the brain of the animal, killing it. Later in life he wounded a large deer which charged him and in a hand to hand struggle, it crushed his right shoulder. In the fight Kendall cut the deer's throat with his hunting knife, and held on to it until it died. The shoulder never entirely got well. It developed a large growth, which finally killed him. Kendall was a successful stockman and farmer. He was a Baptist, and an anti-slavery Democrat. He was educated in the old time subscription school. He is said to have been "arrested once in his life, for beating one of his neighbors nearly to death for bitterly opposing churches and schools in the community, and finally running the man out of the community." The Judge said, "Well, Kendall, the evidence shows you did a good job for your community and country, but I have a mind to fine you for not finishing it; but I will fine your opponent $25.00 and cost for not keeping his fool mouth shut, and commend you for your patriotic service."

SAMUEL KENDALL 2nd, AND MARY SHUMAN'S 12 CHILDREN:

1. Rev. Samuel Kendall, 3rd, born March 22, 1809, died July 9, 1869; 2. Annie, born June 1, 1811, died November 20. 1886; 3. Zebedee, born March 22, 1813, died April 29, 1892; 4. Murray, age 25, on June 25, 1857, born 1832, died 1921, daughter of Eli and Susan Murray, sister of Jacob L. Murray, of Seven Pines, W. Va. The Murray family is one of the great pioneer families of America, with one of the most outstanding, brilliant histories of accomplishments in every line of endeavor to be found in this country. Zack. Kendall was one of Marion county's outstanding citizens, a public spirited man in every sense of the word. He was one of the subscription school teachers, and later one of the very first "free school teachers" in Marion county. He was "the leading Baptist layman" in western Marion county, according to Rev. George W. Kinsey, D. D, one of the foremost Baptist preachers in the state, and a neighbor of Mr. Kendall. He was among the first farmers to advocate scientific farming and farmers organizations; he plead with his neighbors to do away with the "old razor-back hog," the long horn cow, the slab-sided sheep, the spindle-leg horse and the half-breed chicken and substitute the best thoroughbred animals in their place, and change just making a poor living, to making a good living with prosperity. He was also a good country store keeper handling everything from "snuff to chaff-pilers," and made money trusting his neighbors. He was the senior member of Z. Kendall & Co., Undertakers of Elkins, W. Va., still operated by his son, Samuel McClelland Kendall (1942).

Mr. and Mrs. Kendall raised and educated a family of seven children to be good, law abiding, self-supporting citizens, and that is the best compliment that can be given anybody.

GEORGE KENDALL AND Wife CATHARINE DRAKEFORD 1744.

GEORGE KENDALL, born January 13, 1744, 3rd son of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall, in what is now Farquier county, Va., served three years in the Revolutionary war (other records say "for duration of the war, in the Virginia State line as a private.) (Gathmey, Index of Rev. Rec, Va. Archives, page 439). May 2, 1783, granted 200 acres land in Ky., bounty warrant No. 528 — Year Book, Society Sons of the Revolution in Kentucky, 1894-1913, Catalogue Military Land Warrants by Commonwealth of Virginia, page 231. See D. A. R. Library, Washington, D. C. GEORGE KENDALL married Catharine Drakeford, about 1779, Fairfax county, Va. (See History of Camden, S. C. by Kirkland and Kennedy, I., page 395.) We have a record of one child of George and Catharine Drakeford Kendall, JAMES KENDALL, born 1785, died May 28, 1835, at Grenada, Miss., at home of his son William Gray Kendall. James was born in Alexander, Va., and emigrated to Kentucky about 1806, and settled on Corn Creek, on Kentucky side of the Ohio river, between Louisville and Cincinnati. (See Biography of W. G. Kendall, New Orleans City Directory for 1856.) James Kendall married Constance Gray. Children born between 1809-1821: John Washington; William Gray; Robert Brown; James Drakeford; Elizabeth Ewers; Mary Jamima; Margaret. Of these JOHN WASHINGTON KENDALL, (1809-1899) married Margaret Gray, in 1833. Their children, born between 1837-1850: Benjamine F.; William Washington; Robert B.; John Gray; Lucy; Elizabeth. ROBERT BROWN KENDALL, married Mary Clark Lewis. Children born 1877-1896. Namely, Flora B.; Elizabeth K.; Sue J.; George L.; John Washington, Jr.; Margaret G.; Emma G. JOHN SMITH KENDALL, born 1874, son John Irwin and Mary Elizabeth Smith Kendall, and John Irwin was son of William Gray and Mary P. Irwin Kendall. Prof. John Smith Kendall married Isoline Rodd, in New Orleans, in 1903. Children: Elizabeth R.; Lane C.; Josephine Irwin; Miriam Gray. Prof. Kendall was an outstanding journalist in New Orleans from 1891 to 1914; Prof. of Spanish in Tulane University from 1914 to 1939; author of many books, and a large number of magazine articles that commanded nation-wide attention. Prof. Kendall has a manuscript completely covering the George Kendall family which may be seen in the Library of Congress and D. A. R. Library, Washington, D. C. I will also file an extensive history of George Kendall and his brothers and sisters, and ancestors back to England.

JAMES LOGAN KENDALL, meteorologist, U. S. Weather Bureau, Federal Building, Louisville, Ky., has on file in the FILSON CLUB in Louisville, Ky., a Manuscript, title, "Historical and Genealogical Sketches of Some 20 Virginia and Kentucky Kendall Families." In it he has a "Constructed Genealogy of the William and Jamima Kirk, and their nephews differs slightly from my "Old John Kendall, kinsman, Bible Records." The difference can probably be reconciled by the "Unfinished Memorandum, of Parks, Stokes, and Kendall," and the John Kendall Bible Records found in another part of this book. His manuscript contains a lot of valuable Kendall information. A complete abstract of this manuscript will be filed with my General Kendall Manuscript in the Library of Congress, and the D. A. R. Library, Washington, D. C. We think the record should come through William, youngest son of John Kendall, kinsman, 1674.

NOTE: One historian says, "JOHN KENDALL, 1st Regt, 1775, Pa, pvt. in Morgan's Co. Thompson's Regt, sick and wounded in Gen. Hospital, Gen. Putnam's House, Nov. 26, 1775 to Dec. 2nd, 1775." Nothing further recorded. The historian adds that he went back to Virginia, re-enlisted Dec. 1, 1777 in Capt. Henry Lee's Troops, and that he was the 5th son of William and Jamima Kirk-Kendall. See on another page—Revolutionary War Kendalls.

LT. COL. WILLIAM KENDALL, of Jamestown, Va., for a third of a century one of the most influential political and business figures in the first English settlement in America. During this time he served in the House of Burgesses, and for eight years was its Speaker. He was the outstanding business man up to his death in 1686, born in 1599. (See on another page—Unfinished Kendall Memorandum.) Three times married: Ist, Mrs. Carrington, in England, widow, Capt. Thomas Carrington. No children. 2nd, married Mrs. Susanna Baker-Eyer-Pott, widow Thos. Eyer, and Francis Pott. 3rd, Married Sarah Matthews, widow of Walter Matthews. who outlived him.

Chapter X

PENNSYLVANIA KENDALLS.

In eastern Pennsylvania the first Kendalls came into Lancaster, Montgomery, Bucks, Berks. Cumberland, Northampton, Northumberland, and adjoining counties, and in Philadelphia, where we find marriage licenses in 1741. We find William, Henry, Benjamine, David, John, Thomas. Donald, James, George, Joseph from 1740 to 1790. In Western Pennsylvania, in Bedford, Somerset, Fayette, Green, West Morland. Washington counties, were the first to receive Kendalls from Northern Neck of Virginia, and Maryland right after the Revolutionary War. We find in 1790 Samuel, James, John and Jeremiah, last two brothers, sons of William and Jamima Kirk, and their nephews who came to Arnettsville, and Dent's Run, Marion county now W. Va. REV. SAMUEL KENDALL 1812-1872 married PAULINE CUSTEAD in 1835. Children born between 1836 and 1862: Malinda; James; William P.; Rhoda A.; Samuel R.; Milton Taylor; Franklin L.; Morgan B.; Albert M.; Stephen C.; John C. The whole family were noted preachers, and educators. Lived near Uniontown, Pa. JOHN S. KENDALL says our ancestor John Kendall of Bedford Co., Pa., had sons James and William, my great grandfather moved to Kentucky and from there to Green county, Ohio in 1805, died 1816. James Kendall, my grandfather moved to Henderson Co., Ill. in 1831.

Hon. Samuel A. Kendall, born 1859, died 1932, son of John C. and Elizabeth Kendall, at Myersdale, Pa. He was a member of Congress for 14 years from Fayette-Somerset district, Pa. His children, Samuel A. Jr., Mrs. Grace M. Angus, and John W. Kendall, all of Washington, D. C. Mr. Kendall was a member of the firm Kendall Lumber company, and operated in Pennslyvania, West Virginia, and Maryland. He was a brother of Judge U. S. Kendall, of Fairmont, W. Va., and was one time Mayor of Fairmont. The financial crash, the death of his wife, and the political landslide that took him out of office in 1932—all happening at once at the age of 73—fell heavily on him, and he is the first legislator ever to take his own life on Capitol Hill. He was vice president of the KENDALL ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA AND ENGLAND. The writer of this book is president.

PENNSYLVANIA KENDALLS.

These Kendalls originated about 60 per cent from Virginia, about 25 per cent from New England, 15 per cent from England. Their history begins about 1700. Mr. RALPH M. KENDALL, of Sunbury, Pa. gives some general Kendall history down to 1779, and he starts a Genealogy from Joseph Kendall born December 7, 1779, where he and his wife are buried in the Old Zion Lutheran church at Womelsdorf, Pa. The line is followed down through Jacob, 1807; Franklin; Theodore A.; Henry; William P.; James; John Joseph (1777); Joseph 1753; Henry 1751; John 1781; Robert Conrad Kendall 1819. In this record more than 320 Kendall families are dealt with. HARRY LEROY KENDALL, brother of Ralph M., of Clinton, Ill., has also covered the above Kendalls with a Genealogy Manuscript. He was born July 17, 1898, married Irene Leone Dent, September 16, 1929 at Yuma, Ariz., born November 17, 1892, at Oletha, Kan. Daughter of James Alexander and Martha Ann Homer Dent. Great-great-granddaughter of John Dent, of Virginia, now W. Va. after whom Dent's Run in Monongalia and Marion counties, W. Va. are named. Mr. Kendall further says my wife Irene L. Dent is a great-great-granddaughter of both John Dent and Mr. Beatty after whom Beatty's Mills (now Logansport) is named, in Marion Co. west of Mannington, W. Va. Dent's Run was first named Scott's Meadow Run. Ref. "Genealogy and Personal History Upper Monon. Valley," by Butcher & Callahan, Vol 3, pp. 1309 to 1312.

Rev. Samuel Kendall

BEDFORD COUNTY, PENNNSYLVANIA.

JOHN KENDALL and his son James, settled in this county before the Revolutioniary War. James had sons, Robert, William, Francis. Robert, married Nancy Alexander, a cousin. William, married Jean Linn, and these families went first to Ky. and then to Green County, Ohio, in 1805, near Xenia on their farm of 1,000 acres where they built two of the finest homes in that part of the state. William, died about 1917; his children: Robert; John; Francis; James; Joseph Mellon; Thomas Simpson; and Sarah. Of these John and Thomas S. were preachers. Sarah, married James Gibson. Francis, Robert, Joseph M., and James went to Monmouth, Ill., in 1830, where the Kendalls and Gibsons had the contract to build the first Courthouse. MARYLAND KENDALLS, WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Generally speaking the Maryland Kendalls came from Virginia. The "great Kendall exodus" into Maryland took place from 1785 to 1886 from Virginia. More than 1,000 of them colonized in and around Hagerstown, Md. By 1930 more than 1,500 had located in Smithsburg, Funkstown, Boonsboro, Edgemont, Greensburg, Cavetown, Williamsport, Middleburg, Chewsville, Lantz, Halfway, Highfield, Foxville, Keedysville, Rockville (20 marriages 1828 to 1928), In Frederick Co. Md. Aaron, William, Sr., and William, Jr. took the oath of fidelity, and allegiance in 1778. From 1914 to 1924, 21 Kendalls were on the land books in Montgomery Co. Md. Maryland Census of 1790, Kent Co., records James, John, William Kendall; Frederick Co. James Kendall; Ann Arundle Co., John Kendall; Montgomery Co., John Kendall; Washington Co., Casper and William Kendall. Oath of Fidelity,Ann Arundel Co., 1778, John and James Kendall. Capt. Kendall, son of Lt. Col. Wm. Kendall, of Jamestown, Va., had a son John who married Tabitha Watts, of Accomac Co. Va., whose descendants went to Maryland, Delaware, and up the Susquehanah River, Pa., to Reading, Sunbury, Shamokin, etc. During the "Great Exodus" many Virginia Kendalls passed on through Md. into Pa. to York, Chambersburg, Connellisville, Uniontown, Waynesburg, and into W. Va., to Morgantown, and Dent's Run, Marion County, W. Va., near Mannington. The marriage license gives Aaron Kendall, son of James, brother of William, son of Jamima Kirk-Kendall married Sarah Kirk, niece of Jamima. Nov. 6, 1798. Mary and Margaret, daughters of George Kendall, also a brother of William and James, the one married Michael Lutes, Dec. 19, 1798, the other married Henry Kerel Nov. 5, 1803. William, son of John Kendall, a brother of George, married Sarah White Jones July 28, 1803. Harrison Kendall son of Ransom, Sr., and Lucy King, Winchester, Va., married Catharine Gordon, March 21. 1839. We find Aaron Kendall on land books in 1799. and Jacob Kendall 1801 to 1805. The Kirk family lived in Orange County. Va. prior to 1700. Will Book one-pp 33 to 43 James Kirk. Admr. Bond in 1736-37. Deeds: Henry Kendall. 1735 to 1764. William Kendall. 1764 to 1777. JEREMIAH KENDALL AND GEN. WILLIAM KENDALL

JEREMIAH KENDALL. born Feb. 6 1758. died Jan. 22. 1843. near Uniontown. Pa.. youngest son of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall: a Revolutioniary Soldier an officer in 1794. under Mad Anthony Wayne. during the Indian wars of the North West. and was at the Treaty of Greenville. was in the War of 1812, from Pa.. and was badly wounded nine times in these wars. He was born in Farquier County. Va.. where he married Rhoda McIntyre in 1778. daughter of Alexander McIntyre. Lived here until the close of the Revolutioniary War. when he moved to Fayette County. Pa. with his wife and two children. and located on his farm on the "Old National Road" between Brownsville and Uniontown. Just as soon as he had his family comfortably located. he decided to visit his brother in Meade County. Ky.. and other relatives in New Orleans. SAMUEL LEWIS, LEWIS WETZEL. and himself had been comrades together in the Indian Wars. They built a "Flat Boat" at Wheeling. W. Va.. and floated down "Old Man River" to New Orleans. visiting relatives on the way. They were attacked by a large force of Indians in canoes below Louisville. Ky. Things looked pretty bad for a time, but when Samuel Lewis took the oars. and Lewis Wetzel. and Jeremiah Kendall took the "blunderbusses" loaded with 36 rifle balls. the tide of battle soon turned and some of the Indians succeeded in getting back to tall timber. never to show themselves again to this bunch. Lewis Wetzel came back as far as Natches, Miss. where he died in 1808, and was buried there, and was forgotten. Dr. Albert W. Browser of Chicago made a 20 years search before finding his grave, and disinternment was made in March 1942, by Dr. Browser who found the famous Indian fighter, and scout's rifle buried with him. The remains have been brought to Wheeling and placed in a receiving vault. Later a military service will be held, and a reburial will be made in the McCreary cemetery, near the old Wetzel homestead, in Marshall county, where his mother and several of his brothers are buried. His father was killed by the Indians, opposite the town Powhatan, and buried at the mouth of Grave Yard run. Eliza Kendall, twin, of Elias Kendall, daughter of Rev. William Kendall, a nephew of Jeremiah Kendall, married John Wetzel, born in 1800, died 1875, in 1840, and had nine children. Lived west of Bassnettsville and Fairview, in Marion county, W. Va., on Sugar Camp Run, near Highland Methodist Church, not far from where the reburial of the famous pioneer Lewis Wetzel, will take place. John and Eliza Kendall Wetzel are the grand parents of Attorney Tusca Morris, of Fairmont, W. Va.

They often contested against each other for office. After the death of his second wife he married Mrs. Ruth Claypool, of Chillicothe. First wife died, Nov. 26, 1820, second wife died 1840, 3rd. survived him. Mr. Kendall did not profess any form of religion (SOURCE: Scioto County and Pioneer Records Southern Ohio. Pages 102-105, Paul A. T. Noon, Librarian, Ohio State Library, Columbus, Ohio).

JEREMIAH KENDALL, and his son, General Kendall, often visited his nephews, Rev. William, twin, and Samuel, twin, of Dent's Run, Marion County, W. Va., and James Kendall of Arnettsvill, W. Va. I have heard my grandfather Elias Kendall, graphically tell the thrilling war stories as given by his great uncle Jeremiah through which he passed in the Revolutioniary War, the Indian Wars under "Mad" Anthony Wayne, and the War of 1812 and also from his cousin General William, in the War of 1812 and the Indians in Kentucky and southern Ohio. General William Kendall planned at one time to locate at Morgantown, Va. However, his ambition was to build a new town, and he thought at the junction of Tygarts Valley and West Fork Rivers was an ideal location for a goodly city, where Fairmont was later built. This was in 1803. He was prevailed on to come and look over Southern Ohio, first, and the result was Portsmouth, Ohio.

KENDALL INFORMATION.

THE ROLFE HOUSE, in Surry County, Va., near the Court House was built by Thomas Rolfe, son of John Rolfe, and Pocahontas, the Indian Princess. It is the oldest dwelling house now standing and in use in America. It was in this house that James Kendall (1761-1823) and his wife, Rebecca Wroe (1764-1825), great granddaughter of Pocahontas, spent their honeymoon in 1780. The Kendall and Hill families in and around Kendalia, W. Va., are descendants. John D. Rockfeller now owns the Rolfe House. It is to be a Colonial shrine.

MAXWELL KENDALL, of Augusta, Maine, an outstanding graduate of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., says, "my great grandfather invented the original model of the Colt's revolver. He also invented the circular saw and received a medal "for this most excellent invention."

Hatter by trade; first surveyor of note in West Tenn. Had two sons, Eli, born 1803; Devereaux Jarrett, born 1805, my grandfather. Peter Kendall appears as a State Senator 1813-1821. He was a forceful campaigner and led an active and colorful career and was known throughout the state as "Old Pewter Foot Peter Kendall." I do not identify my great grandfather." John Kendall, Peter's brother, followed him into Tenn. and raised a sizeable family. Next came Samuel Kendall, a cousin, bachelor and a star for noise, first Justice of the Peace in Henry Co. Tenn., and later a Judge.

Chapter XI

RANSOM KENDALL, Wife LUCY KING. Married March 16, 1814, at Winchester, Va.

RANSOM KENDALL, SR. born June 4, 1782, in what is now Farquire county, Va., son of Samuel, the twin, and Mary Smith, brother of Samuel 2nd, and Rev. William Kendall of Dent's Run, Marion county, W. Va. Married Lucy King, born 1785—Book "P" Page 43, in County Clerk's Office at Winchester, Va., says, "Ransom Kendall and Lucy King were married March 16, 1804." They were farmers, tobacco raisers, breeders of fine horses, cattle and sheep. For a time they lived in Warren county, Va., where most of their children were born. Rev. Thomas Jefferson Kendall, a Baptist minister of Metz, near Mannington, W. Va., a grandson of Ransom, Sr., had a good history of this family. He was born in Warren county, Va. in 1853. More of him later. Ransom Kendall and his wife and family lived for a time in Marion county, W. Va., and finally went back to their old home in Virginia. Most of his children remained in Marion county, W. Va. Their children: Mansfield born 1804; Harrison, born 1807; Lemuel, born 1809; Nellie, born 1811; Deborah, born 1812; Turner, born Oct. 9, 1813, died Sept. 25 1886.

MANSFIELD KENDALL, son Ransom, Sr., married Hannah Shuman, youngest daughter of John and Elizabeth Smith Shuman, of Minister's Run, Marion county, W. Va., on Dec. 29, 1829. (Note: A D. A. R. Magazine says, "Marriages in Monongalia county, W. Va., by Thomas Ray Dille gives Mansfield Kendall, son of John Kendall. This may be confused with John Shuman, his father-in-law. The grandsons of Mansfield have letters etc. of their great grandfather, Ransom, Sr., besides as preachers and teachers, one would think they would know their great grandfather. My grandfather knew Ransom, Sr., his uncle, and all his children, as his cousins. However I have seen Ransom, Sr.'s name given as R. J. Kendall and that J may stand for John.)

Turner Kendall

JAMES KENDALL 1784, Wife CATHARINE SHUMAN: AMOS MARION COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA.

JAMES KENDALL, born June 2, 1784, died 1868, son of Samuel, twin, and Mary Smith Kendall, in what is now Fauquire county, Virginia. He is a brother of Samuel 2nd, and Rev. William, both of Dent's Run, Marion county, W. Va., and Jeremiah of near Uniontown, Pa., was his uncle, as was William, twin, of Meade county, Ky. Ransom, Sr. was also his uncle. James Kendall was a blonde, tall, slender man, energetic, ambitious, studious, very thoughtful, and considerate, slow to express his opinion, but once expressed, he stood firm to that conclusion; a brilliant speaker, with a melodious voice, and magnetic personality. He was educated in the old subscription school and was a teacher in this system. Mr. Kendall said, "This school system was intended to fit the boy and girl to live in the Pioneer Way of Life—the life in which they had to live. It meant that they had to be able to do many things well, with the tools they had at hand. It also meant they had to be good, law abiding, self-supporting American citizens, resourceful enough to make their own road of life. It did not have the idea of making dependent citizens."

Mr. Kendall was a teacher, farmer, cooper, carpenter, blacksmith, a fur and wool merchant, breeder of fine horses, cattle and sheep. A successful man.

MR. KENDALL married CATHARINE SHUMAN, born 1788, died 1848, at Amos, Paw Paw Creek, Marion county, W. Va., where the family lived, and died, and where Mr. and Mrs. James Kendall are buried. Catharine Shuman Kendall was born on Minister's Run, Marion county, W. Va., daughter of John and Elizabeth Shuman. The Shuman family is of German descent, and came to Minister's Run from near Philadelphia, Pa. about 1776. This family consisted of only 14 children, whose names you can find elsewhere in this book. They married very extensively in the Kendall family. Mrs. Kendall was named for her aunt Catharine Shuman Cunningham, wife of John Cunningham (1745-1799) of Indian Creek, Monongalia county, W. Va., and she was a sister of John Shuman. John Cunningham was the great grandfather of Ex-Sheriff Lindsay Cunningham of Marion county, W. Va., and is also the writer's great, great grandfather (N. F. Kendall).

MR. AND MRS. JAMES KENDALL'S CHILDREN:

Hon. JOHN W. KENDALL
West Liberty, Kentucky

Chapter XII

HON. JOHN W. KENDALL, born June 26, 1834, died March 7, 1892. WEST LIBERTY, the Home Town of the Kendalls, is a little town, upon the Licking river, county seat of Morgan county, Kentucky. It is a day's ride from Morehead, the nearest accessible point on the railroad at the time of our visit, says Congressman Pasco of Florida, and without telegraph communication. Our road ran through a hilly, mountainous section, abounding in wild and picturesque scenery, a beautiful country when decked with verdure and adorned with sunshine. I think in judging the character and success of Mr. KENDALL he should be viewed from the Kentucky viewpoint. His career there was full of success. He was a product of the original mountain pioneer civilization. Robust of constitution, a strong mind, an ambition to excel, and from the outset a leading man in his neighborhood. Congressman McKinney of New Hampshire speaks of Mr. Kendall as a broad-minded man; no bigotry in his make-up, and exercised the broadest charity in judging his fellows. He was a Christian man, a member of the Methodist church; had a deep and abiding trust in God and a broad hope of immortality. Mr. KENDALL recognized as within the pale of God's love and mercy all who believed and trusted in him, of whatever church or faith. Congressman Wilson of Kentucky says of him. Mr. KENDALL as a child of poverty was not ashamed of his surroundings, and as one fighting for existence and supremacy he exhibited that courage and persistence, characteristic of the mountaineer, which has been faithfully portrayed in prose and song by the writers of all ages. Congressman Smith of Illinois, remarks that John W. Kendall was a man of bright intellect, sound judgement, charitable disposition, and had a heart as tender as a woman's. I never heard him speak a harsh word of any one. He was devoted to his friends, attentive to duty, earnest in his convictions, an able lawyer, an intelligent citizen, he leaves his family and friends the richest heritage which earth or time can give, a name untarnished and still this brightest fact of all, he was an honest man. Congressman Caruth of Ky., says, there is that in our nature which revolts at the thought that our dead should sleep in forgotten places and lie in unmarked graves. We erect monuments and trace there on the records of their lives, so posterity may note the spot where they sleep and recall their names and deeds. John W. Kendall's body now lies beneath the sod in his native county he loved so well, in the midst of friends who will keep his grave green and his memory in fondest recollection. "Rest is sweet after strife." Those who knew him best loved to honor him.

Mr. KENDALL was county attorney of his native county for eight years. He was a member of the Kentucky legislature for eight yars. He was Commonwealth's attorney for six years of the thirteenth judicial district. He was serving his first term in the Congress of the United States when he. without warning, was stricken with death. In token of their regard that people by a unanimous nomination and almost a unanimous vote sent to Congress, to succeed Mr. Kendall, his son, Jo M. Kendall, about whom his fondest hopes clustered.

What waited Hon. JOHN W. KENDALL over there we do not know; but this we do know, that if in that other life it has been his fortune to be assigned to congenial and kindred spirits, he is associating now with the generous and gentle, the true-hearted and the brave.

He sleeps among the hills
Where the mountain roses
Drink the dews as day reposes.
The world is ever as we take it,
And life is ever as we make it.

See chapter 15.

KENTUCKY KENDALLS.

In dealing with the Early Kendall families, it is well to reckon Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, and Kentucky as one territory. At one time there was a large colony of Kendalls in and around Covington, Va., where there were large lumber operations. This business spread down throughout the "Western Neck of Virginia" into Tazewell, Russell, Dickenson, Scott and surrounding counties and here crossed over the mountains on to the Cumberland, Kentucky, and Big Sandy Rivers, into Morgan, Greenup, Elliott, Floyd and surrounding counties, Kentucky. One investigator gives as "fact and tradition" that William Kendall, Sr., born 1695, had a son James, born 1719, married Julia Travis 1741, and they had a son Jesse, born 1742, married Jane Allen 1764 and they had six children, 5 sons and one daughter, born in Richmond, Va. (This may mean Richmond county, where the Allen families Kendall, Sr., born 1772, died 1843, married Nancy Harrison 1793. Vernon V. Kendall, Greenup, Ky., keeper of the Great Seals, Coat-of-Arms, Records, and "Finger Prints" of the Kendall Tribe says, Allen Kendall Sr. children are: 1. James P. 2. Rev. Allen. 4. Lewis. 5. William Harrison. 6. Travis. 7. Mrs. John Kendrick. 8. Susanna (Mrs. John Horton). 9. Mary, married a Mr. Brown. Of these

He had two children, a son and a daughter. The son Willmoore, Jr., became blind in childhood. He had a vigorous, active, retentive mind for things religious and Christian. He wanted to be a preacher.

Rev. Allen Kendall, Taswell County, Virginia, married Elizabeth Brown. They moved from Va. in 1832, to West Liberty, Morgan County, Ky. and later, 1858 to Dallas, Texas.

REV. WILLMOORE KENDALL FAMOUS BLIND PREACHER.

Dr. Kendall, born January 21, 1887, died June 1942 at Oklahoma City from a surgical operation, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Kendall of Kentucky, and moved to Oklahoma when Rev. Kendall was 12 years of age. He was blind from birth. Began his 38 years preaching career at age of 17. Was vice president of Oklahoma City University. He held pastorates in 14 cities in Oklahoma, and was the best known Methodist preacher in Oklahoma, and one of the best loved men in the state. His wife and three children survive him, Dr. Willmoore Kendall, Jr., a Rhodes scholar. With Rockefeller Foundation at Washington, D. C.; Walter Earl Kendall, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Mrs. Yvona Kendall Mason, Tulsa, and two grandchildren Walter Earl Kendall, Jr. and Willmoore Hugh Kendall, Tulsa. Bishop Selecman said, "We regard Dr. Kendall as one of our most distinguished and useful ministers. He made himself felt in religious and educational circles as a real leader of men." Dr. Kendall was a great scholar, a great teacher, a great orator, a great lecturer, and a brilliant, inspiring preacher. Mrs. Kendall was a woman of great intellect, a great student and Dr. Kendall's "All-seeing eye" to whom he gave every credit for his long successful career. We were to have received his contribution to this book about July 15, 1942.

Chapter XIII

REVOLUTIONIARY WAR KENDALLS JOHN KENDALL, kinsman, DESCENT.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM WASHINGTON, of Virginia, said, "If there was ever a 100% plus loyal family to the American Revolution, that family was William and Jamima Kirk Kendall's family, of Old Stafford county, later Fauquier county, Virginia." Here is the record:

JEREMIAH KENDALL enlisted a private in Captain William Washington's Company Feb. 23, 1776, 3rd Virginia Regiment, commanded by Col. Thomas Marshall. Was transferred to Capt. S. B. Walace's Company, same regiment. He was severely wounded at the Battle of Brandywine, and was discharged January 1778. He later served with General Anthony Wayne, an officer in his campaign against the Indians, and was severely wounded nine times in battles during these wars. Gen. Wayne said "Jeremiah Kendall was a brave, energetic, wide-a-wake officer, had good judgment and dependable; the bravest and most successful fighter I ever knew. It was men like him that saved the lives of thousands of frontier families from the cruel, vicious Indians of our frontiers. His body was cut to pieces by Indian bullets, but he still lived and never ceased to fight till victory was won and safety was assured to the women and children of the pioneers, and they never should cease to praise his name and his deeds." At the close of the campaign Gen. Wayne lined up his soldiers and called out, "Officer Jeremiah Kendall step forward." Then General Wayne dismounted from his horse and said, "Officer Kendall, I present to you my heart felt thanks, and deepest appreciation for your loyal un-matched service to the country you love, and we all love. No man could have done more, suffered more, than you, to win the crushing victories we have had. I hand to you my watch and chain, my boot-hooks, and my spurs as a simple token of my personal appreciation of you and your services. Keep them and remember me as your loyal friend." Six generations have passed. His descendants still have these gifts, as their most precious treasures. (See Jeremiah Kendall's History in this book on another page.)

GEORGE KENDALL, 3rd, son of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall, served three years (other records say, "for the duration of the war") as a private soldier in the Virginia State Line, during the Revolutioniary War. He was cited by Col. Thomas Marshall for "outstanding coolness and bravery in battle under most trying and dangerous conditions."

WILLIAM KENDALL (twin) served in the Virginia Continental Line as a private and assigned to the defense of the frontiers against the English and Indians. in 1780. He also served, with Clarke's Illinois Regiment, Virginia State Troops, as Quartermaster. Clark rated him as "a reliable efficient, capable soldier and officer." After the war Kendall went to Meade county, Kentucky.

SAMUEL KENDALL (twin) served in the Virginia Home Guard, during the Revoluntioniary War. Had many skirmishes with the Indians and the Tories. In 1780 had his left knee shattered with a bullet from an Indian's musket, making him a cripple for life.

JOHN KENDALL, born 1749, served seven years in the Revoluntioniary War, as a private with the Continental Troops; went through many hardships and was in 31 battles and skirmishes. Honorably discharged. Went to Harrison county, Ky., after the war. Married a Miss Philipps. Had seven children: Louis, James, Samuel, William, Enoch, Jennie, Sarah. Of these James married Polly Hutsell, lived in Bourbon county, Ky. Had several children including John and he married Sarah Kendall his cousin, daughter of Enoch and his wife Rebecca Beauchamp; had children some of whom lived in Kissima, Fla.

THOMAS KENDALL, brother of William (twin), belonged to the frontier "Spies and Sharp-Shooters." His old musket barrel had 21 notches cut on it.

PETER KENDALL, a cousin of the above, joined the Revolutioniary Army at the same time Jeremiah Kendall joined in Stafford County Virginia, 1776, served as a private in Captain William Washington's Company, third Virginia Regiment, and as recruiting sergeant under Lieut. A. Mountjoy; was in the battle of White Plains and many skirmishes. Honorably discharged after two years service. The War Department did not have the records of his parents, except two memorandums from two sources.

THOMAS KENDALL, born 1672, son of William and Elizabeth Combs, who had a son, Thomas, born 1729, in what is now Fauquire (Old Stafford) who had a son Peter in the Revolutioniary War. The other says, "Thomas Kendall, born 1727, son of William and Eliza Ann, alias Mary, Washington Kendall, had a son in the Revolutioniary War, named Peter. Anyway he was allowed a pension September 12, 1818 at which time he was aged about fifty-seven years and a resident of Fleming county, Ky., and that he married in this county, Nancy King, October 9, 1817. He died in this county, March 1825; his wife died May 17, 1855, aged about 67 years. In 1857 the only surviving children of this soldier was Harrison O. Kendall, aged 35 years in Fleming county, Ky. Payton and Henry Kendall, aged about 39 years, residence not given, so says the Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

WILLIAM ....KENDALL, ...born, 1717, , husband Jamima Kirk father of the above, except Peter, with 60 others, called "Old Mountaineer Crack-shots," a Company of Mounted Scouts, was sent into the Shenandoah Valley in 1777 to "capture" drive out or kill the bands of roving Indians and Tory raiders who were burning the homes, and murdering, without mercy, the defenseless frontier settlers." They did a good job; 52 of them returned to tell the story. The notches cut in the "old blunderbus musket" stocks numbered including the dead comrads, 4 to 12 on each stock, and of course, you know what a notch meant on a pioneer's gun.

FRANCIS KENDALL, 3rd Virginia Regiment. Pvt. in Capt. P. R. F. Lee's Co. Enlisted March 1, 1776 for 2 years. Name last appears on this company payroll Feb. 14, 1776. His genalogist says "Francis was born in Rappanhannock county, Va., in 1753, a descendent of the youngest son, William, of John Kendall (kinsman) through Robert, born, 1703, through William, born, 1726, a cousin of Jeremiah, and Peter, who joinued the Revolutioniary Army at about the same time.

KENDALLS SERVED IN WARS

THE REVOLUTIONIARY WAR records are very incomplete, as we are informed by those who checked the records for us. The soldiers of the continental line, the private soldier, the frontier soldier and those of the home defense were not kept by one organization. The Continental Government kept some of them, the states some, etc. Later wars destroyed some records and to get anything like a complete record it would be necessary to check every kind of record kept by every recording department. What we give was furnished us from the War Department Records at Washington, D. C. We have the names and war records of all Kendalls who have served in all our Wars except the first and second World Wars. More than 1000 served in each of these wars. The Canadian War Department gave us the names and records of all Kendalls who served in the First World War.

We are giving you the following statement to show you how the Kendalls migrated from the First two settlements made in America. First at Jamestown, Virginia, and Second at Woburne and Reading, Massachusetts. The number of Kendall soldiers in each state as indicated in each war will indicate where most of the Virginia Kendalls migrated, as well as the New England Kendalls. By referring to the Kendall Trails it will be clear to you.

CANADIAN KENDALLS IN FIRST WORLD WAR Sergeant C. E. Kendall, 914 Dominion Bank Building, 1156, Burnaby Street, Vancouver, B. C. Canada, furnished me the names and war record of the Ninety-four Kendalls who served in the First World War from Canada. The record was taken from the War Department records by his nephew, Carson J. Kendall, M. D. of Ottawa, Canada. These Kendalls are in the main, descendents of the Woburne, Mass., or New England Kendalls. This record can be easily obtained from Ottawa, Canada. The New England Kendalls have a far better genealogy record than the Virginia Kendall name and the past history of its accomplishments.

THE FOLLOWING are the Kendall names given us from Washington who served in the Revlutioniary War: From Connecticut Amos and Joshua Kendall, from Pennslyvania John Kendall. From Maryland, William and William, Jr., Kendall. From Maine William Kendall (a drummer). From New Hampshire, Edward, Nathan, Jr. (a fifer), Moses, Joshua, Samuel and Cpl. William Kendall. Massachusetts, Benjamine, Benjamine, Jr., David, Asa, Asa, Jr., Wiiliam Ruben, Nathan, Oliver, William, Caleb, Cheever, Ethan, John, Thomas, Jonathan, Jonathan, Jr., John and Tremble Kendall. From VIRGINIA, Col. Custis, Francis, Sgt. Jeremiah (the writer's great, great uncle, died near Uniontown, Pa. 1843), Capt. Custis, Peter, William (another great, great uncle of the writer, lived and died in Meade county, Ky. 1829). Lt. Col. John, 1st. Lt. Waffendal, Maj. John, Jr., and George Kendall (another great, great uncle of the writer.) Ist. Lt. Bowdoin Kendall. Virginia, Col. Custis, Francis, Sgt. Jeremiah (the writer's great, great uncle, died near Uniontown, Pa., 1843), Capt. Custis, Peter, William (another great, great uncle of the writer, lived and died in Meade county, Ky. 1829). Lt. Col. John, 1st Lt. Waffendal, Maj. John, Jr., and George Kendall (another great, great uncle of the writer.) 1st Lt. Bowdein Kendall.

CLARK-LEWIS-KENDALL

Gen. George Rogers Clark 1752-1818.

Capt. Meriwether Lewis 1774-1809.

William Kendall, twin, 1749-1829.

Clark and Lewis was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, and were neighbors and schoolmates of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall's family 1717-1790. William Kendall, twin, was with Gen. Clark when he captured Kaskaskia in 1778, and Vincennes in 1779. Jeremiah Kendall served in the army with Lewis in the Whisky Insurrection in 1794. Jeremiah was a brother of William, twin, Lewis was a nephew of President Jefferson, was Jefferson's private secretary, Jefferson appointed Lewis and Clark to explore the Louisiana Territory, and the history of this expedition, makes one of the most thrilling pages in American history. Jefferson appointed Lewis Governor of this new empire in 1807. In 1809 he started on an overland journey to Washington to see the President, and on October 11, 1809 he was found dead in his room at a wayside inn in Tennessee. History says "Whether he died by his own hand or that of an assassin will never be known. William Kendall twin, says, "I made a personal investigation of the matter, and it was clear to me that he was murdered and robbed. I had a letter from him before he started and he was well and happy and said he would have considerable money on his person. He had none when found. He was to have visited me a week at my home in Meade County, Ky., and rest before going on to Washington. "In chapter ten of this book you will recall that Samuel Lewis, a relative of the above, and Lewis Wetzel, and Jeremiah Kendall built a boat to visit their relatives in Kentucky and New Orleans, which included Jeremiah's brother William Kendall in Meade county, Ky. and Governor Lewis in New Orleans, and others. You will recall that Lewis Wetzel decided to make an overland trip back to Wheeling, now W. Va., and he was found dead in his room in a hotel in Natches, Miss. in 1808, and Dr. Browser after a 20 years search, found his grave 134 years later.

Gen. George Rogers Clark's services to this nation was second only to that of George Washington. Patrick Henry said of him, "he is the most brilliant and dependable young General in Virginia at the age of 25 years" and after Clarks victories Jefferson uttered about the same praise for him. His rapid forced marches with the army through the trackless regions of Illionis, suffering hardships without parallel in the history in military expeditions in this country. His military ability power of endurance, bravery, and patriotism is of the very highest order. His service to his country were great, he gave his all to his country, and that country and its people forgot him and let him die in obsecurity and poverty, near Louisville, Ky. Rev. William Kendall, who finally located on Dent's Run, now Marion County, W. Va. and who is the namesake of his Uncle William, twin, in Kentucky, received a letter from Gen. Clark saying, "It is so good to think you younger Kendall boys, like your uncles Thomas, George, John, Jeremiah, William down here, and your father Samuel, twin, and your good old grandfather, William, so kindly remember me, inviting me to come and live with you, and over my years of broken health, you have so generously furnished me with money enought to have the necessities of life. I would come up and stay around among all you boys, but William Kendall advises me to stay down here because the climate is more suitable and he likes me to stay with him as much as I can. After I have given my all to my country, my very life, broken in health and body, it makes me sick in mind and heart to think that country would forget me when I so much need help from it. Let that be as it may the Kendalls have been my friends in good times and bad times, in sickness and in health and I know they will be until I reach the end of my earthly life. For this I am profoundly thankful."

SPEAKING OF GOOD FIGHTING BLOOD, Col. Thomas Marshall said, "When you have a blood stream made up of Lees, Kendalls, Kirks, Savages, Washingtons and Kelleys you can't convince them that they are licked by just telling them; you have to show them, and when this is undertaken, you will soon realize that you are in a red hot, long-winded bull-dog fight."

Chapter XIV

LT. CO. WILLIAM KENDALL JAMESTOWN, VIRGINIA, 1599-1686

LT. COL. WILLIAM KENDALL was the dominant business and political figure for more than a half century in Jamestown, Virginia. For many years a member of the House of Burgesess and eight years Speaker of this first Democratic form of government in America and the world. Knew almost every influential person in Jamestown from its founding to the year 1686 when he died. With his ships he transported large numbers of colonists from England to America for which he received an average of more than 200 acres of land for each person transported. He became one of the largest land owners in Virginia and one of its wealthiest citizens. (We refer you to the unfinished Kendall Memorandum in this Book). His grandafther John Kendall, mother Mary Miles. His father, William Kendall-his mother Mary Leigh (1599-1636). Three times married: 1st. Mrs. Thomas Carrington. No children; 2nd. Mrs. Susanna Baker-Eyer-Pott. They had two children Capt. WILLIAM KENDALL, served in the legislature for years with distinction, and sheriff of Northampton County, Va., MARY KENDALL, who became the wife of HANCOCK LEE, emigrant, who became the progenitors of the great Lee family of America. (Note Lt. Col. Kendall's mother was Mary Leigh (Lee.) Lt. Col. Kendall's 3rd wife was Mrs. Sarah Matthews, relative of Gov. Matthews of Virginia. Had one child WILLIAM, Jr., born a few weeks after Mr. Kendall's death, making two Williams in his family. Capt. KENDALL married Ann Mason of Norfolk County, a member of the famous Mason family of Virginia. Children Mason; Susanna; Ann; John; William, of this number John of Accomac married 1st. Tabitha Watts—2nd. Mary Taylor. Had issue:—Lemuel died 1751; John died 1758; Joshua died 1755; Theophlus; William died 1753; Ann, Elizabeth, Molly, Jabez died 1778. WILLIAM KENDALL died 1718, half brother of Capt. William, married 1st. Jane Parks, 2nd. Tabitha, children: Sara; Ann Parks; Palmer; Maj. John; Thomas died 1799. WILLIAM KENDALL, Sr. died 1720, son of Capt. William married Sorrowful Margaret Custis. For a more complete record of this progenetor of the Virginia Kendall family, and his half brother John Kendall, kinsman; see the Will of Lt. Col. William Kendall of Northampton County, Virginia and his descendants including the Records of Accomac county. These Kendalls owned a large part of these counties, and when not in Jamestown they were at their Colonial homes in these counties. Stratton Nottingham, a descendent, and a genealogist, has completed these Kendall records at Onancock, Va. MARY KENDALL AND HANCOCK LEE had ANN LEE and KENDALL LEE, and their descendants are some of the great families of Virginia and New York.

LT. COL. KENDALL, remarks in his "Notes" saying, "That Capt. John Smith, a distant relative of mine said, "Heaven and Earth never agreed better to frame a place for man's habitation than in Tidewater, Virginia" It was in the counties on the western side of the Chesapeake that a great part of the early history of America was written. For more than a 100 years the Kendalls of England and America gave of their work and their wealth in this section at Jamestown, to produce what an old English historian calls "The KENDALL IDEA OF A FREE GOVERNMENT BY A FREE PEOPLE. "The idea was forever fixed in America by SIR EDWIN SANDYS a Kendall descendant, a cousin of GEORGE KENDALL, member of the first Jamestown Council, also a cousin of Edward and Miles Kendall, the latter became Governor of Bermuda Islands. Sandys controlled the Kendall stock in the Virginia Company and after a bitter fight got control of the Company and ordered the Governor in 1619 to call an "Assembly of Burgesses" which he did, and the American way of free government was established and for a third of a century Lt Col. Kendall served as a member and was Speaker when he died in 1686, and his oldest son Capt. William Kendall succeeded him with years of services.

OLD CHURCHES AND MILLS

We find in the various memorandums, of the Kendall, Lee, and Washington families the mention of churches they belonged to and supported, namely, St. Lukes, 1632, oldest protestant church, some call it Benns Church; St. Mary's White church, 1650; Old Christ's Church 1662; Ware Church 1693; St. Peter's Church 1700; St. John 1727; Bruton Parish 1710; Aquia Church 1757, Black Hawk 1737; Glebe Church 1738; Pohick Church 1773; Yeocomico Church 1706; North Farnaham 1737; Christ's Church 1732. We also note that many Kendalls took corn and wheat to Old Wren's Water Power Mill built in 1646 to be ground. It is still in use, a short distance from James town, 1942.

KENDALLS FROM LAND BOOKS AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Verified by Nell M. Nugent, Land Office Clerk.

Names of Governors of Virginia signing various deeds for property to Kendalls 1662 to 1849. William Berkly, Patrick Henry, David Campbell, John B. Floyd; Edmond Randolph, Windham Robertson, Francis Nicholson, Lord Culpepper, Lord Howard, James P. Preston, and Lord Fairfax.

Gov. Randolph issued three Land Office Treasury Warrants Book 17-page 456 for two tracts of land in Nelson county, Va. for 664 and 456 acres, which lie near the Old Stafford County home of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall, and the warrants were issued to William Kendall dated August 17, 1728. Lord Fairfax deeded 402 acres to William Kendall, February 26, 1728-29 in Stafford County. This was the youngest son of John Kendall, kinsman, and Susanna Savage. Gov. Patrick Henry issued land warrants Nos. 36, April 13, 1786, and 3, 375 to Wm. Kendall for land in Jefferson County (W). Va. Gov. Windham Robertson deeded Rev. William Kendall, son Samuel Kendall, twin, 1749-1821, 50 acres of land on Dent's Run, Harrison County (now Marion) W. Va., above Samuel Kendall, Jr., twin brother of Rev. Willliam, Nov. 30, 1836. Book 86-page 521, Richmond, Va. Assignee of Samuel Kendall, Jr., son of Samuel Kendall, Sr., twin, 1749-1821 Land Warrent No. 1618 in exchange for 100 acres of land in Harrison county, Dent's Run, branch of Buffalo Creek, including the upper forks of said river, Nov. 30, 1836, Book 86, page 524. (This is west of Mannington, W. Va.) Samuel Kendall, Jr., Book 88 page 112, Richmond, Va., land warrent No. 12,661 exchanged for 115 acres of land in Harrison County (now Marion), Dent's Run, Buffalo Creek beginning at the corner of a 600 acre survey made for John Dent adjacent to Samuel Grubb February 1, 1838 by Gov. David Campbell. Same Samuel Kendall, Jr., Book 89 page 160, Richmond, Va., Land Warrant 12,795 for 150 acres Harrison County (now Marion), Dent's Run Buffalo Creek, beginning at 100 acre survey of Samuel Kendall, father of Samuel Jr. and 50 acre survey of Stephen Kendall, Nov. 30, 1838 by Gov. Campbell Same Samuel Kendall, Jr. Book 101 p. 304, Richmond, Va., Land Warrant No. 15,169 for 72 acres of land adjacent to said Kendall and George Baker, Marion County, Dent's Run February 28, 1849 by Gov. John B. Floyd. Some of these warrents were received for military service. Samuel Kendall's twin brother William, went to Nelson and Meade Counties, Kentucky, where there are many descendents.

THE FIRST FAMILIES OF THE JAMESTOWN SETTLEMENT

The business books of John Kendall, kinsman, and his half brother, Lt. Col. William Kendall make it very evident that these two Kendalls knew all the first families of the Jamestown settlement 1607 to 1686. It is remarkable how these names are still common among the people yet throughout the country. The following names are taken from their records: John Savage, John Robins, Thomas Taylor, Edward Delby, Capt. Philip Taylor, Maj. William Andrews, Col. Obed Robins, Capt. John Howe, William Jones, Richard Jacobs, Thomas Smith, Theodore Denton, William Whittington, John Vines, Thomas Bell, Maj. Tilney, Col. Edmond Scarburgh, Henry Smith, Robert Johnson, William Morgan, Theodore Pierce, Christopher Dickerson, John Hawkins, Elizabeth Merrick, Thomas Mackmillion, John Carr, Francis Allen, Stephen Horseley, John Kendall, John Tomlin, Henry Newton, John Jones, Elizabeth Stewart, Mary Gale, Thomas Barrows, Mary Hill, Alice Merils, Abraham Reed, Robert Cook, William Bendon, Roger Roberts, William Roberts, Robert Foster, Thomas Brown, Daniel Quillian, John Mackeel, Thomas Kendall, Richard Davis, Hannah Howard, Edward Huntstone, John Hunter, John Holmes, Theodore Daniel, Mary Rossey, Thomas Leggin, Walter Matthews, Daniel Baker, Samuel Palmer, Arthur Upshur, John Neale, George Lee, Richard Lee, Hancock Lee, (son-in-law of Lt. Col. Wm. Kendall), Thomas Moore, Thos. Poynter, John Bellamay, John Stokley, Gov. Nathaniel Bacon, William Cole, Lt. Col. Wm. Waters, Daniel Neech, Peter Dalcourt, Richard Halloway, commander of the ship Endeavor, and Thomas Clayton, etc.

Lt. Col. Wm. Kendall owned several ships. Gov. Berkley deeded him 200 acres of land for transporting two negroes, Mingo and Charles and Henry Barns, and Walter Mannington from England to Jamestown. He also gave him on same date for transporting seven persons first class 350 acres of land, William Kendall, William Lewis, Ann Bishop, Miles Cranes, Michael Froft, Mary Knight, and a negro, Col. Kendall received more than 30,000 acres of land in this way.

LT. COL. WILLIAM KENDALL'S family history is fully written in the records in Northampton and Accomac Counties, Virginia, and in his will, War Record, Marriages, Published by Stratton Nottingham, Onancock, Va. a descendant. Also see Hennings Statutes, Vols I and II for the years 1655 to 1686. His half-brother, John,"my kinsman" and himself owned a large part of the peninsula of Virginia. Col. Kendall owned and operated merchant ships between America and England, and received about 30,000 acres of land from the government for transportation of colonists, and their names may be found in the Archives at Richmond and the amount of land given for each one of them. He operated mills, tanneries, blacksmith shops, general stores, warehouses for the handling of fur and tobacco. John Kendall, kinsman was his business manager, receiving an annual salary of 24,000 pounds of tobacco. The genealogy of his family down to date may be had from Genealogists at Richmond, Va., where most of the records may be found in Library and the Land Office. Most of the Kendalls in Kentucky, southern Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and other southern states, can trace their ancestry back to him, and John Kendall, kinsman. Lt. Col. William Kendall (1599-1686) has an interesting and thrilling history. We have not been able to get a picture of either Lt. Col. Kendall or John Kendall, kinsman. However our English Genealogist informs us if we will look at WENDELL PHILLIPS with his burnsides, found in American histories, and FRANCIS PARKMAN, we can see a 99% likeness of them Phillips representing Col. Kendall and Parkman, John, the kinsman.

KENDALLS OF KENDALIA, WEST VIRGINIA

Kendalia is located in the eastern part of Kanawha County, W. Va. on Blue Creek where Joseph Chancelor Kendall, born 1798, died 1865—located after purchasing 39,000 acres of timerland. He married Elizabeth Anderson Burgess. Mr. Kendall came from King George County, Va., and the Burgess family from Luray, Va., with 100 slaves and started the Salt Works on Elk River and built the big chimney. They are buried in Kendalia Cemetery. They built the first Cabin in Elk District in 1834. Joseph Chancelor Kendall had a son, JAMES EDWARD KENDALL, married Elmira Guthrie, born 1835. Had children: Fred A; Floyd, Albert, Frank, Elmira, wife of C. Brock, and Junius E. (to this number Frank E. Connor, grandson adds Nora and Alma. James Edward Kendall went back to his estate in King George County, Va. in 1900. Of the above his son JUNIUS E. KENDALL was elected and served as a member of the W. Va. Legislature in 1891. He married Nettie Fulks. James C. Kendall was first married to Margaret Hill and had Ernest and Elizabeth. Frank E. Connor, grandson of James E. Kendall says, "Edward Kendall, father of Waffendal Kendall, and Waffendal Kendall, father of Edward Kendall, who is the father of Joseph O. Kendall, who is the father of James Edward Kendall of King George County, Va. Rebecca Jane daughter of Jos. C. Kendall married George Washington Hill, father of O. D. Hill of Kendalia, W. Va. Junius E. Kendall, his great grandfather, James Kendall, son of Waffendal and Peggy Kendall, Captain of a trading schooner on the Potomac river married Rebecca Wroe, great granddaughter of Pocahontas. Mr. J. Logan Kendall, Louisville, Ky., runs it thus, Thomas, Sr., and Jr., William (Combs) Samuel Sr., then Samuel Jr. Kendall married Elizabeth Waffendal, daughter Francis Waffendal, son of Adam Waffendal Samuel Kendall ,Jr., died 1789. Children: Frances married Thomas Berry 1732-1798, and had John; Washington, Lawrence, Joseph, Jane married John Kerchevil, and went to Ky.; Sally, married Thornton Washington; Benjamine Waffendal died 1792 married Susanna; He, a Revo. soldier and had William, Betsy W.; Sally Kemp; Samuel., James married Rebecca Wroe, Great granddaughter Pocahontas; Samuel married Winefred—; William died 1789, had children, Sarah married and had Pood, John. Here is another geneology of the above Kendall family:—

Through the KENDALL FAMILY of King George County, Va. Lineage of KENDALL C. B. GRAHAM KIMBERLAND born Oct. 15, 1907—Charleston W. Va., Att. Chase National Bank, N. Y. Member Empire State Society S. A. R. visited Kendall Westmorland Co. England. Son of H. Maynard Kimberland born April 23, 1878, Wellsburg, W. Va., married Angie Graham Kimberland, born Dec. 4, 1881, Hamlin, W. Va. Live at 548 Riverside Drive, N. Y. Daughter of Rev. C. B. Graham, born May 20, 1850, died Jan. 21, 1932, Charleston, W. Va., married Antoinette Hill, born at Kendalia, W. Va., daughter of George Washington Hill, born Feb. 8, 1821, Fayette County W. Va., died July 8, 1887, married Rebecca Jane Kendall, born November 7, 1824 at Sanderson, W. Va., died Mar. 1, 1908, at Kendalia. Daughter of Elizabeth Anderson Burgess born 1805, Luray, Va., died Jan. 21, 1880 married Dec. 10, 1823 to Joseph Chancellor Kendall born February 9, 1798 in King George county, Va.; died June 27, 1865 at Sanderson, now W. Va. He was in the War of 1812 at age of 13 years. He was the son of James Kendall born 1761, King George County, Va. and Rebecca Wroe (Rowe) born 1764 in Stafford County, Virginia on Rosiers Creek on the Potomac river. James and Rebecca Wroe Kendall were married in 1780. Mr. Kendall died at his plantation, located 40 miles from Mount Vernon and 7 miles from Wakefield in West Morland County, Va. in 1825. Rebecca Wroe, his wife, was a great grand daughter of Pocahontas, the Indian Princess. James Kendall was aide to his father at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. James Kendall was the son of Susanna White born 1743 died 1790, married 1760 to Col. Wafandahl Kendall born 1740 died 1796; High Sheriff, Justice of the Peace, Assemblyman from King George County, Va., on Washington's staff at Yorktown. (So far we believe this LINEAGE is CORRECT—but from here on we think it is not.) It says—"Father of Wafendahl Kendall was John Kendall of Northampton County, married Margaret Peggy Wafendahl in 1752, and John Kendall's father was William who married Susanna Pott in 1658 (see elsewhere in this book). This marriage is all right, but Lt. Col. William Kendall had only two children by Mrs. Pott—Capt. William and Mary. No John. It says Col. William's father was Francis Kendall, of Belle Haven (Alexander) Va. William's father was William of England, never came to America. They say Francis father was George Kendall, who came over with Jamestown Colony in 1607. George had no wife with him and he was murdered in a few months after he came here. So he could not have been the father of this Francis. (Better run this lineage by way of John and Susanna Savage Kendall, his son William of Westmorland and King George Co. We think it would make the correction. J. W. Baker attorney of Winchester, Va. has the "Wefendall Kendall" records and his Rev. War Serv. Rec. His pension records show he had James, William, Samuel, and two daughters. Mr. Frank E. Connor of Morgantown, W. Va., closes his records as a grandson of JAMES E. KENDALL, saying, "Preston Connor and Rachel Kendall, married Aug. 29, 1843 at Covington, Va. She was the daughter of James and Mary Lockhart Kendall born in Allegheny Co. Pa. Sept. 22, 1822. Wilson Kendall, a brother of Rachel Kendall-Connor went to Mo. and as a farmer was twice married and had a large family. (We have given this lineage considerable space because these families figure so much in the W. Va., Ky., Ohio, southern Ill, Tenn. La., and Texas Kendalls. It may help untangle many geneologies.)

BERKELEY COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA

It is in this county we find our name spelled "Kindle" more times than in any other county in the United States. Out of a large number of marriage and Land Records we only find four names spelled "Kendall."

Top-left to right—1. and 2. Rev. Fielding Kendall, Wife, Amelia Greffar. 3. and 4. Rev. Louis Kendall, Wife, Josephine Alexander. Bottom-left to right—5. and 6. Rev. Amos Kendall, Wife, Lela Pearl Williams. 7. Martha E. Holcombe, a Kendall relative. 8. Erma Lee Kendall Headly. Three were Methodist ministers.

Thomas born 1616, married Rebecca—: lived at Reading, Mass. and had 10 daughters and one son—born between 1642 to 1663—Elizabeth, Rebecca, Mary, Hannah, Sarah, Sarah 2nd. Abigail, Susanna, Tabitha. Ruth died in infancy, Thomas, born 1663 died 1664. Eight of the above married and had big families.

FRANCIS KENDALL in 1658 made affidavit that his age was about 38 years making him born in 1620. But in 1662 he made affidavit that he was about 48 years of age, making him born in 1614. Another record says he died in 1708, age 89 years, indicating he was born in 1619. His wife died in 1905. They first lived at Charleston and later moved to Woburn, Mass, where you find this record:—

"Francis Kendall, alias Miles, and Mary Tedd (Tidd) married 24th of 10th month (24 Dec. Died August) 1644."

Children: born 1646 to 1666. John, married three times, had 11 children; Thomas, twice married and 10 children; Mary, Elizabeth, Hannah, Rebecca, Samuel married twice, 10 children; JACOB, married twice had 21 children; Abagail.

There are several thousand descendants of the above families in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, in Canada, and all along the border states to the Pacific Ocean. We published a brief history in the Kendall Journal dated August 29, 1931, Grafton, W. Va., prepared by Lieut. C. E. Kendall, of Vancouver, B. C., Canada. It may be found in many libraries. There are extensive Genealogies to be had on the above families. "Great Familles with Great Records."

Dennis L. and Elizabeth (Carson) Kendall, Vancouver, Canada, married 1854. Dennis son of Isaac and Harriett Kendall; when they died they had 103 living descendants—this number has since increased. They had 12 children: Anne, Laura, William, Isaac Newton, James, Emma Florence, Oren, Henry, Charles, Mabel Ira, George and Arthur. All of these grew to manhood and womanhood, married and raised families of their own. Dennis Kendall passed to his reward Nov. 2, 1912, in his 80th year, and is buried in Mt. View Cemetery, Vancouver, B. C., along with mother and Arthur.

My mother had one son and 12 grandsons in the World War No. 1 in France.

DENNIS L. KENDALL, 1833-1912, wife, Elizabeth Carson. They represent the 6th generation born in America, and the First in Canada. This family had 12 children: Anne, Laura, William, Isaac Newton, James, Emma Florence, Oren, Henry, Charles, Mabel Ida, George, and Arthur. All lived, married and had families. At the death of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Kendall they had 103 living descendants. They had one son and twelve grandsons in World War one. They sleep in Vancouver Cemetery, Vancouver, Canada. Their son in World War one, Sergeant Charles E. Kendall, 67th Bn. "Western Scots" machine gunner, and with his fine war record, lives in Vancouver, Canada.

LEVI AND LORENA LYMAN KENDALL, born about 1798, had son, Levi Newel Kendall born in New York at Lockport, and his father was born in Michigan. Levi Newel Kendall married Elizabeth Clements, born May 17, 1836. Had 12 children: Lucy Ann, Sarah Elizabeth, Eleanor Darcus, born Jan. 24, 1854, (married Charles John Johnson, parents of Mrs. Marion B. Romriell, P. O. Box 125, McCammon, Idaho, who furnishes this data), Roxie Jane; Electa Victoria, Ruben Newel, Margaret, Samuel, Derius, Charles Clarence, Julius Nathaniel, Beartha Pearl, Owen Elijah. At the death of this wife he married her sister, Eliza Clements, and had 12 more children. We have the names of 9 of them: Levi Cyrus, born Oct. 14, 1849; Lorena, Joseph, Justice, Ada Mariah, Charlotte, Nancy, baby died in infancy, David. These families live mostly in Utah and Idaho, and most likely are descendants of the New England Kendall branch. Mrs. Romriell also speaks of Benjamine Franklin Bowman, and wife Sarah Jane Kendall, born April 15, 1864, daughter of William and Joanna Peek Kendall.

"My grandfathehr, Jeremiah Kendall, as born in Ky. in 1818; moved to Indiana, where my father, Henry Kendall, was born in 1844. My Grandfather, Jeremiah, census inquiry in 1880 stated that his father (believed to be Yelvington, or Yelbert Kendall) was born in North Carolina. Jeremiah's brothers were, James, John, William, and Samuel. I am sure my family is of the Southern Kendall branch, and not the New England." The author of this book had a great, great uncle, William Kendall, twin, born 1749, in Farquir Co., Va., who lived in Meade and Nelson Counties in Ky., neighbor to a relative "Yelly" (Yelbert Kendall, born 1773, married Amy Kendall, August 4, 1794. Marriage license recorded in Nelson county.

HANCOCK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Copied from a KENDALL BIBLE AND PRAYER BOOK owned by William and Philistia Kendall, published in 1753. Owned by Bertha Kendall Huddleston and brother Homer, children of Thomas Messmore Kendall, who is a son of William and Elizabeth Moffett Kendall, married in 1830. Records copied Nov. 20, 1940 and furnished by Susie M. Passmore of Butte, Montana. These Kendalls are believed descendants of John Kendall, kinsman and from Northern Neck, of Va.

William Kendall, born 1750; Mary 1753, Jeremiah Bryan, born 1758; Elisha Broden, born 1767.

WILLIAM KENDALL, born September 7, 1733, John born, 1736, Sarah, born 1737, Mary born Jan. 14, 1738, Ruth, 1741; Martha 744, Elizabeth, 1747, William, born 1770; Martha, Jeremiah, Thomas, born 1765; William Kendall, born August 7, 1733, married Sarah Bryan May 20, 1756 Mary, married Kasson Bradon, May 5, 1766.

Ray. 1823, William married Elizabeth Moffett, 1830, Thomas, married Rebecca Messmore, 1860; William, and wife Priscella, located at Sacramento, Calif. A large number of Kendalls are buried on the Kendall farm 6 1-2 mmiles east of Bently, Hancock county, Ill. This farm has been in this William Kendall family for more than 100 years. One of this family joined the D. A. R. on Jeremiah Kendall's record, and being only one Jeremiah Kendall in the Revolutioniary War, born in old Stafford Co., Va., and later lived near Uniontown, Pa., where he died in 1843, and an uncle of my granafather, Elias Kendall, who was born 1816, son of Rev. William of Dent's Run, Marion Co., W. Va. who was a son of Samuel, born 1749, twin to William, who went to Meade Co., Ky., and Jeremiah, as their youngest brother, born 1758, who served in the Revolutioniary and Indian wars, under Mad Anthony Wayne, 1794, a relative and the War of 1812 with his son, Gen. William Kendall, of Portsmouth, Ohio, who was the father of 15 children, who we think could tie into some of the above. William and Philistia Kendall were born in Gallatin Co., Ky., where their parents went before 1801. John Kendall, son of William, 1770, married Virginia Graves, and named his oldest son Benjamine after Benj. Graves of Va. John Kendall of Sangamon Co., Ill., says, "John was married in Va. in the community of the Graves settlement". We briefly give part of this Kendall Bible and Prayer Book Record, because this family involves so many western Kendall families. There are two John Kendall, kinsman, Bibles. This may be one of them.—a copy.

"HOW O.K CAME INTO USE"

Extract from a newspaper reporter, of Antrim, N. H., Nov. 26, 1924, "It is derived from two sources, Andrew Jackson and O. KENDALL & Sons. Andrew Jackson borrowed the abbreviation from the Chocktaw Indians, and Chickasaws, who had no verb corresponding to "be", instead the word "okeh" closed positive statements. It meant "it is so", or "it is right." Second explanation is made at the death of Cornelius Kendall, in 1909, youngest son of Oran Kendall, whose initials were used for O. K. He was a member of the Chicago Board of Trade Battery in the Civil war, and a member of O. Kendall & Sons, bakers, who printed on all bread and crackers furnished the army "O. K." We have heard many Civil War veterans say when these crackers came around, "These are O. K." or "Give us more O. K. Hardack."

A member of the W. Va. Legislature 1927-1928. Editor and Publisher of the Kendall Journal; made a Map of Taylor County, pronounced by the National Advertising Association as the best piece of publicity presented to them; made and issued a Statistical and Historic Calendar of Taylor County which attracted the attention of the Insurance and Bonding Companies of the U.S.A.; prepared and issued a calendar displaying the first three boys, and their mothers, with their history, killed in the first World War; occupied the old sheriff's residence and jail, while Assistant Superintendent of the Industrial School for Boys, and was converted under the preaching of Rev. E. D. W. King, Methodist minister, in the very room from which General Butler freed the first slaves, as a result of the Civil War. Rev. King remarked that "Kendall was as happy as the colored men who received their freedom in that room from slavery." This was January 21, 1897. Was received in the Pruntytown M. E. Church, by Dr. King, Jan. 22, 1897; baptized Aug. 8, 1897. Aided in organizing the Evergreen Musical Association of Northern West Virginia, and was its Secretary for five years, now the oldest organization of its kind in the state. Member of Pruntytown Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 23; member of the Masonic Lodge No 15, of Grafton, W. Va.

The Kendalls are from England, and had much to do in establishing the first permanent English settlement in America at JAMESTOWN, Virginia.

HOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

We sent out the following inquiry to many Kendalls in the United States and Canada: What changes have taken place in the business and social customs of the Kendalls within the memory of man? Replies came back from the Pacific Coast, the Rocky Mountains, the Southern Cotton Fields, the Western Plains, the Allegheny Mountains, the Atlantic Seaboard, and the Broad Spaces of Canada, saying, "I am 60, 75, 80, 90, 97 years old, and in my young days I remember when women wore flannel nightgowns, high-top buttoned shoes, knitted wool stockings, coton stockings, ruffled muslin drawers, petticoats, corsets, bustles, hoop skirts, long tailed dresses, rats in their hair, bangs on their foreheads, and low heeld shoes, slat and pleated bonnets, shawls, and high-necked dresses, did their own cooking, baking, washing, ironing, cleaning, rubbed snuff, didn't cuss much, raised big families, went to church on Sunday, and in fact too busy to be sick, complaining, or grunty.

Men wore long hair and whiskers, high top boots, stove pipe hats, square hats, pickle dish hats, ascot ties, straw hats, hobnail shoes, red flannel underwear, plaid shirts, big watch and chain, chopped wood for fuel, bathed once a month, whether they needed it or not, drank hard-cider, and hair tonic for stimulants, went in for "politicks," worked 14 hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

Our stores were lighted with tallow candles, and coal lamps, they carried everything from a pin to a plow, trusted everybody, used the scratch-pad system of bookkeeping, never took inventory, placed orders for goods a year in advance and always made money.

They go on to say:

"Now in our old age women wear hobble skirts, X-ray skirts—like a barbed wire fence protects the property without obstructing the view—Split skirts, short skirts, silk stockings, low shoes, high heel shoes, shoes full of holes with little soles, anything for a hat, no corsets, an ounce of underwear, bobbed hair, smoke, paint, powder, have their face lifted, drink beer, and cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs, cats, and monkeys, and wade into "politicks to their eyes."

Men have high blood pressure, nervous breakdowns, apoplexy, fits, heart failure, wear no hats, and some no hair, shave their whiskers off twice a day, shoot golf, ride airplanes, bathe twice a day, drink poison, play the stock market, never go to bed the same day they get up, are misunderstood at home, worke five hours a day, play 12 hours and die young.

Our stores have electric lights, elevators, cash registers, seldom have what the customer wants, trust nobody, take inventory every day, no advance buying, have mark ups and mark downs, overhead, quote, budget, stock control, advertising, birthday, monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, annual, dollar day, founder's day, rummage and economy day sales, and never make any money."

This is the sum up of what these old Kendalls have observed in the last 80 years. THE MORE SERIOUS MINDED SAID their great uncle, and grandfather had seen the first steam boat that crossed the Atlantic, and had ridden on the first steam railroad train, saw the first electric lighting system, the first telegraphic system, first telephone, first flying machine, first automobile, first brick paved street, the first modern saw mill, the first electric car and train, and so on. My great uncle Rev. Dave Cunningham, born in 1803, my first school teacher, and as I write this in the year 1942 am reminded that he and I have covered 139 years of this period in which all this and much more has taken place. We are also reminded that we are not much younger than UNCLE SAM who is now directing and fighting an all out Planetary War, the first of its kind in the History of this Earth Planet.

RESTLESS KENDALLS

There are recorded 211 Kendall marriages in Washington county, Md. from 1798 to 1927. Hagerstown 1929 City Directory shows only 16 Kendalls living there now. They migrated from here to every state in the union, and to Canada and Mexico, hunting for better land when they were sitting on the best land in the world.

Mrs. Kendall's sister Mattie, married Prof. Claude E. Vincent, had a daughter Irene Vincent, deputy clerk in United States Court, married W. G. Fowler. Live at Fairmont, W. Va.

Jacob Jones' Log Hut stood in the edge of his cornfield in 1777. He, a Mr. Legg, and a young woman, were hoeing corn and with them was Mr. Jones' two children, Mary age 10, John 8, who discovered Indians approaching. Mr. Jones fled to the Fort to get help, but when he returned the Indians had gone with all the rest to Ohio. The two Jones children were adopted by the Indians. Mr. Legg finally escaped and returned to tell of the fate of the children. Nothing ever heard of the young woman. Mr. Legg said he thought she had to marry a young Indian chief of the Wyandotte tribe. Mary Jones was finally released and married Peter Malott at Detroit, Michigan. This family lives at Kingsville, Canada, as descendents. John Jones after several years escaped from the Indians, and later became a noted doctor in Detroit. The Indians later captured a Mr. Huffman and took him to Kingsville, Canada, and he escaped and came back and told Mr. Jones that his daughter lived there. Mr. Malott died in 1815, and in 1817 on foot and on horseback she made the perilous journey back to Knottsville, Taylor County, W. Va., to see her parents. After an absence of 40 years.

Mrs. Kendall's ancestors are from Wales, England.

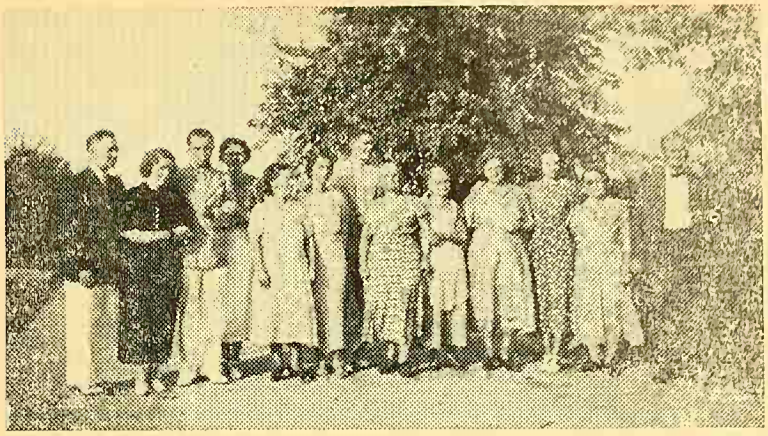
'Our forest life was rough, and rude
And danger closed us round;
But here aimd the green old wood,
Freedom was sought and found."

THE OLD LOG CABIN.

No place on earth ever had more Log Cabin Homes than America had from 1607 to 1887. Thousands of them have been destroyed and abandoned. Yet in 1942 there are still thousands of such homes in the mountains of the United States, Canada, and Mexico, standing and occupied by good citizens of these countries. We have visited many of these log cabin homes in every part of the United States and Canada, and find the architecture is the same, the furnishings, the surroundings, the added new buildings, and farm development is substantially the same for them all. The foundation ideas, and essential history of the United States of America was borned and cultivated in the Log Cabin Home. Most of us would not have to run our family history back very far until we would find a grand dad and mother sleeping, as children, in a trunnel-bed on a straw tick. In what follows we shall give you a word picture of the Log Cabin Home in which we spent the first 20 years of our life, and it will be the picture of most such homes in the mountains and hills of America. Census and other records indicate that more than 280,000 Kendall descendents have been born in the Log Cabin Home in the United States and Canada in the last 330 years.

THE OLD KENDALL LOG CABINS.

John and Susanna Savage Kendall's Log Cabin, on Cherriestone Creek on their 100 acre farm, in Northampton County, Virginia, in 1667. Thomas, his son in Accomac County, Va., in 1693, moved to Somerset County, Md., erected another in 1716. William, his son in Old Stafford County, Va. in 1716. William, Jr. his son, and wife Jamima Kirk, built their's in Old Stafford County, now Fauquier, in 1739, not far from Warronton, Va. His son



From Left to Right: 1. Hollie Custer. 2. Ada Kelley Harter Custer. 3. Nile Harter. 4. Lelah Fawcett. 5. Martha Jones Vincent. 6. Irene Vincent Fowler. 7. George Willoughby Fowler. 8. Vesta Jones Kendall. 9. Mrs. Jamima Robinson Jones. 10. Mary Jones Kelley. 11. Roselyn Reed Harter. 12. Allie Jones Reynolds. 13. William Walter Reynolds.

Samuel, twin, built his Log Cabin not far from his father's ,home, in 1778. (It was his family that moved to Dent's Run, now Marion County, W. Va.) His sons, Rev. William and Samuel, and James first built their Log Cabins in Fauquire County, Va. in 1805 - 1808 - 1810. William and Samuel moved to Dent's Run in 1818 and built Log Cabins, and James built his at Arnettsville, now Marion County, W. Va., in 1821. ELIAS KENDALL, son Rev. William, married Isabelle Snodgrass and built his hewed Log Cabin, on Warrior Fork of Buffalo Creek, ten mile west of Mannington, W. Va., in 1839. (See picture in this book). William B. C. Kendall, his son, married Rachel Virginia Cunningham, and built his hewed Log Cabin on Kendall Run, on his 100 acre farm, part of his father's farm, in 1869. (See picture in this book). Kendall Run was so named because it was owned by three Kendall brothers. Norman Festus Kendall married Vesta R. Jones, and they built a five room frame cottage for a home in Fetterman, now part of Grafton, W. Va., in 1898. This broke the Log Cabin Chain of the Kendalls after a period of 231 years 1667-1898. I was not fortunate enough to be born in a Log Cabin—I was born in a Log Hut.

THE LOG HUT.

I was born January 27, 1869, in a Log Hut, 14 by 16 feet, one story, built of round logs, puncheon floor, clapboard roof-later called the Loom House. It stood about 200 feet from my Grandfather, Elias Kendall's home. It was furnished with one bed, one rocking chair, two split bottom chairs, one small table, and the usual dishes and buckets of that day, one stove, one cradle made from a poplar block of wood two feet in diameter, three feet long, split, hollowed out like a trough, with a block of wood fastened on each side to keep it from rolling over—that was my cradle. All the furniture was made by my father. This cradle was kept for a time. When I saw it last, it was being used to catch sugar-tree-sap from which was made maple syrup and sugar. After my father moved to our Log Cabin home in 1869, my mother came back to this Loom House for a time to make jeans and flannel cloth for clothing, and yarn for socks, until we established a Loom House of our own.

MY HOME 1869-1889.

I can see vividly that wilderness farm, not a foot of cleared land on it when my father entered it to build his LOG CABIN still standing in 1942, to grub, and chop, and burn his way out to a living for himslf and his family. It was a lonely place at a dead end path, no one passing and no neighbors closer than a half mile. My father would often be away at work for days and nights at a time leaving his wife and babies all alone in the darkness of a wilderness night to be lulled to sleep by the song of the whip-poorwill, the hoot-owl, the barking of the fox the howling of the wolf, the cry of the panther the scream of the wildcat and all other weard noises of a lonely forest. That is the pioneer life and the good old days we talk and read about. I spent tewenty years in this Log Cabin, and helped my father clear seventy acres of this virgin forest. I saw this farm grow in buildings first to a smoke-house, then to a large log two story barn to house horses, feed, grain and a large work room with all kind of tools to make and repair farm machinery; next a spring house with running water in it to care for large quanities of milk and butter; then the chicken houses, commonly called hen houses; the cow barn then appeared to house and care for cows; the very necessary apple cave to care for large quanities of apples, potatoes onions, and canned fruit, constructed by excavating into a high bank 25 by 10 feet one story high, filled with bins and shelves; next the store room close by built of logs in which farm products like apples, turnips, carrots, cabbage, onions, beans, potatoes, beets, tomatoes, watermellons, pumpkins, cantaloupes, long neck gourds from which water dippers were made, chestnuts, hickory nuts, walnuts, berries, quinces, mulberries, pork, beef and mutton was prepared for the market; the lumber house was next built to house two house patterns; then the log stable to care for old horses and cows that had rendered valuable service to the family and was retired on a pension and not taken out and killed as was the general custom — my father was a veterinarian and a great lover of animals and was a stickler for fine breeds of all kinds of animals; the twin corncribs occupied a place of convenience built ten feet apart of small logs on black walnut blocks three feet high with a large piece of tin projecting out over them so mice and rats could not climb up and get in the cribs, which were about a story and a half high under one roof, the sled, or wagon, load of ears of corn was driven in between the cribs that had small doors next to the roof and the large ears of corn was thrown in one crib and the "nubbins" in the other; the wagon house in which all the farm machinery was houseed and was important as an economic measure in prolonging the life of the costly machinery; it was a new day when the old log barn gave way to the new modern frame barn; we next had the blacksmith shop the most important manufacturing plant in pioneer days. My father qualified as a carpenter, cooper, stonemason, and blacksmith. The old farmer blacksmith, like the old village blacksmith, did a variety of things. My father made horse shoes, nails, shod horses, oxen and mules, made plows, harrows, grain cradles scythes, sickles, hoes, mattocks, shovels, post diggers, single and double trees, waggons, sleds, harness, oxyokes, knives, iron wedgees, pitchforks etc. As a carpenter and cooper, and stonemason he built houses, and barns of all kinds, barrels, picture frames, trunnel beds, split bottom chairs and rockers, tables, chests, cupboards, caskets, called "coffins" in that day, etc. As veternarian, well equipped with all kinds of surgical instruments, I have seen him perform all kinds of operations, on all kinds of animals. He qualified as, extractor of teeth, and he served a large territory. I held the looking glass and watched him extract his own upper teeth, and there was no anesthetic in those days for "teeth pulling" except old mountaineer nerve and grit. Dr. James Kendall, his uncle, was the only doctor in that section of the county.

THE LAST OF THE BUILDINGS, and the last house my father ever built, was the New Home, seven room two story frame building, cut stone chimneys two double porches and one single porch, built through out with yellow poplar lumber, and painted, white. This house stood 100 feet west of the Log Cabin built in 1869. It was in the New Home that my father died in 1926 in his 82nd year, after he had followed the plow for twelve hours drawn by a young spirited team of horses. He came to the house, sat down on the porch looking at the plowed field against the hill-side for a short time as if in deep thinking, then said, "I thought I could finish plowing the field. I have worked hard for seventy years. I have done the best I could, and now life is over for me here' and died. One son had preceded him to the great beyond, as a result of an injury received while playing baseball — Porter Jonas Kendall. He died in the Log Cabin.

After my father's death, Everette G. Kendall, A. Ward Kendall, and myself purchased a 29 acre farm with a good home and barn on it, adjoining the town of Rymer, five miles west of Mannington, W. Va., on an improved road for Mother and our sister Bertha, so they would be close to church and neighbors. The old home was not on improved roads. It was in the Rymer home that Mother died April 2nd, 1936 in her 89th year. It is a great family tradgey when father and mother both depart this life. It destroys the common meeting place, the family tie, that common bond of intiment love of brothers and sisters. It brings out that spectre of forgetfulness of those for whom we should never neglect and never forget. It often sets adrift familiees who disappear, who themselves have forgotten, and have been forgotten, by those who are, and should have remained, the dearest and cloest friends, but instead they have forever faded out of that beautiful picture painted by toil, by sacrifices, by love, by devotion, by life itseelf on Memories Walls. This should not be so. Your family history should be preserved by you.

THE OLD LOG CABIN HOME

I can still see that old Log Cabin home in all its details—all its belongings built of hewed poplar logs, one and a half story high, twenty-five feet square, one big room with a chimney built of cut stone on north side of the house and a big five foot fire place. The house had two doors — one on west side the other on the east, and a window on north side of the two doors, and one window in the southside; a scuttle hole four feet square was made in the outside chimney corner, which could be reached by a ladder to enter the attic or garret. The one big room was used for living room, kitchen, dining room, bed room, study and recreational room, and loom house, for father, mother and eight kids. We can see a bed in each corner and under each bed a "trundle" bed; between the beds a spinning-wheel and a loom and carding machine; split-bottom chairs here and there, some with rockers; a cradle under the window-out of service for a little while, but waiting with confidence. We can never forget that ordeal in zero weather of going out in the back yard to that old wash basin with a saucer full of soft soap to wash. My father built a front porch extending it around to the chimney corner, in order that a permanent ladder could be placed to get to the attic. He then ran a petition through the big room leaving the beds and loom to themselves, and placed three beds in the garret. So when bed time came it fell to the lot of Porter, Ross, Ward, Howard, and myself to make a dive for those beds by going out on the porch, up that ladder, and through that scuttle hole into those beds. When there were several men around the house wearing rawhide boots in all kinds of weather the boot-jack was a very important piece of pioneer equipmemnt unless you wanted to sleep and die with your boots on.

IT WAS IN THE OLD LOG CABIN that we had our apple cuttings, bean stringings, quilting, and out on the farm the grubing-frolic, log rollings, brush and log burnings, corn huskings, barn and house raisings etc., and then the big parties at night usually lasting till 4 o'clock in the morning. When the fiddler took his seat and began to saw his fiddle and pat his right foot the crowd paired off and danced the French four, six and eight hand reels, the cotillion, the Virginia reel. Then the contest as to who could dance the double shuffle, the jig, and the clog steps the best. Following this came the rest period and refreshments. The frolic then changed to kissing games—the Needle's Eye, Sister Phoebe, London Bridge, Pig in the Parlor, Poor Chimney Sweep, Happy Is the Miller, Post Office, Farmer in the Dell, Stripping the Willow, Pop the Weasel, Hanging in the Well, etc. If you were twenty feet in the well it took twenty kisses to get you out. Our old Log Cabin saw many of these old time frolics. In the early 80's if a farm boy worked 55 hours in five and one-half days a week he was allowed Saturday afternoons off to attend the sports at the ball diamonds on the farms of Elias Kendall, Alph. Snodgrass, and Frank Campbell. We had an organization with a membership of of 36 girls and 40 boys, called "The Club for Fun". I had the honor to be the "Manager" and Hagar Ott, secretary. The program at these fields consisted of Town Ball, Baseball, "Bull Pen Ball', Wrestling and Boxing Matches, Horse Shoe Pitching, High Jumping, Foot Racing, a 300 Yard Dash, Walking 100 feet on your hands, with the feet in the air, Run and single long jump. (Hagar Ott was the champion in this field, with 23 feet and 9 inches to his credit), "Bub" Toothman, champion back - hold wrestler, Elza Mike, side hold wrestler. The hop, step, jump contest always went to Frank Toothman, father of ex-sheriff and ex-county superintendent of schools of Marion county—Hon. Homer Toothman. Mr. Toothman was a cousin of my father, and one of my old McGuffey school teachers, who honestly believed the world was flat. He thought old Mitchell and his Geography was just cock-eyed in saying it was round. He was an excellent teacher, however. Trainer Snodgrass, a cousin of Prof. Tooth man, argued very persistently with Mr. Toothman, against his idea of a flat world. Finally Mr. Toothman said, "Well Trainer it is regretable, in deed, that your capacity, seems to limit you to understanding only idiotic ideas, and I am sorry to say that you have a master mind in that direction".

SHOOTING MATCHES and horse-shoe pitching was the chief sport of the fathers and old bachelors. It goes without saying that to get a turkey, chicken, or pig one had to drive the tack through the board; occasionially they fought dogs and wildcats and black bear that made their appearance in the community quite frequently. Fox chasing was the great winter sport led by Hon. Clem L. Shaver, my cousin, Elisha Snider, John and Frank Campbell, Elery and Will Evans. I have seen as many as 178 hounds after one fox pass through our farm. Watching that big red fox playing along in front of the hounds to urge them on, and that long line of hounds strung out over the beautiful snow - red spotted, black, brindle, striped, yellow hounds, and the deafening noise they made was really a sight worth seeing, and a noise indescribable. Mr. Shaver says "it is not noise, but the most beautiful music in the world".

THE CHURCH SCHOOL HOUSE

This house built of hewed logs by the citizens of the community for the two fold purpose of a church and school house. It served a territory about four miles square, part in Wetzel and part in Marion counties, and built on the Marion county side, on top of the dividing ridge at Brink, between the Monongahela and Ohio rivers at the very head of Buffalo creek that flows through Rymer, Logansport, Mannington, Farmington, Barracksville, Barnsville, into the river at Fairmont, W. Va. There were 22 families with a total of 88 children of school age to be served by this building, which was 28 by 36 feet, one story, on a solid stone foundation. It had one door, and two large windows on each side of the house; a 10 inch raised platform, 5 feet wide ran entirely across the rear of the room, called the recitation platform; on the wall back of this platform a black-board ran across the room, made of poplar boards 2 inches thick, two feet wide, two boards running length wise, making the board four feet wide; the writing table was 14 feet long, two and one-half feet wide constructed on the east side of the room under the windows, by boring holes in the wall, driving heavy pins into them and placing a board on them. The entire building was filled with benches, without backs in them, made from chestnut logs, about 8 inches in diameter, split, with pins, in them for legs. A wood stove stood in the center of the room in a box of dirt 3 by 5 feet to prevent coals of fire from dropping on the wood floor, and during church services, while the men and women were listening to two and three hour sermons (and they were that long, believe it or not) the men could "squirt" their tobacco juice, and the women their "snuff-saliva" into this dirt box for evaporation.

I KEPT THE RECORD for Prof. Frank Toothman, father of Sheriff and ex-county superintendent of schools of Marion county, when he taught two terms here. He had a daily attendance of 87 with classes ranging from the A B C classes to higher mathematics. He used from 8 to 10 of his best scholars to assist him with the classes. During the first two terms of school 1875-1877 every one "studied-out-loud". We were instructed to speak low, but before ten minutes had passed, we were yelling at the top of our voices so we could hear what we were saying. The term of school was at first three months and then four months. The wages were $18 for No. 3 certificate, $20 for No. 2, and $22.50 for No. I and for this the teacher had to build his own fires and do his own janitor work. It might appear that a school like this would be useless.

However it has to its credit, one sheriff, one county superintendent of schools, twelve very good school teachers, one very prominent lawyer, one physician and county health officer, two bankers, a member of the legislature, six oil company officials, one very prominent Methodist minister and church official, one million dollar oil oerpator, five merchants, and quite a number of good mechanics and farmers and general business men.

BILLY SUNDAY

During a conversation with Billy Sunday, one of the great Evangelists of the 20th Century, of our personal pioneer days with its ups and downs and hardships, he handed me the following poem:

And today something tugs at my heart strings, saying:
I want to go back to the orchard,
The orchard that used to be mine;
Where the apples are redd'ning
And filling the air with wine.

I want to wake up in the morning
To the chirp of the birds in the eaves;
I want the west winds through the cornfields
To rustle the leaves.

I want to run on through the pastures,
And let down the dusty old bars;
I want to find you there still waiting,
Your eyes blazing like the twin stars.

O, nights — you are weary and dreary;
All days—there is something you lack.
To the old farm in the valley—
I want to go back.

MRS. C. P. KENDALL, wife of Commander Kendall of the Coast Guards christened the Nemesis as she slid into the Ohio river at Point Pleasant, W. Va., and to be stationed at St. Petersburg, Florida.

DOG WITH "HUMAN HEART."

Dr. W. G. Kendall is known the world over as the "father" of the Boston Terrier dog—the dog with a "Human Heart." In 1877 he established his Squantum Kennels from which he breeds the Boston Terrier. These kennels are located at Atlantic, Mass., and are the largest in the world. Dr. Kendall is founder of the Boston Bicycle Club, and is still its president 1941. He is author of several books and is Boston's best known sportsman.

A LIVE DEED 509 YEARS OLD 1942

Mrs. Angelina G. Symons, now the only surviving daughter of Squire Edward Kendall, of England, has a deed made to William and John Kendall dated in 1433 taking title to The Kendall Manor of Austrey, England. The Editor of this Book has a copy of that deed which is now 509 years old. The Kendalls have owned this Kendall Manor, continuously for more than five centuries and still own it. It is one of the longest unbroken titles on record. Rev. William Kendall's wife of Dent's Run, Marion County, W. Va., was Elizabeth Simmons. (New way of spelling Symons) is a descendant of this ancient Symons family. Mrs. Kendall is the writers great grandmother.

H. P. KENDALL, of Boston, owner of the Kendall Cotton Mills, is noted for placing human dividends ahead of money dividends. "My workmen must have what is justly theirs, first, and that must be the best." Mr. Kendall has had several conferences with President Roosevelt.

DR. ARTHUR I. KENDALL, of the Northwestern University, professor of bacteriology, announces the discovery of what his colleagues term the most important victory in the isolation of bacteria since the discoveries of Pasteur.

Advice to his six boys—When you boys are in doubt what to do —don't do it—Wm. B. C. Kendall.

MONMOUTH

Mrs. John A. Kendall of Tarkio, Mo., writes us that in 1831, Monmouth, Ill., was laid out and named. John Kendall came to Illinois in 1830; he married Elizabeth Gibson in Green county, Ohio, in 1819, a sister of James Gibson, who married Sarah Kendall, a sister of James and F. S. Kendall. The Kendalls and Gibsons had the contract to build the Court House at Monmouth, and the day it was raised, Ann, Elizabeth, and Mrs. John Kendall cooked the dinner at Mrs. Robert Kendalls one mile from the new town of Monmouth. Robert Kendall came earlier and had the only cabin in that section with a fireplace, stone hearth, backwalls, with jam stones. Here the Kendall women cooked the dinner and carried it a mile to the workmen at the court house, where it was spread out on the prairie grass. This was the menu—loaves of bread, dried peach pies, drled apples, beef, pork, butter, pickles, custard, coffee, tea with sugar, honey, maple syrup, potatoes, cabbage, apple butter, all this food they had brought from Ohio in the covered wagon. This was the first meal ever eaten in Monmouth, Illinois. The Kendalls bought large tracts of land in and around Monmouth. The Kendalls were the largest donors to Monmouth College, and to the construction of churches in Monmouth.

God says "Try Me." You people on Dent's Run have tried card playing, dancing, dog fighting, foot racing, horse racing, bull fighting, fist fighting, wrestling, pitching horse shoes, bean stringings, apple cuttings, grubbing frolics, quiltings, town ball, bull pen, cider drinking, fussing with your neighbors, stealing chickens, watermelons, and roasting ears, lying on your neighbor, defrauding him, and cussing him, and cussing everything in and out of sight. I cannot see that you have made yourselves and your community any better by these things. Why not try God, prove Him and note the difference?—Rev. Wm. Kendall in the year 1819.

One historian says, "The Kendall family has the distinction of sending more members to the British Parliament than any other single family.

Part Two--Cunningham Genealogy

HON. CLEM L. SHAVER
Who Never Forgets He's A West Virginian.

Hon. Clem L. Shaver, born on a farm at Seven Pines, Marion County, West Virginia, eight miles west of Mannington, son of John Riffle Shaver, 1841-1909, and Sarah Cordelia Cunningham, 1844-1932; married Miss Kate Neal. No children. He was a McGuffey school teacher at the age of 17, and for ten years taught in the "Little red school houses in the mountains of West Virginia. Hon. Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said, "Clem Shaver, with his sound common sense and rare good judgement has been of inestimable value in working out difficult problems we have had with banks in every section of the United States." Mr. H. L. Newbold, said, "Mr. Shaver in my opinion has done more to help the State of West Virginia during the depression than any other man in the State, or any hundred men."

Clem Shaver was elected to the West Virginia legislature for several terms without seeking the office, making a speech, or soliciting a vote. He was for a number of years Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, The State Democratic committee, and the National Democratic Committee. Lone handed he secured the nomination of John W. Davis for president of the United States. Mr. Shaver has the distinction of making the shortest introductory speech ever made by a Chairman of the National Democratic Committee in introducting a candidate for the president of this great nation. His speech was: "Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Davis."

ciation, October 1938:—

"CLEM SHAVER WEST VIRGINIA'S VERSATILE MAN."

"You may think of him as farmer, historian, bank expert, nature lover, nationially known conservationist, or any one of a dozen other accomplishments that are his—but to us, the twenty thousand fox hunters of West Virginia, his name stands for all that is ideal, clean and high class in our sport, as it does in all his other things.

A great respected man, breeder of fine fox hounds, like himself known from coast to coast, a character whose name means to us whatever Walter Johnson's name means to the baseball world, and for all these things we dedicate this program to this grandest of fox hound followers, and Fairmont's gift to the sporting world, your friend and mine. Long may he live and prosper. "Mr. Shaver is now located in Washington, D. C."

By NORMAN FESTUS KENDALL
Grafton, W. Va.

Undaunted by dangers, unconquered, true hearted,
With ax-beaten march the brave pioneer came,
And the wild tangle vine of the wilderness parted

THE GENEALOGY AND HISTORY OF THE DISTINGUISHED CUNNINGHAM FAMILY.

What follows has been obtained after several years research in the archives of London, and in the universities of Oxford, Dublin, Edenburg, the Log books of ships carrying colonists to America, Various histories, Old news papers, School records, Old scrap books, letters, Old Church records; Tombstone inscriptions, Old family Bibles; Marriage and death records, Wills, Land grants, Deeds, Birth records etc.

CUNNINGHAM GENEALOGY:

This family is of Scotch-Irish lineage. They were, in the early days, very loyal to the English government, and when Scotland and England had difficulties the Cunninghams would gather at Cunningham Head and cross the channel into Northern-Ireland, and in disturbences between Ireland and England they would go back to Cunningham Head. As citizens of England now, they are very loyal, as is evidenced by Great Britians most famous fighting BROTHERS, Admiral Browne Cunningham, and air-Vice-Marshal Arthur Cunningham, and General Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham. Each commanded the three divisions of England's fighting forces, the Navy, the Air, the Army. They won crushing victories in North Africa in World War Two. Cunninghams are of fighting stock.

GLENN CUNNINGHAM, caught in a schoolhouse fire which took the life of his older brother, and burned his own legs so badly, the doctors thought they should be taken off to save his life. The boy said "No, I'll not die, I'll walk again. My legs shall go to the grave with me." A fighter. He learned to walk again. He trained those crippled limbs to run the fastest mile ever traveled by human legs. He is now Dr. Cunningham of the Methodist College, Cornell, of Iowa.

MISS ANN PAMELIA CUNNINGHAM, daughter of Robert and Louise Byrd Cunningham, the most distinguished woman in the Cunningham family. She was thrown from a horse in childhood and lived in an invalid's chair for the rest of her life until June 1, 1875. While passing Mount Vernon on a boat, her mother said, What can be done to save George Washington's home to the people of the United States? She said "Mother, the women of America will rescue that home for the nation." This was in 1853. The mother asked: "Who would undertake it?" The daughter said, "I will." The crowd on the boat laughted, walked away saying, "What a joke?" This aroused the "Cunningham fight" in her. In her invalid chair launched a nationwide campaign and was wheeled all over the country to raise $200,000.00, necessary to obtain the deed. After five years of suffering and superhuman effort she reached her goal, and on April 6, 1858, she was propped up in bed, and with much effort signed the final paper and John Augustine Washington, Jr., gave her a deed for 202 acres known as "MOUNT VERNON." It has grown to 420. Miss Cunningham became the heroic rescuer of Mount Vernon, the most popular shrine in America. Mr. Washington was killed while on duty at Elkwater, Randolph County, West Virginia, in the Civil War.

CUNNINGHAM CASTLE, AYRSHIRE, SCOTLAND.

Reliable Cunningham history can be traced back to the year 1150. This is about the date this Castle was built. It is located on the banks of the Garnock, 2 miles north of Kilberney, Scotland.

CUNNINGHAMS, HARRISON COUNTY, W. VA.
HUGH AND NANCY O'NEIL CUNNINGHAM DESCENDENTS.

Hugh Cunningham and his family set sail for Fairfax, Va., from Dublin, Ireland in 1752. These Virginia Cunninghams were neighbors and friends of the Spootswood, Culpeper, Arlington, Washington, and Fairfax families of England, and were at times engaged by them to aid in colonizing their vast land grants in Virginia. They were also engaged in the fur and tobacco business on a large scale. One record states that it was a Cunningham that selected the location for Romney, Va., recommending it to Lord Fairfax, who laid the town out in 1762, setting aside 100 half acre lots for the town. In 1790 there were at least eight Cunningham families in Hampshire County , in and around Romney, and these families owned about 40 buildings and thirty one slaves. Adam, Sr., lived in Shanandoah in 1790, had nine in his family and two slaves and three houses. In Monongalia County, now W. Va. John Cunningham (1745-1799) in 1790, only three in family and two houses. Edward, two in family, one house, and Samuel lived with him. In Harrison in 1790, Thomas, six in family, one house. Edward, two in family, one house. The family record shows that HUGH CUNNINGHAM came to America with their eight sons, Adam; Ephraim; Benjamine; Joseph; William; Walter; Edward; Thomas. Of these Adam, Walter, Thomas and Edward came to Harrison County, Va., locating on Cunningham's Run, near Wallace, W. Va. It was here that Thomas and Edward had their sad and awful experience with the Indians. (See Wither's Border Warfare). THOMAS CUNNINGHAM, married Phebe Tucker, born in England in 1761. Mr. Cunningham, died 1826, his wife 1845. He is buried in Ritchie County, his wife in Calhoun. Rev. James L. Clark, D.D. who built Andrews Church, Mother's Day Church, in Grafton, W. Va., delivered the memorial at her funeral, telling of her horror of having to stand by and watch her children, Henry, Lyda, Walter, and Thomas being killed and scalpt by the Indians, thinking her fate would be worse. She was carried away to Ohio and kept by the Indians, until she was exchanged for money, or its equivalent, about three years later. Upon her return she and her husband went to Ritchie County in 1807. WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM was the first child borned after the reunion, and became a noted minister; John; Rachel; Leah Phebe; Barbara; and Benjamine. Their descendents are legion now. Thomts Cunningham was the first Methodist minister in the Ritchie county section. His brother EDWARD CUNNINGHAM, married Sarah Price in Fairfax county, lived out their lives in Harrison County, where they fought the Indians. Their children, William; Joseph; Thomas; Benjamine; and Mrs. Mary Moore sleep in Harrison county; Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, Fairfield, Ohio; Mrs. Keturah Hill, in Gilmer County, and Enoch M. Cunningham, in Randolph County, W. Va. Of these JOSEPH was captured by the Shawnee Indians, at the age of eight, and was adopted by the Indian family, and remained among them for sixteen years. He was known as "INJUN JOE." He became a great hunter and pilot for the pioneers. He married a Miss Ayers. Had issue, Mrs. Samuel Warne, Parkersburg; Mrs. George Sires, Clarksburg, and Dr. John Cunningham of Ill. Enoch M. Cunningham, son of Edward, married Jane Stewart of Ritchie county and moved to Smithville of said county; had five children, one was Harrison B. ADAM CUNNINGHAM, a brother of Thomas and Edward, finally located in Ritchie county. Had twelve children in part, Adam, Jr.; Edward; Elijah; Rebecca; Drusilla; Rachel; Hannah; Anna married Nutter Webb. MARY CUNNINGHAM, born Aug. 3, 1784, died March 28, 1877, daughter Adam Cunningham, Sr., who lived on Cunningham Run, on Big Bingamon Creek, west of Mannington, W. Va. She is buried in Pitzer

House at Top.

The HOME OF JOHN CUNNINGHAM AND, WIFE CATHARINE SHUMAN built in 1772, and is in livable condition. Has been occupied for 170 years. During the Indian Raids of 1777 it was used as a fort, because it was well constructed. Mr. Cunningham died in this home in 1799. Located not far from Fairmont, W. Va., near Baxter.

Bottom Picture.

HOME OF NIMROD AND MARTHA DANLEY CUNNINGHAM.

The rear of the house is built of logs, and was built and occupied by Rev. Jesse F. and Sarah Cunningham Snodgrass about 1840. Nimrod Cunningham, uncle of Mrs. Snodgrass, bought and occupied this home in 1856, and built the two story front on it. This is the home of the mothers of Clem Shaver and the author of this book. It is now 1942 occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kendall, grand children of Nimrod Cunningham. Located 10 miles west of Mannington, W. Va., on Warrior Fork of Buffalo Creek.

Nimrod Cunningham never had a picture taken. He was a man of medium stature, quiet, kind disposition, mild melodius voice, sandy complexion, always interested in what we call "good things of life."

Children in this home: Sarah Cordelia; Newton; Rachel Virginia; Robert Lindsay, (Sheriff Marion County); Franklin P.; John Ramer.

Cemetery, Bethel Run, Marion County, W. Va. She married John Robinson, Mar. 7, 1811, born 1784, died 1856. Lived on Harter's Hill, Harrison Co., W. Va. Children born between 1812-1824. Rebecca; Jehu; Amelia; Washington; Noah; Ara; Joshua. Mr. Robinson built the Stone House on Harter's Hill for his home. Most of it is still standing. Clara Belle Smith, President of the Robinson-Cunningham Family Organization, Barracksville, W. Va.

ADAM CUNNINGHAM, Jr.; married Sarah Sinnett, daughter of Patrick Sinnett, Ritchie County. Children, Jacob; Absolem; Millie; Dolly; Phebe; Sarah.

MISS NANCY CUNNINGHAM, sister of Elijah Morgan Cunningham, married Thomas Harris, who owned the land where Harrisville, now stands, in 1807, named in his honor. Had ten children. Elijah Morgan Cunningham, married Margaret Harris, he and Thomas Harris having traded sisters.

JOHN C. CUNNINGHAM, born Jan. 9, 1814, son Henry and Nancy Hayes Cunningham, Randolph Co. W. Va., married Elizabeth Armstrong, Jan. 9, 1843. Had thirteen children. John C. Cunningham owned a nine thousand acre farm in Braxton County, W. Va. Henry Cunningham and his son built the first M. E. Church in Braxton County at their own expense in 1809. A. M. CUNNINGHAM and Neil, his son are outstanding citizens of Tucker County, W. Va.

VIRGINIA—WEST VIRGINIA LINE:

ALEXANDER CUNNINGHAM, (1498-1579), (Scotland), married Mary Robinson, 1528 (Scotch) JOHN, son, (1529-1602), married Sarah Wallace, 1566. (Scotch). JOSEPH, their son (1568-1637), married Nancy Blessington, 1605. ((Irish). DAVID, their son (1607-1691), married Rachel Bruce 1651. (Scotch). ALEXANDER, their son (1663 - 1749), married Rebecca Burns, 1701. ((Scotch).

SONS OF ALEXANDER:

HUGH, (1708-1782), married Nancy O'Neill, 1728 (Irish).

ROBERT, (1713-1784) married Catharine Sinnett, 1734. (Irish).

JOSEPH, (1721-1801), married Elizabeth Harris, 1743. (Scotch).

DAVID, 1721-1799), married Angeline Wilson, 1751 in Belfast, Ireland.

These last four brothers are the progenetors of the Cunningham families in Marion, Monongalia, Harrison, Ritchie, Randolph, Braxton and surrounding counties in W. Va., and south west counties of Pennsylvania. They now have descendents in every State in the Union.

HUGH CUNNINGHAM And NANCY O'NEILL:

He came from Ireland to Fairfax County, Va., in 1754-55. Records in Ireland, credits him with 12 children—4 girls who married in Ireland, Rachel; Mary; Dorcas; Elizabeth. 8 sons came to America: Adam; Ephraim; Benjamine; Joseph; William; Walter; Edward; Thomas, children born between 1728-1748. One record says, "Hugh Cunningham in the Revolutioniary War, killed at Bryas Station in 1782." At least four of these boys came to Cunningham's Run in Harrison County, W. Va., just after the Revolutioniary War, locating near Wallace, and "Harter Hill." The settlements are generally given as Bingamon Creek. It was here the awful tradgey occurred to Thomas Cunningham's family. The Indians killing his children and carrying his wife off to Ohio. Read the story in Wither's Border Warfare. The four boys to come to this section was Adam; Walter; Edward; Thomas. Some of the other brothers located in Green and Fayette Counties, Pa., and Monongalia county now, W. Va.

ROBERT CUNNINGHAM, brother of Hugh, came from Ireland, and located at Horse-Shoe Bend, Cheat River, near Parsons and St. George, W. Va. He was a fur buyer for the Hudson Bay Company. For a time he was located at the Fort near Moorefiled, and moved with his seven Indian hunters and trappers to the Fort at St. George. A family record shows he had a son Joseph in the Revolutioniary War. Collateral families show other children to be Elisha; Benjamine; Robert, Jr., and four daughters. Later in life he seems to have moved to Washington County, Pa.

JOSEPH and ELIZABETH HARRIS CUNNINGHAM: Never came to America to live. He was in the service of the English Government on the west coast of Ireland, in Mayo county. Lived near Castlebar and looked after government business at Clew Bay, and Killada Bay. It was from here their son JOHN took passage and came to Philadelphia to visit his mother's people (the Harrises) and his uncles in Virginia. He married a German girl near Philadelphia and did not return to Ireland. His father and mother visited him in 1774, and was called home to look after matters because of the pending trouble with America. More about his son John later, with Kendall connections. The records just says Joseph had six other sons. John Cunningham, 1745-1799, says, "Clew Bay, Ireland, has 365 Islands, one for each day of the year. I set sail from one of them to America in 1763."

MARTHA DANLEY, born April 19, 1816, died August 24, 1908; daughter of John Danley, and Rachel Floyd; married Nimrod Cunningham born Nov. 13th, 1819; died June 13, 1883, on Feb. 11, 1843. Mr. Cunningham was a son of John and Sarah King Cunningham born in 1780, died in 1866, who in turn was the son of John Cunningham born 1745, died 1799.

DAVID CUNNINGHAM, was a soldier in Capt. Cunningham's Company, Augusta, Oct. 10, 1781, exempted from duty until his brother James was cured of his wounds. The genealogist of Dublin University, says James was a half brother of Alexander's 4 other sons. David Cunningham was converted to Methodism under the preaching of John Wesley, when he made his third trip to Ireland. Rev. Cunningham in Culpeper County, Va. Entered the ministry after the Revolution. He was an "Old Time Circuit Rider." The circuit extended from Culpeper to Harrison County, and Dent's Run, now Marion Co., W. Va., with 46 appointments. While holding a big meeting with Rev. William Kendall, on Dent's Run, he was stricken with pneumonia fever and died "five minutes before 12 o'clock p. m. Dec. 31, 1799" (Kendall's record). The Cunningham record says "He died five minutes after 12 o'clock, M., Jan. 1, 1800..... His annual salary was a free horse and $240.00 in cash if he could get it. During his ministry he established 77 permanent churches. He preched "Hell fire and brimstone" punishment for those who persistently forgot God. In his records we find that 4 sons, and 3 daughters came to America with him. When he died Rev. Kendall," tied him on his spotted horse and alone carried his comrad in the ministry, back through the lonely, and almost trackless mountains of Virginia to his family in Culpeper. "Rev. Cunningham had to be his own law enforcing officer, and if there is any thing on earth an Irishman likes better than being a law enforcing officer it has not yet been discovered. When the mountaineers were being told of "the wages of sin" they would often try to "break up the meetin." The Reverend said, "when my big 6 feet 2 inch frame, weighing 240 pounds, became impatient, I swung into action, and when the wreck was cleared up, with the offenders sitting on the mourners bench, things were different. In fact that audience ever after was very respectful to me. It made little difference to me whether I preached hell out of a man, or knocked it out of him. It was results I was after." One of David Cunningham's children born in Ireland was William.

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM:

William Cunningham, born July 24, 1764, died Dec. 31, 1862 in his 99th year. He was born in Ireland. His wife Susanna Barbara Handyshel was born in England. They lived in Culpeper County, Va., near his father David, until 1806, he moved to Ritchie County, now W. Va. His obituary reads as folloys: "William Cunninghams children born in Culpeper County, Va., were, Nancy, born Jan. 23, 1789; Elijah, born Sept. 23, 1792, married (Sarah Wigner); Phoebe, born May 22, 1794, married (Jesse Lowther); Leah , born May 12, 1796, married (Jacob Wigner); Lyda, born Feb. 4, 1798, married (Henry Wigner); James, born April 9, 1800; Elizabeth, born Feb. 24, 1802; William, Jr., born April 24, 1803; Susan, born June 23, 1805, married (Robert Parks); Following children born in Ritchie county: John, born Sept. 5, 1807; David, born 1809, died 1809; Barbara, born Jan. 29, 1811, married (Nathaniel Parks); Isaac, born Sept. 15, 1813; Henry, born Feb. 9, 1817. Mr. Cunningham met George Washington, while on his way to Yorktown, and asked him to join the army. Being a boy, very large in size, Washington by permission of his father made him his body guard and this gave him the opportunity to witness the surrender of Cornwallis, a friend of the Cunningham family in England. Mr. Cunningham established a new town of Williamsburg, adjoining Harrisville in 1822. He also established a Pioneer Cemetery, adjoining the new town and in it Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham are buried along with many famous pioneers and Indian fighters. Gen. Harris has provided for the perpetual maintenance of this cemetery. Mr. Cunningham also established the town of Cornwallace, in honor of Lord Cornwallace, the fallen chieftain, whose defeat assured the Birth of a New Nation. Mr. Cunningham was a cousin of Thomas of Indian notoriety, who also served in the Revolutioniary War.

JOHN CUNNINGHAM, MONONGALIA AND MARION COUNTIES, W. VA. AND Wife, CATHARINE SHUMAN: :

John Cunningham, son of Joseph and Elizabeth Harris, born in Ireland in 1745, died on Indian Creek, Monongalia County, Va. January 15, 1799. His only daughter Elizabeth and son Robert were made administrators of his estate. February 11, 1799, and final settlement was made in 1815. His old home is still standing and occupied by a descendent. It was built in 1772. He died in this home. CATHARINE SHUMAN, born 1749, died 1821, age 72 years, sister of John Shuman, of Ministers Run, Marion County, W. Va. Her parents came from Germany. Lived near Philadelphia, Pa., where Mr. Cunningham married Catharine on June 5, 1769. Had issue: JAMES, born May 5, 1770 in Culpeper, Va. Lived in Logan County, Ohio; ROBERT, born Aug. 12, 1772 near what is now Parsons, W. Va. He married Arcada Morris, in what is now Marion County, W. Va.; DAVID, born in Fort Redstone, Pa. Chapter XVII

JOHN CUNNINGHAM AND SARAH KING.

John Cunningham (1780-1866), son John (1745-1799), wife, Sarah King (1783-1865) daughter John King. Children: 1. DAVID, born December 24, 1803, named for Rev. David who died on Dent's Run in 1799 married Charlotte Rebecca Snider, June 9, 1830, died October 29, 1876. Rev. Cunningham died February 11, 1881. Burial in Rymer Cemetery, west of Mannington, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham's history is written on their monument. It says in part, "I joined the Methodist church February 1, 1832; Licensed to exhort in 1835; ordained July 9, 1843; an Elder 1849. Conducted 300 funerals and preached 1,400 sermons, and for all this received $20. Taught 6 years in subscription and free schools; Justice of the Peace for 10 years; County surveyor 6 years; Served three terms in the West Virginia Legislaure. Married Charlotte R. Snider June 24, 1830. (This differs from a Bible record we used above. The family should copy all this tombstone history and preserve it. It is getting dim.) Rev. Cunningham, being an uncle of th writer's mother, was also one of his first school teachers. He told me he preached quite a little before he was licensed; that he prached the first sermon where

JOHN CUNNINGHAM

SARAH KING

JOHN CUNNINGHAM, born April 9, 1780, died February 2, 1866, son of John and Catharine Shuman Cunningham, born 1745, died 1799, married Sarah King, born Oct. 22, 1783, died Oct. 27, 1865. Buried in Cunningham Cemetery near Baxter, Marion County, W. Va. Children: David, born 1803; Ann, born 1805; Elizabeth H., born 1807; Joseph, born 1809; Rebeckah, born 1812; John King, born 1813; Sarah, born 1817; Nimrod, born 1819; James Larkin, born 1824; Ezekiel Fielding, born 1827. (See page 76).

Mannington now stands in 1821 to a "squatter's settlement" of moonshiners that fled from Pennsylvania after the Whiskey Rebellion. I preached there several times. It was then called "Moonshiners Paradise." I used their "hitching - shed - stable for a church." My style of preaching was the Hell-fire and Brimstone Brand, the only effective kind for the mounain pioneer." I remember he went about the school room carrying a first class hickory switch five feet long and when he discovered a big boy trying to get a pin under some boy or girl, he took immediate action and when he finished, he would order me out to the woods to get another withe. It can be truthfully said he was one of the best citizens in the county.

1. DAVID LINDSAY, married Derinda Morgan, daughter of Jacob Morgan. Had issue, Bruce; Morgan; Zeddie; Albert; Jennie; Luda; Benjamine; Lotta. OBITUARY OF NIMROD CUNNINGHAM BY HIS PASTOR, REV. FLETCHER GOLDEN, D. D., A DISTINGUISHED METHODIST MINISTER.

NIMROD CUNNINGHAM, born in what is now Marion County, W. Va., November, 1819, died June 13, 1883; married Martha Danley, February 11, 1843. He made a profession of religion in 1836; united with the M. E. Church at Asbury Chapel, Paw Paw Creek in said county. Five of his six children were baptized and christened in this church, namely, Sarah Cordelia; Newton; Rachel Virginia; Robert Lindsay; Franklin P. John Ramer was born here but moved to Warrior Fork, west of Mannington, W. Va., before he could be christened. In 1855, Mr. Cunningham, with his family, moved to his 160 acre farm on Warrior Fork, purchased from Rev. Jesse F. Snodgrass, and his wife, Sarah Ann Cunningham, daughter of Rev. David Cunningham, brother of Nimrod for the sum of $1493. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham received their church letters with that of their children and presented them to the pastor of Old Emory Chapel, M. E. Church, at the junction of Warrior Fork and Buffalo Creek, now Rymer, W. Va., and they were received into this church in the spring of 1856, at the time John Ramer was baptized and Christened. Like all good and true Methodists they dedicated their children to God and humanity. It was several miles from their home to Emory Chapel, yet these good and faithful parents rose early every Sunday morning, hitched their team to the old wagon, and with all their family attended their church. When the M. E. Church, South, organized a class at the Snodgrass School House, about a mile east of their home, during my pastorate, they transferred their membership to this class and adhered to this branch of the church until his death. Ramer, Newton, Frank, and Mrs. Kendall, were also members of the class. Lindsay remained a member of Emory Chapel, Mrs. Shaver belonged to the Seven Pines Church, or Bartholomew Church. At the Snodgrass appointment Mr. Cunningham became Exhorter, Class Leader, and Sunday school superintendent. When the Snodgrass appointment was closed, the Cunningham members moved their membership to Seven Pines. A few days before Mr. Cunningham's death, he had a large tumor removed from his leg, resulting in his death. He said to his family and friends, "I am aware I will not recover. Do not worry. I am fully prepared through Jesus Christ my Redeemer to enter into my Heavenly Home. I am assured by my Savior of a triumphant entry. My final word, and prayer is, that you all meet me in Heaven."

Mr. Cunningham was scrupulously honest, generous, hospitable, always manifesting a deep, sincere interest in the well-being of his community. The Church has lost a valuable member, Mari- County a worthy and highly respected citizen. Appropriate services were held in the Continental Hotel where he died. His remains, followed by his hosts of friends and relatives, were taken to the Cunningham Cemetery, on Little Paw Paw Creek, Marion County, W. Va., and buried in the same lot by his father and mother, and there he will sleep until the great trumpet of God shall wake him in the resurrection. He leaves a widow and six grown children, and several grandchildren, in deep sorrow as a result of his sudden and unexpected death. May I wisn and fervently pray, as his pastor, that all this good family may be re - united some day in Heaven, with this fine husband and loving father — Nimrod Cunningham. Fletcher Golden, pastor.

MOSES CUNNINGHAM, born in 1815, died November 11, 1879; married in 1837 to Phoebe Wilson Haymond, born 1805; died 1879, daughter of John Haymond, one of the outstanding, and first settlers of Bulltown, Braxton County, West Virginia. The Haymond Family is one of the great families of Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were well to do farmers, and out-standing pioneer citizens. They owned the farm on which the Battle of Bulltown was fought. They witnessed the battle which took place on October 13, 1863, and Moses Cunningham was wounded by a ball from one of the contending armies. Capt. William H. Mattingly was encamped with the Union Army on the Cunninghame farm, and fortified the hill on the northeast side of the Little Kanawha river overlooking Bulltown. They had bomb - proof tranches entirely around the hill. They had no cannon. This fortification was attacked on the above date by Colonel (Mud-Wall) W. L. Jackson, a brother of Stone-Wall Jackson, a Confederate Commander with a force of six hundred men, and Major Kessler. Colonel Jackson had one Howitzer cannon, which shot a three pound shell. It was carried on a West Virginia mule, and was designated as the Famous Jackass Battery. The battle lasted most of the day. Seven Confederates were killed and four wounded. One of the wounded was Lieutenant Norris, who was cared for at the home of Moses Cunningham; Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham acting as both doctor and nurse. The seven Confederates who were killed were buried on the Cunningham farm with the help of Moses Cunningham, and his son Elias Haymond Cunningham. In 1889 a southern soldier had them removed to his farm on the west side of the river, placing them all in one grave, and had a cut stone wall erected aroung the grave. None of the Federal troops were killed and only two wounded, namely, Capt. Mattingly and Lieutenant Holt. Both recovered. Jackson retreated on to Pocahontas County. Mr. E. H. Cunningham, also witnessed this fight and in 1913, fifty years after the battle, gave Hon. John D. Sutton and myself, a vivid description of this battle, and the above facts we took from this description. We visited this battle field once and found Mr. Cunningham's account of it very accurate. Mr. Sutton and myself while members of the West Virginia Legislature, secured an act setting aside the Droop Mountain Battle Field as a State Park or reservation, and I am a member of the Commission and its Secretary and with Mr. Sutton, who fought in that battle, wrote a History of it, and had it published in Book form, and may be found in the State Library.

ELISHA HAYMOND CUNNINGHAM, son of Moses; born August 3, 1845; married Sarah Margaret Armstrong, May 16, 1877; daughter of George and Sarah Pullen Armstrong, who came from Highland County, Va., as early pioneers to Lewis County. They owned and lived on the old Cunningham homestead in Braxton County. Mr. Cunningham has filled several public offices with ability. Justice of the Peace in 1880, succeeding his father; Notary Public in 1879, appointed by Gov. Mathews; member of the County Court 1881; Overseer of the Poor; president of the County Court; president of the Board of Education.

Of these Beatrice married John McHenry, Dec. 1935, have children, Mary Alice, born June 28, 1937 and Richard Earl, born Oct. 10, 1941. Mildred married Gilbert McHenry and have one child Evelyn, born Aug. 4, 1941. Mr. John H. Cunningham lives on the old farm at Bulltown, and George H., his brother lives at Clarksburg, W. Va. He is a Civil Engineer. Miss Flodie Cunningham, is single and lives at Grafton, W. Va. She is a Clerk in the B. and O. Offices. Mrs. E. H. Cunningham was appointed postmistress at Bulltown in 1879, which place she filled for several years. Bulltown is sometimes called Napier, W. Va.

HENRY CUNNINGHAM, who is said to be a descendent of Hugh Cunningham 1708-1782 married Nancy O'Neill in 1728, an Irish girl, was one of the early pioneers who formed a settlement at or near Bulltown in Braxton County, now W. Va., with the aid of the Haymond family. We do not have the name of Mrs. Cunningham but it was at their Log Cabin home, where Methodist circuit riders held the first church service Henry Cunningham and his son Elias built at their own expense the first combination Methodist Church-School house in that part of the "wilds of Virginia." Mr. Henry Cunningham was the faithful class leader until his death in 1863. Henry Cunningham's children were MOSES, 1815?-1879; John C.; Elias; Jesse; William P.

MOSES and Phoebe Wilson Haymond Cunningham's children:

1. John Cunningham, born Aug. 31, 1838, died Nov. 8, 1882. Married Caroline Mollohan.

EDWARD E. CUNNINGHAM, 1870-1941, son of George and Phoebe Hogg Cunningham. Lived at Burton, W. Va. Owned and operated a store for 50 years; 57 years an official in Harmony Baptist Church; a director in Burton Homecoming Association; Member of all branches of Masonry, and also a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge. Served as Burton's postmaster for 20 years. Has three brother, Charles and Jesse of Whiting, Ind., and A. A. Cunningham, of Burton, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret McNelly, of Burton.

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM married Margaret Jones. Children: Allison; William; George; Josiah; Edward; Tryphena; Martina; Louisa; Kitty Ann; Eliza. My mother knew her grandfather Edward and he came from Harrison or Marion Counties, W. Va., and was buried out the pike from Parkersburg, W. Va., and his wife was Phebe who was buried in Calhoun County, W. Va. (Editor this was the wife of Thomas Cunningham who was captured by the Indians, and Thomas was a brother of Edward). The Edward in question is evidently a son of some of Hugh Cunningham's eight sons. This information from Mrs. Josephine. (W. E. Noll, Route 3, Edmond. Oklahoma,) says "My grandmother Cunningham was Mary Shaver, sister of John R. Shaver, of Seven Pines, W. Va., father of Charles and Hon. Clem L. Shaver whose sister was named for my grandmother. I have an aunt in Morgantown, W. Va., Mrs. A. C. Ice. My mother lives in Washington, D. C. with my brother."

CUNNINGHAMS IN WEST VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.

Rev. Dave Cunningham, born 1803, of Marion County, served three terms in the West Virginia 1866 to 1869.

E. A. Cunningham, Clerk of the State Senate, 1875-79.

Elias Cunningham, Braxton County, served in the Legislature 1869.

John A. Cunningham served as a Senator from First District 1872-1875.

F. W. Cunningham in legislature in 1877.

Solomon Cunningham, 1891 in State Senate, 12th District.

James Cunningham one of the Volunteers enrolled in Wood County, now W. Va. in 1806 to defend the western country against Aaron Burr. and Harman Blennerhassett Revolution until such time safety can be taken by President Thomas Jefferson.

JOSEPH CUNNINGHAM, son of Edward, known as "Injun Joe" lived on Cunningham's Run, near Wallace, W. Va., where Joe was captured, when eight years old by the Shawnee Indians, while hiding under the treadles in the loom house, and was adopted by them and lived with them for 16 years. After General Mad Anthony Wayne, with Jeremiah Kendall 1758-1843, a relative of General Wayne, as one of his officers, gave the Indians a terrible spanking, they sent all these adopted white boys and girls home, and "Injun Joe" was one of them. Joe became a great hunter and while on Bear Run, a branch of Goose Creek, Ritchie County, W. Va., he experienced a dreadful hand to hand encounter with a huge black bear, finally kiling it with his hunter's knife, and pried its jaws open to relieve his knee which had been crushed by the jaws of the bear. The children of Thomas Cunningham, Joe's cousins were killed and scalped by the Indians, and Mrs. Cunningham was carried away to Ohio. She too was returned to her family, and she and her husband Thomas moved to Ritchie County, W. Va. in 1807 to get away from the sight of the place where she saw her children butchered, and Mrs. Cunningham died in 1845, and Rev. James L. Clark, D. D. delivered the memorial sermon at her funeral. Rev. Clark built Andrews Methodist Church at Grafton, West Virginia, now known as the "MOTHER'S DAY CHURCH," and Mrs. Ann Reeves Jarvis, a daughter of a Methodist preacher, was primary superintendent of the Sunday School, and one of the prime movers in aiding Rev. Clark build the church. And at the close of her more than 30 years of service in the church, during which time she became the Inspiration of Mother's Day, and her daughter Anna Jarvis the Founder of the Day. Mrs. Jarvis died on Sunday, and the Sunday nearest the anniversary of her death is observed the world over as MOTHER'S DAY. It was in this church the first service was held in launching the day. The author of this book was for eleven years Superintendent of this Sunday School, during which time its observation had spread to every nation on earth.. We also made the first address in 1907 for Miss Jarvis favoring her founding such a day, and the same was launched a year later. We have written and published a "HISTORY OF MOTHER'S DAY." Rev Clark was pastor in charge of Harrisville Circuit, Ritchie county in 1844 when the charge only had twenty nine appointments. It was a three weeks circuit, each appointment was to have 17 sermons, or 493 regular sermons for the 29 appointments, and one week of "big meetings" at each appointment with a sermon each week night and three times on Sunday or nine sermons or a total of 261 "big meetin" sermons for the 29 appointments, making a total of 754 sermons for the year. This does not include the funerals and weddings. One record says he received $188 and $71 for table expenses, a grand total salary of $259.00, and if he was living today he would have few equals as a preacher. His circuit began 22 miles west of Clarksburg and extended to the Ohio river. Mud roads, and no roads, and no automobile. Think of it. Had never dreamed of an airplane.

CUNNINGHAMS IN the First U. S. CENSUS, 1790, indicates where they lived and fought the Indians, built forts, log cabin homes, and we can trace them over into the mountains of what is now W. Va., covered now by Monongalia, Marion, Harrison, Lewis, Braxton, Randolph and surrounding counties, and over into Ohio. It gives the following: Cunninghams in Hampshire County, now W. Va. The census in most cases gives the number of Whites and number of slaves, and number of buildings. We will designate these items by "W" for white; "S" for slaves; "B" for buildings.

In Hampshire County, Cunninghams listed are: William, Sr., 2 W; 4 S; No. B. 8. William, Jr. 5 W; 8 S; No. B. Robert, 9 W; 10 S; No. B. James, 8 W; 1 S; 5 B. Robert 8 W.; 6 C.; 7 B. County, 19 in Randolph County; 67 in Harrison County, and 154 in Monongalia County, Va.

THE OLD CUNNINGHAM CAVE where the Indians held Mrs. Thomas Cunningham and her child prisonors is located near Wyatt, Harrison County, West Virginia on the Thad. Robinson farm. It was here where the Indians killed the child, because it cried and made noise. The other children was killed at their home not far away. She was taken to Ohio and adopted by the Indian family that lost one of their braves when Edward Cunningham who was in his log cabin with his family about 100 feet away, shot an Indian trying to enter the Thomas Cunningham home. Mr. Cunningham was away from home on business that day. The history is fully told in Border Warfare History.

RACHEL C. KENDALL

Rachel Cunningham Kendall, wife Wm. B. C. Kendall, sister Clem L. Shaver's mother, and ex-sheriff R. L. Cunningham, of Marion county, W. Va. This picture was taken when she was 60 years of age. Mrs. Kendall, born 1848, died 1936, married Feb. 27, 1868. Lived at Rymer, W. Va.. Had 8 children. See Kendall genealogy.

MY MOTHER
By NORMAN F. KENDALL

Mother was with us last year. On April 2nd, 1936, she passed to her eternal reward at her home at Rymer, W. Va., where we held the first Kendall Reunion. She now lies beside her husband, W. B. C. Kendall, in the Rymer Cemetery, where also her second son Porter J. Kendall is buried; he having died May 24, 1890. On this occasion she said, "This is the darkest and saddest day of my life." Before her marriage her name was Rachel Virginia Cunningham, daughter of Nimrod and Martha Cunningham. The Cunninghams came from Mayo County, Ireland, in 1754. Part of the family was converted to Methodism by John Wesley on his second trip to Ireland. Mrs. Kendall was baptized by Rev. David Cunningham in June, 1848, and confirmed in the Methodist church on Paw Paw Creek, Marion County, W. Va., and remained a faithful member until she departed this life.

I think MY MOTHER was the best woman I ever knew and I know she was the best Mother.

R. L. CUNNINGHAM, FAIRMONT, UNCLE OF REP. KENDALL, DIES.

R. Lindsay Cunningham, age 76 years, ex-Sheriff of Marion Co., and one of Fairmont's outstanding business men and citizens, and an uncle of NORMAN F. KENDALL, representative from this district, died at his home in the Marion county seat after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Cunningham was one of the most prominent of Fairmont's men, and was equally well known all over Marion county. He has been engaged in the undertaking profession since about 1870, and owned valuable real estate in Fairmont, in addition to being interested in many community projects of a developmental nature.

Several years ago, the deceased had the misfortune to be run over by an automobile near his home, and suffered a broken leg. Because of his advanced years, he never fully recovered his good health, and senile complications later developed that proved fatal, despite a courageous fight on the part of the deceased and his professional attendants.

Surviving him are his wife, formerly Miss Anna Violet Mayers, to whom the deceased was wed on December 17, 1885, one son, Lawrence M. Cunningham of Fairmont, and one daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Cunningham Fitzpatrick, wife of John Fitzpatrick of Clarksburg. The deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. Cordelia Shaver of Seven Pines, and mother of Clem Shaver, head of the Democratic national committee, and Mrs. RACHAEL KENDALL of Rymer, mother of N. F. KENDALL of this city. Three brothers, NEWTON, J. R. CUNNINGHAM, and FRANKLIN are deceased.

The funeral is announced to take place Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence, with the Rev. T. LeRoy Hooper, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church, officiating, assisted by Rev. R. T. Brown of the Billingslea Memorial M. E. church. The body will be laid to rest in Woodlawn Abbey.

N. F. Kendall arrived home this morning and will, with Mrs. Kendall and other relatives in this county of the deceased, attend the funeral of the well known man tomorrow afternoon. The legislature has rececssed over today on account of the death of Mr. Cunningham, uncle of Representative Kendall. — The Grafton Sentinel, April 9th, 1927.

REPRESENTATIVE NORMAN F. KENDALL of Taylor county ranks high in the House of Delegates and has made a very favorable impression on his colleagues, both in committee and on the floor. By profession the Taylor county member is a banker but his interests in legislation are now confined to banking matters by any means. His broad experience and contacts have given him an unusual grasp of public affairs. MR. KENDALL has the distinction of serving as a representative of a county which usually sends one of the Republican persuasion to represent it but Mr. Kendall's general standing in his home county is such that he ran well ahead of his ticket in the 1926 election. Mr. Kendall is a member at this session of the all-important committee on Roads and has given much time and thought to road legislation and has been helping to shape legislation at this session. He was also assigned to duty at the initial session to the important committee on Forestry and conservation.—Fairmont Times.

Part Three--Snodgrass Genealogy

Chapter XVIII

THE SNODGRASSES ARE OF IRISH ORIGIN

In the very early days we find in Mayo County, Ireland, the families of Snodgrass, Cunningham, Murray, Barrett, Burk and Morris. The same families in Down, Tyrone, Dublin and Meath with the families of Kelly, Larkin, Sinett, O'Neill, McCray and Curreys.

History says "Three Brothers Came from Ireland to America. One of them wandered away, and was never heard from again." Others put it, "Three brothers started to America and one died at sea and was sunk in the sea." Others put it, "Our ancestor was born in the middle of the ocean, on his way over here." Generally this is pure tradition, about 97% wrong. However our Snodgrass History in the books starts with three brothers, William, James, Michael came from Ireland to Washington County, Pa., and Michael went south and was lost. We have a statement from a Snodgrass in Alabama, that John D. Snodgrass, Sr., a descendant of Michael Snodgrass, of Pennsylvania and Virginia, had been elected Mayor of Scottboro, Alabama for 40 years beginning with 1884. Minnie Kendall Lowther, in the History of Ritchie County, West Virginia, says "William and James, removed to Monongahelia, now Marion county (W.) Va., in 1787." Here is some official records in Morgantown, W. Va. JAMES SNODGRASS is first on record, February 14, 1797, Robert Minnis to James Snodgrass, 100 acres Buffalo Creek. He and James Ice were killed by the Indians in 1797 on Archer's Fork, Fishing Creek, Wetzel County. Wither's in Border Warfare says about 1796. Other land transfers: CHARLES SNODGRASS to Wm. Snodgrass, Jr., 82 acres "Farrows Run," April 1801. CHARLES SNODGRASS to Wm., Sr., Joseph and Elisha Snodgrass 142 acres June 1807. Thos. Floyd to JOHN SNODGRASS, "Pharoughs Run," Oct. 1809. Other lands from 1831 to 1840 went to Jeremiah, Nathan, John W., Benjamine, Enos, Michael, and Elishe Snodgrass. The following deeds in Clarksburg, W. Va., tell when the Snodgrasses came to the head of Buffalo Creek and Warrior Fork, Marion Co., now W. Va. Book 19. Thomas Bartlett to Lemuel Snodgrass, Nov. 8, 1828, 330 acres. Book 24. Lemuel Snodgrass to WILLIAM B. (SQUIRE) SNODGRASS, 330 acres Warrior Fork, Buffalo Creek, dated Jan. 20, 1835 William later boughth about 1500 acres more.

JOHN DIXIE SNODGRASS, born May 15, 1840, married PLEASANT KENDALL, born July 12, 1840. Rev. D. H. Davis, officiating. She was a daughter of Julius and Mary Campbell Kendall. Mr. Snodgrass is a son of Gabriel and Sarah Higginbotham Snodgrass, and was in turn a son of John Snodgrass, 1st, and Anna Bates, wife. John and Pleasant Snodgrass Children: Jennie, born May 13, 1867, married Prof. Elmer Ice; Mary, born Feb. 7, 1869, married William Byard; Fannie, born Dec. 4, 1881, married Perry Snodgrass; Frances, born May 26, 1886, married Joe Nolan. All lived near Rymer, W. Va., west of Mannington. Brink was their post office.

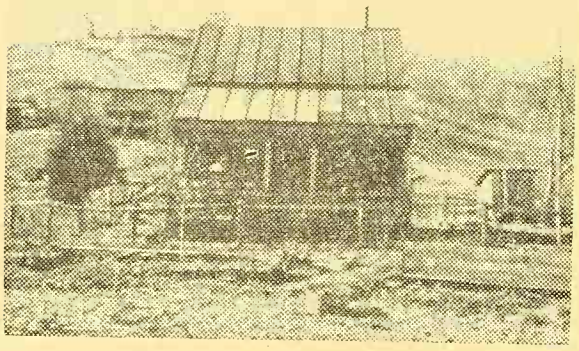
MARRIAGE SNODGRASS RECORDS:

CHARLES SNODGRASS, Jr., son Charles Sr., married Sarah Foulke, Dec. 2, 1806. SIBORA SNODGRASS, daughter, William, married William Higginbottom, Jr., Jan. 14, 1807. ELISHA SNODGRASS, son of Joseph, married Eleanor Batten, Sept. 26, 1807. On Nov. 13, 1883, Naomi Snodgrass, daughter of William married Davis Meredith. Martha Snodgrass, daughter, William, married John Deakin, Dec. 19, 1816. ISAAC SNODGRASS, married Hannah Baker, March 29, 1812, William Snodgrass, surety. John W. Snodgrass, married Margaret Dudley, August 25, 1834. Lemuel Snodgrass, married Jane Stephens, July 10, 1823. Nathan Snodgrass, surety. JEREMIAH SNODGRASS, married Umphamey Clayton, daughter Elisha Clayton, July 25, 1821. WILLIAM SNODGRASS, married Ann King, Mar. 14, 1807. Ulyssus Clayton of Mannington, was their great grandson.

OLD SNODGRASS RECORD, By Joe Snodgrass:

"FROM IRELAND CAME WE FROM JOHN SNODGRASS, SR., born 1717, his sons, Joseph, born 1740; Charles, Sr., born 1742; James, 1743; John, Jr., born 1745; Frank, born 1748; William, Sr. born 1751, and Michael, born 1753, and took new homes in Pennsylvania and Northern Virginia." This record seems to fit Washington county, Pa., and Monongalia, now Marion county, W. Va. This means the children of the above would be born between 1770 and 1800, under the general rule with a few exceptions. World War two, prevented obtaining marriage records from Dublin University.

FRANK SNODGRASS, born 1748, married Isabelle, 1779, father of WILLIAM B. (Squire BILLY) SNODGRASS, born 1796, died 1864, married Mary Joliffe in 1820; born 1803; died 1882. Both sleep in the Snodgrass Cemetery on Snodgrass Run, Warrior Fork, Buffalo Creek, ten miles west of Mannington, W. Va. WILLIAM DAVIS, of Sutton, W. Va. great, great-grandson of Frank Snodgrass, says Frank's wife, twice married Snodgrasses. That Squire Billy had at least one sister, Sarah, and half brother Joseph, and half-sister Isabelle, who married a Musgrave, had a daughter Alcinda, who married Grafton Clayton, parents of Squire W. E. Clayton, Moundsville, W. Va., father of Joseph F. Clayton, father of Mary E. Clayton Wade, mother of Justin Wade.



'Mid pleasure and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.
A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there.
Which, seek through the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.

JAMES SNODGRASS was a soldier in the Revolutionary War from Monongalia county under Col. John Evans. The Snodgrass Association of Ohio and West Virginia, and Pennsylvania hold their Annual Reunion in Wheeling Park, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Sterling, Pres. and Secy. Squire William B. Snodgrass, of Warrior Fork, west of Manningtion, W Va. was a man of considerable political influence, serving as a justice, and a member of the county court for years. Having a family of fourteen children, he provided a comfortable place in his mammoth two story log barn for church and school purposes, and generally paid the preacher and teacher their salaries and boarded them. Politically he was a Democrat, and thought Lincoln was right on about every thing he advocated, saying his party was "ditched by a bunch of nuts, calling themselves leaders, who were wrong on about every thing." His pet saying was, 'Think wrong, and you will do wrong". "Think right and you will do right". Your thinker is your track and engine; think wrong and you run backward; think right and you go forward." Mr. Snodgrass is the writer's great grandfather. He was a man 6 feet 2 inches tall, weight 248 pounds. Never was defeated in a wrestling or boxing match. He and his neighbor log-rollers coming to dinner came to a pair of bars, and between the seventh and eighth bar was a space of three feet; he informed the young fellows that he could run and jump head first through this space and land on his feet, at the age of 68 years and that was more than any of them could do. He successfully performed the feat, hurting himself internally, took a fever and died. He said, "This cost me twenty-three years of my life, because my ancestors live an average life of 91 years". He and his wife were Methodist, and his son Jesse was a Methodist minister, who married a daughter of Rev. David Cunningham, who served as a justice and a member of the county court with Mr. Squire Snodgrass. Mr. Snodgrass had an "Old record from his ancestor in Ireland stating that the Snodgrasses, Cunninghams, and Curreys were in part converted to Methodism under the preaching of John Wesley on his second and third preaching tours of Ireland. That Wesley ordained on these trips John Snodgrass, John Cunningham, and Nathaniel Currey as Methodist preachers, the first of these names ever to be taken into the Methodist church". The above information I received from Mrs. Snodgrass, my great grandmother, who had the original data. She was a little Scotch woman five feet tall, weight 102 pounds. The average weight of her fourteen children was 202 pounds. She was a fine personality. She always smoked a corn cob pipe. I sat for hours watching her smoke that pipe and tell the thrilling incidents of mountain, back-woods, pioneer life. A fine story teller, a beautiful character, always happy, always glad to see you. No grouch in her life.

THOMAS B. SNODGRASS, born 1851, died 1940, at Pine Grove, Wetzel County, W. Va., son of William and Harriett Snodgrass. He and his wife were born at Porter's Falls. Children: W. C. Snodgrass, Reader, W. Va. and Ira of Pa., daughters, Mrs. John Wildman, Pine Grove, W. Va., Mrs. Mary Dorsey, Brownsville, Pa., Mrs. Arvil Blatt, New Martinsville, W. Va. Mr. Snodgrass had brothers, William, and Irvin, Jackson county, W. Va., and Haymond of Charleston, W. Va.; thirty-six grand children and seventeen great grandchildren. Interment, Cherry Grove Cemetery, Little Creek. Mrs. T. B. Snodgrass, living now at Porter's Falls.

MY GREAT GRANDMOTHER SNODGRASS.

Mrs. Snodgrass would often take me out in the front yard and show us the old bear pens and wolf traps. The bear pens were 8 by 10 feet built of rather heavy logs, tapering in from the four sides till it came to a point at the top like a pyramid, leaving a hole about three feet square. Inside of this was built another pen 4 by five feet, and placed over at one side of the big pen. This was called the sheep pen. A sheep was put in the small pen in such a way that it could not be harmed by the bear or wolf. It was easy for these animals to walk upon the big pen and drop down in it to get the sheep. To get out they had to jump straight up 10 or 12 feet. This they could not do. Squire Snodgrass had from four to six big, well trained bear and wolf dogs on hand at all times. They were taught how to kill this kind of animals. There was a door in the side of the pen, and Mr. Snodgrass would let the bear or wolf out, and stood back and enjoyed a real fight. Mrs. Snodgrass said it only took about ten minutes for the dogs to do the job. The fights were very vicious, and we would sometimes lose a dog, but we always had several dogs coming along. We just could not have anything without powerful, well-trained dogs. This was in 1830 to 1836.

Mrs. SNODGRASS gave us this experience, Mr. Snodgrass had when he took three horses loaded with fur, tobacco, and smoked hams to Alexander, Virginia to barter for salt, pepper, sugar, coffee and tea, and quinine. On his way back when he arrived at Logansport, several wolves on each side of the hills were calling, or howling. It was at dusk, and Mr. Beaty advised Mr. Snodgrass to put up for the night with him because of the wolves. Mr. Snodgrass being anxious to get home thought he could make the remaining four miles, being armed with two good revolvers and a gun, By the time he turned up Warrior Fork at Rymer, two miles from home, and only a path in a dark wilderness, with the wolves increasing in number close along the path, did Mr. Snodgrass realize he was in great danger. He began shooting the animals as they would venture close enough, and this gave him a little free time to hurry along while the animals devoured the dead animal. Finally he found he could not keep them away with his gun, and began to throw them the meat, then his coats, shirt, sugar, salt, the saddles, in fact his whole cargo. He then rode close to a tree, climbed up in it and released his frightened horses to make their escape. Mrs. Snodgrass said the dogs carried on so she went out and released them from the dog house and they fled down the creek where the wolves were howling. The dogs arrived on the scene just as Mr. Snodgrass released the horses, and he said the dogs paired off in twos and scattered themselves to three different trees, then began the greatest battle he ever witnessed in a dim moonlight. The wolves had to come up facing the dogs with their backs to the trees, and the dogs used the "leg breaking tactics" grabbing the wolf by the front leg and with a "cork screw twist" break and crush the leg, which eliminated them from the fight. It is well known that few animals will fight when its adversary has its front leg in its jaws—the pain is so terrific. By the time Mr. Snodgrass, with his guns, and the dogs, had eliminated 27 wolves the remainder fled. The only thing they salvaged of the cargo was a peck of salt, 12 pounds of green coffee, and three pounds of grain pepper, and lost all the balance including two saddles, his boots, hat, and everything else but his pants. This took place in 1835, seven miles west of, now Mannington, W. Va.

Mrs. Snodgrass gave me another incident, that took place where the Old Snodgrass School house was afterward built. She said her husband always had a bayonet on his big hunting rifle. He shot a big mother bear and did not bring her down and she charged him, and he fled to a big oak tree near by and after considerable maneuvering, the opportunity presented itself, and he plunged the bayonet into the heart of the big animal and killed it. This was in June, 1836.

SAMUEL M. SNODGRASS, born 1865 at Glade Springs, Virginia; son of Benjamine and Sallie A. Snodgrass; married Mollie Trail in 1890, at Harwood, Mo.; educated at State Normal School, Kirksville, Mo., 1888; member of the El Dorado Springs School Board, 1898-1907; elected Representative from Cedar County, Mo., to State Legislature, 1912-14; elected Mayor, El Dorado Springs, Mo., 1916-18; elected to the State Senate from the 16th Dist., Mo., 1922; re-elected 1926.

OLD SUBSCRIPTION SCHOOL RECORD

The old log school house was located north of Rivesville, in the Paw Paw Creek section, in what is now Marion county, W. Va., not far from the old John Cunningham home, and where the Snodgrass families lived. The report says, "Asa Hall taught the school in the winter of 1829; James Musgrove in 1830; Rev. Dave Cunningham in in 1831, and John Wesley Snodgrass in 1832-33. We find these names among the scholars listed: Nimrod Cunningham, father of Hon. Clem Shaver's mother, and the mother of the writer of this book, Mrs. Rachel Virginia Cunningham-Kendall, and ex-sheriff, Robert Lindsay Cunningham. Brinkly Snodgrass is listed, lived and died at Brink, Marion county, W. Va. He was the town's first postmaster. We also find the name of Martha Danley who became the wife of Nimrod Cunningham. Isabelle Snodgrass, daughter of Hon. William B. (Squire Billy) Snodgrass, who married Elias Kendall, grandfather of the writer. Rev. Dave Cunningham born 1803, was my first school teacher, as well as a great uncle. He and I have so far had a peep in on 139 years of the glorious history of the Good Old U. S. A. (1803-1942). Old Grandad Uncle Sam is a little older than we are — not much, however.

The Cunninghams and Snodgrasses, and Kendalls did their share in populating Mannington district, Marion county, W. Va. Squire Billy Snodgrass had 14 children; his son, Rev. Jesse F. Snodgrass, and wife Sarah Ann Cunningham, daughter of Dave, had 10 children. Charles Snodgrass had 10; Dearborn, 8; Gabriel, 7; Rachel Snodgrass and husband, 8; Mary Ann Snodgrass and husband, George Ice, 6; Enos Snodgrass, 6; Oliver Snodgrass, 6; Ezekiel Snodgrass, 11; Rev. Dave Cunningham, 7; Nimrod Cunningham, 6; Sarah Cordelia Cunningham and husband J, R. Shaver, 8; Newton Cunningham and Mariah Snodgrass, 10; Samuel Kendall 2nd, 12; Samuel Kendall 3rd, 12; Rev. William Kendall, 9; Zebedee Kendall, 11; Rev. Daniel Kendall, 10; Rev. Thomas J. Kendall, 15; Elias Kendall and wife Isabelle Snodgrass, 8; W. B. C. Kendall and wife Rachel Cunningham, 8; Ross M. Kendall, 10; Stephen Kendall, 11; Ransom Kendall, 14; James Kendall, 9; Belinda Kendall, husband, Noah Baker, 11; Judah Kendall, husband, Nicholas Baker, 8. These are just samples of how Mannington district was populated.

RITCHIE AND DODDRIDGE COUNTY SNODGRASS FAMILIES.

JEREMIAH SNODGRASS, died 1880, married Euphamy Clayton, died 1888. Lived near Berea, Ritchie county, W. Va., having moved there from Marion county in 1845. A son of Franklin Snodgrass, and Rachel Burr. Buried in Old Pleasant Hill cemetery. As stated they had 13 children. Namely, B. F., and Jeremiah, of Harrisville, W. Va.; Ezekiel, Marion county, W. Va.; Rev. Elisha, of Auburn; Mrs. Nancy Hammond, Berea; Mrs. Isabelle (Thomas) Baker, of Hale, Mo.; Mrs. Rachel Wagner, of Newberne; E. C. of Smithville; John at Harrisville; Mrs. Sarah Colegate, at Berea; Mrs. Elizabeth (Thomas) Prather, at Mt. Zion; David L. in Marion county, W. Va. and W. C. in Florida. Rev. Hall Snodgrass, a Baptist minister in Oklahoma, and Rev. McClellan Snodgrass, Methodist in New York Conference are grandsons of this pioneer.

WILLIAM SNODGRASS, born 1783, died, 1879, and sleeps in White Oaks cemetery in Ritchie county, W. Va. A native of Pennsylvania, near Waynesburg, first Snodgrass to go to Ritchie county in 1841, and built a Log Cabin Home on Turtle Creek, of the South Fork, above Berea, is now owned by his youngest son T. C. Snodgrass. He married Nancy King in 1807, died in 1824, a sister of the writer's great grandmother. They had eight children, already named in this chapter. His second wife was Miss Mary Prichard - half sister of Peter Prichard, married 1826 and had five children: W. F. in Kansas;

B. F. in State of Washington; Eliza; Mrs. Margaret A. (George) Carder, lives in Ohio, and T. C. at the old homestead.

WILLIAM SNODGRASS, married Kathrine Yoste, a German girl, and from his sons, William, Jr., Isaac, and Franklin, the Ritchie county, W. Va. Snodgrasses are descended. Isaac was the father of Mrs. John Parker, of Nathan, Ritchie county who went west, and of Elias Snodgrass, one of the progenitors of the Doddridge county, W. Va. Snodgrasses. Rev. Thomas Grafton Meredith, born 3, 28, 1862, now 1942 living in Fairmont, W. Va., for 50 years an active Methodist minister, built the St. Paul Church, Grafton, W. Va., and served 21 other churches. He married Cora Snodgrass of Doddridge county, W. Va. Ex-mayor Geo. W. Lowther of Grafton, W. Va., married Della Lowther, sister of Mrs. Meredith.

TAKEN FROM HOBBIES MAGAZINE, April 1939. The writer of "The Huckster Wagon" and his uncle Raymer Cunningham owned and operated one of these "Stores on Wheels" in the 1880's. The "Due Bill Currency" idea was worked out by Kendall and is still used in the west and Canada. The writer has been sent information showing that this article has been copied in at least 71 papers in 31 states.

The Huckster Wagon

Grafton, W. Va.

Do you remember the huckster wagon of the eighties—its coming and its going? The story of those of one district would suffice for all. The huckster had, we might say, one or more sponsors—that is stores that would take all their produce purchased on their routes for which they had issued DUE BILLS on and payable in goods by these specific stores. These DUE BILLS WERE IN FACT A NEW CURRENCY issued by the huckster not on a gold standard but on chickens, geese, eggs, meat, butter, beans, corn, wheat, etc. Its motto was "Better service to the farmer."

The Huckster came around with his wagon, took what the farmer had to sell in exchange for a due bill on a good merchant and delivered the heavy, bulky produce to the merchant. All the farmer and his wife had to do when they needed any thing from the store was to go to the due bill box usually kept on the top shelf in a cupboard, take out a few due bills, mount "Old Prince" go to town and get it. It also saved a lot of time for the farmer; he did not have to peddle his produce from store to store and maybe could sell only part of it and have to bring the residue back home.

Other merchants soon discovered that the huckster merchant was getting all the business, even if they offered to pay more if the farmer would bring his produce to them. A new set of hucksters was sponsored by these business losing merchants. The new hucksters advertised they would pay one-fourth cash and balance in due bills. That one-fourth cash paralyzed the first crowd. The wagons used by the due bill and the cash and due bill promoters had only an open bed on them. Now progressive service had started in a competitive way. The first hucksters made their next weekly trip in a covered wagon. Across the rear end of the wagon they placed a barrel of syrup with one of those spigots with a crank on it to measure the syrup, and a barrel of lamp oil, a barrel of light brown sugar, a barrel of "green" coffee, a box of essence of coffee, and a jar of snuff. They advised, "We take what you have, pay one-fourth cash, one-fourth groceries, the balance in due bills." This put the second huckster crowd out of the running. Their next call was in a "trailer wagon," 14 feet long and wide as they could make it on the wagon frame. An 18 inch hall ran lengthwise through it. On each side was drawers and shelves for a full line of groceries and dry goods. Their advertisement was, " We pay one-fourth cash and the balance in groceries and drygoods. No due bills unless desired by our customers." Then all hucksters were compelled to go to "The Rolling Store" or quit. These movable stores made stopping points at the junction of roads, or water streams, or where five families could meet them, or they would call on one family if they had as much as $10 worth of produce.

The good roads and rapid transportation brought the big store in in the big town closer to the farmer than the country store located on mud roads. This dried up business for these little stores and they died of starvation. And still more rapid transportation in this flying machine age has brought the mail order house and the chain store furnishing goods from the factory and the farm direct to the consumer. Now we see the wholesale and the individual store diminishing in numbers. Where do we go from here?

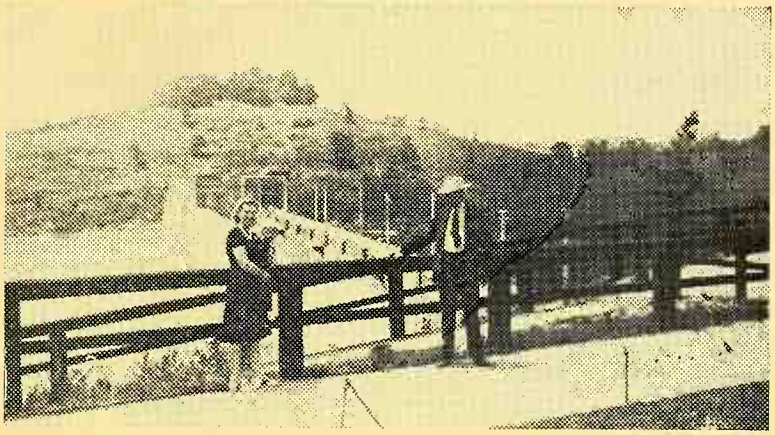
Part Four-Appendix



Alice Kendall-Young and son Kendall Nolan, daughter and grandson of Everette G. Kendall, of Ada, Oklahoma; and N. F. Kendall, author of this book, and uncle of Mrs. Young, at the observation field of the 18 million dollar Government Dam at Grafton, W. Va., called TYGART DAM. Length of this dam is 1880 feet. 232 feet high. To grout the foundation took 42,200 barrels of cement. It contains 1,251,-550 cubic yards of concrete. It also has 9,000,000 pounds of steel in it. It has a capacity of 377,400 acre feet of water, and its drainage area is 1183 square miles, and runs back to the top of the mountain range 131 miles. It probably impounds more mountain water than any lake in Eastern United States. It is destined to be a fisherman's paradise. Mr. Kendall's home is located close by, at Grafton, W. Va.

Only five minutes down the river from this Dam, at the other end of Grafton, W. Va. is where T. Bailey Brown, a member of Capt. Daniel Wilson's Co., was shot and killed by a Confederate picket, W. S. Knight, and was the first man to be killed on active duty in the "CIVIL WAR". Mr. Brown and Wilson, were returning from Pruntytown, W. Va. where they had organized a Union Company of soldiers, and as they arrived at Grafton (then Fetterman) Knight ordered a "Halt", and Brown, fired his gun, clipping off part of one of Knight's ears and Knight returned the fire, killing Brown. Mr. Brown is buried in the National Cemetery at Grafton, W. Va. A monument marks the spot where Brown was killed. The G. A. R. erected a monument at his grave. It was at PRUNTYTOWN, W. VA., only three miles from where Brown was killed, where Gen. Ben. Butler freed the first slaves as a result of the "CIVIL WAR". It was at PRUNTYTOWN, that the last large public sale of Slaves was made in Northern Virginia, just a short time before the Emancipation Proclamation was issued by President Lincoln. Many of the descendants of these slaves still live here. This writer knew several of these slaves, and heard their story of this "slave sale". They were bought up by a Company at Winchester, Virginia, at bargain prices, and marched over the Northwestern Turn Pike (Route 50) to Pruntytown and auctioned off at public sale. Shortly after this sale General Kendall came to Pruntytown. It was when Jones' Raide was taking place that Harmon Sinsel, joined the Malitia to defend the town, and convoyed General Kendall to Clarksburg, W. Va. for safety. The Sinsel family came to this part of Virginia from Farquier County around 1800, the time the Kendalls came from the same county. They were neighbors. Pruntytown is the birth place of John Barton Payne. On up the river about 14 miles is Philippi where one of the very first battles of the Civil War took place. On up the river about 30 miles is where the Battles of Beverly was fought, and where Eli Kendall was killed in action. At the head of the river near Elkwater where Robert E. Lee, Fitzhugh Lee, and John Augustine Washington, Jr. was located with the Confederate army, on their way to Grafton, W. Va. Union sharp shooters shot and killed Col. Washington at Elkwater, and shot Fitzhugh Lee's horse. Mr. Lee mounted Washington's horse, and carried the last Washington owner of Mt. Vernon to the Camp of Gen. R. E. Lee, and Gen. Lee broke into tears as he looked on his friend and said, "This ought not to be; war is hell." Just south of where this tradgy occurred is where Gen. Lee purchased his famous horse TRAVELER. Mrs. Samuel Kendall, of Elkins, W. Va. delivered the address at the unveiling of a Mounment marking the spot where John Augustine Washington, Jr. was shot.

First march to a battlefield was 12 miles from Webster, W. Va. 3 miles west of Grafton to Philippi, W. Va. June 2nd and 3rd 1861. Col. Kelley of 1st Va. Regt. was first Union officer wounded and by Wm. Simms, a Confederate Quartermaster. Maj. James E. Hanger in this battle, a Confederate soldier, was the first man of the Civil War to have his leg amputated. Dr. G. W. New peformed the operation. Mr. Hanger later lived in Washington, D. C. and manufactured "Cork Legs." The first bridge captured was at Philippi June 3, 1861, built 1852, a Covered bridge still standing and in use, 1942. The first woman to gain notoriety in the Civil War was Mrs. Thomas Humphreys, who fired a pistol shot warning the Confederates of the coming of the Federal forces, enabling the Confederates to fight and retreat in order, in fact she saved them from capture.

When you read some of the Genealogies in this Book, they most likely brought back some sad incidents, and heart aches. It suggested to my mind that I give you a letter that my great grandfather Rev. William Kendall always read at a funeral, before he preached the funeral sermon. My grandfather, Elias Kendall asked that I read this letter, and then deliver the funeral oration, at his open grave, as he had heard his father so often do. After you have read this letter twelve times, thoughtfully, you will be convinced both in mind and heart, that it contains the most sensible and consoling thoughts and sentiment that can be spoken at a funeral. The letter was written by Benjamin Franklin.

"WE ARE SOON TO FOLLOW"

Philadelphia, Pa.,
February 23, 1756

I CONDOLE WITH YOU. We have lost a most dear and valuable relation. But it is the will of GOD, and nature that these mortal bodies be laid aside, when the soul is to enter into real life. This is rather an embryo state, a preparation for living.

A MAN is not completely born until he is dead. Why then would we grieve that a new child is born among the immortals, a new member added to their happy society? We are spirits.. That bodies should be lent us, while they can afford us pleasure, assist us in acquiring knowledge, or in doing good become unfit for these purposes, and afford us pain instead of pleasure, instead of an aid become an encumberance, and answer none of the intentions for which they were given, it is equally kind and benevolent that a way is provided by which we may get rid of them. Death is that way. We ourselves, in some cases, prudentialy, choose a partial death. A mangled painful limb, which cannot be restored, we willingly cut off. He who plucks out a tooth parts with it freely, since the pain goes with it, and he who quits the whole body parts at once with all pains and possibilities of pains and diseases which it was liable to, or capable of making him suffer.

OUR FRIEND and we were invited abroad on a party of pleasure, which is to last forever. His chair was ready first, and he is gone before us. We could not all conveniently start together; and why should you and I be grieved at this, since WE ARE SOON TO FOLLOW, and know where to find him. ADIEU, B. Franklin.

Kendalls in The Civil War--Union Army

CORRECTION: The picture of Capt. Daniel Wilson should have appeared between the list of Union and Confederate soldiers—page 113, with his history. Capt. Daniel Wilson — 1824-1878; wife Naomi Reger of Barbour Co., W Va. Had 7 children. Mr. Wilson was a farmer, and merchant in Barbour and Taylor Co., W. Va Capt. Wilson and Lt. Bailey Brown organized a Company of Union soldiers at Pruntytown, W. Va. Capt. George Glenn, and Lt. W. S. Knight had charge of the Confederate forces at Fetterman

THE BATTLE OF FETTERMAN:

Capt. Daniel Wilson and Lt Bailey Brown for the U. S. Army.

Capt. George Glenn, and Lt W. S Knight for the Confederate Army.

When Capt Wilson and Brown arrived from Pruntytown to Fetterman, Lt. Knight, guarding the Railroad Crossing—called "Halt", and the Battle of Fetterman was on. Brown fired on Knight, shooting his right ear off. Knight returned the fire killing Brown. Capt. Wilson ordered a hasty "retreat" and he said, "I must have been flying through the air when Capt. Glenn shot my right boot heel off."

OFFICIAL BULLETIN No. 1. Civil War—

Result of the Battle of Fetterman:

Officer Knight lost an ear.

Officer Brown lost his life.

Officer Wilson lost his boot heel.

Officer Glenn held the Battle Field, and kept the Boot heel as prisoner of War.

Capt Glenn was a neighbor of the author of this book and gave us the above story. Mary Glenn daughter of Capt. Glenn, married Henry Kendall. Brown was shot close their home.

CAPT. DANIEL WILSON

THE CIVIL WAR, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, COMMANDER IN CHIEF:

Prof. Marcellus A. Kendall, a McGuffey school teacher, of Dent's Run, Marion Counnty, W. Va., taught the Brink school and gave his history class the following, about the Commander-in-Chief, Abe Lincoln: Borned in a Log Cabin, in the land of "My Old Kentucky Home." He is the only president of these United States who attended church every Sunday, while he was in office, and was the only president who was not a church member. He was murdered by John Wilkes Booth. From 1865 to 1901 Lincoln's body was moved 17 times before it found its final resting place in the Lincoln monument at Springfield, Ill. The body at one time was hidden for two years. Nancy Hanks Lincoln is a West Virginia woman born. A monument marks the location of the home where she was born. She was the mother of Abe Lincoln. Every one who has ever traveled on U. S. Route 50, W. Va. east of Grafton, W. Va. will never forget "The Devil's Saddle." Back of this Gap to Right can be seen the location of the Hanks' home. Jefferson Davis president of the Southern Confederacy was a third cousin of Abe Lincoln. Lincoln was also a relative of the Lee family. So said Prof. Kendall 56 years ago.

RANSOM KENDALL of Massachusetts, who is related to the Adams family says, "That President John Adams descendants have become governors of every one of the 13 original colonies."

KENDALL HISTORY AND GENEALOGY.

We have condensed the following individual War History of Kendalls from our large MSS. It should be of interest to many Kendalls. It shows where the migrations took the Kendalls in 260 years (1607-1867).. The Civil War gives the best guide. One big surprise is the number of Kendalls enlisting in the Civil War from Arkansas; at that time considered the poorest state in the Union. Why would they be there?

Keep in mind that the War Records have not all been filed in the War Department at Washington, D. C.This may account for some Kendall names being absent in this record.

Vol. 19 page 1, Wm. Kendall 1684, page 2 Col. Wm. Kendall 1679 was sent to renew friendship with the Five Nations, page 10, Kendall Family—The Kendalls of the Eastern Shore evidently came from the county of Norfolk in England, but like many others of the old families of that section, only the profound knowledge of the records possessed by the late T. T. Upshur would enable one to compile a complete genealogy. There were two lines, one descendant from Col. Wm. Kendall and the other from his "Kinsman" John Kendall.

Col. William Kendall was a member of the House of Burgesses for North Hampton county at the session of March 1657-8, Sept. 1663 (when he is styled Lieut. Col. October 1666, and doubtless all the sessions of the "Long Assembly" until 1676) Nov. 1683 (when he is styled Colonel) April 1684 and Nov. 1685 when he was speaker. He was long an officer of the Militia and Justice of the county court (from 1656), was sent as shown in the text, as one of the Virginia Commissioners to treat with the Five Nations, and died in 1686 probably while on "Public employ" on the Rappahannock. It seems likely that this public business was in connection with the effort to bring the Virginia Indians into peaceful relations with the Five Nations. In Aug. 1668 William Kendall by deed recorded in North Hampton county conveyed to the sons of Mr. Thomas Eyre, deceased, 1,500 acres called the Golden quarter which had belonged to said Eyre. The will of William Kendall merchant was dated 12-29-1685 and proved 7-28-1686, to son-in-law Hancock Lee, Gent. the land where said Lee now lives with the negroes, stock and acording to my deed of gift to said Hancock Lee and my daughter Mary, his now wife, with reversion, too grand daughter Ann Lee, eldest daughter of Hancock Lee. Bequests to son William Kendall with reversion, if said William d-s-p-, to John Kendall, son of my "kinsman" John Kendall deceased. To sons-in-law (step sons) John, Thomas and Daniel Eyre. To Ruth, daughter of Thomas Carrington deceased, my first wife's daughter £20 and if she died then to her children living at North Yarmouth in the county of Norfolk, England. To the eldest son of my brother John Kendall living about Brinton in Norfolk £10. To brother Thomas Kendall living in Norwich £10. To grand daughter Susan Kendall, to grand daughter Kendall Lee, youngest daughter of Hancock Lee, to Susana, daughter of William Kendall. To my wife Sarah. A. codicil dated 6-16-1686 states that he is going to Rappahannock on "public employ." He gives his wife Sarah 30,000 pounds of tobacco to be laid out in building where son William lives. Col. William Kendall was married three times, apparently each time to a widow. His first marriage was probably in England. He married in Virginia the widow of Thomas Eyre of North Hampton county, his wife in 1658 was Susanna widow of Capt. Pott and in 1677 was named Susanna. The wife who survived him was Sarah, who had been Mrs. Matthews. He had issue William 2; Mary 2 Mary born 1661, died 2-24-1694, married Hancock Lee, son of Col. Richard Lee. William 2 Kendall of North Hampton county born——and died 1696. He was a member of the House of Burgeses for North Hampton county at the sessions of April 1688 and March 1692-3. The will of William Kendall Gent. of North Hampton county was dated Jan. 29, 1695 and proved July 28, 1696. His legatees were his son William 3, daughter Susanna, son John, daughters Mason and Ann Kendall and wife Ann. William 2 Kendall had issue: William 3; John 3; Susanna 3; (Ann) 3; Mason 3.

William 3 Kendall Jr. (William 2) of North Hampton county, probably died 1718. He probably married twice. The will of Samuel Palmer of North Hampton, dated January 1708-9 names his son-in-law William Kendall Jr. and Palmer Kendall, while a deed dated Nov. 20, 1728 from Custis Kendall of North Hampton county, Gent., to his mother, Sorrowful Margaret Cable, and refers to the will of his father William Kendall. It is believed that the lady bearing this remarkable name, Sorrowful Margaret was a Custis. The will of William Kendall, Jr. seems to have been proved in 1718. (The will is recorded in full in North Hampton county, book 15, 1717-25, page 28). His legatees were his son John 4 an unborn child, daughter Sarah, daughter Ann Parks (Parke) Kendall, daughter Palmer Kendall, his sisters Ann and Gertrude Hunt were to keep his son John, a minor, sister Esther mentioned issue John 4, Sarah 4, Ann Parks 4, Palmer 4, an unborn child probably Custis 4. An examination of the Eastern Shore records would doubtless show more of John Kendall the "kinsman" of Col. William Kendall. He is doubtless the person referred to in the will of John Savage of North Hampton dated Aug. 26, 1678 who makes bequests to his daughter Susanna wife of John Kendall, and his grand children, John, Thomas and Susan Kendall. The will of John Kendall of North Hampton, the son of John was dated Oct. 7, 1687 and proved Nov. 28, 1689. He gives his estate to his wife Susanna, sister Susan, and brothers and sisters, Joseph, William, Elizabeth, and Hester (possible of the half blood) and brother Thomas Kendall. It was probably the daugter and wife of the elder John Kendall referred to in a deed, March 28, 1690 by Thomas Harmison, who married Susanna, daughter of John Kendall, deceased, whose widow Susanna was now the wife of Henry Warren. A John Kendall was a member of the House of Burgesses of North Hampton at the session of March 1752, Nov. 1753, Aug. 1754, Oct. 1754, May 1755, Aug. 1755, Oct. 1755, March 1756, Sept. 1756, Apr. 1757, March 1758, Sept. 1758, Nov. 1758, Feb. 1759, Nov. 1759, March 1760, May 1760, March 1761. John Kendall was a member of the North Hampton committee of safety 1744-46, Custis Kendall was Capt. Fifth Va. Reg. in Revolutionary War. Judge Gilmer S. Kendall of North Hampton is one of his descendants lived at "Newtives of the name Col. William Kendall and several generations of his descendents lived at "Newport house" an estate since called "Eyersville."

Vol. 19 page 421, Thomas Eyre married Susanna Baker, later Mrs. Baker married Capt. Francis Potts and afterwards Col. William Kendall. She died 1683. Susanna Baker was a sister to Daniel Baker, in his will he gives property to William Kendall, Jr. and Mary Kendall, the son and daughter of Lieut. Col. William and my sister Susanna his wife.

HENRY KENDALL

1760-1837

Norfolk, Virginia

HENRY KENDALL

(1760-1837) married Elizabeth Kendall in 1790. Their children were born between 1790 to 1805. Their names: Elizabeth, Abigail, Sarah, Joseph, Henry, and Brymer. The writer's descent is through Joseph.

JOSEPH KENDALL

(1796 - 1840), married Anne Mathew Pokey? in 1880. They had issue, Henry 1821-1889, Sarah (1825).

HENRY KENDALL

(1821-1889) married Anne Jane Briand in 1841. They had 11 children namely, Henry, W. M., Edith A. Joseph, Charles, Amy, Maude, Florence, Harold, Winifred, Sidney, and Francis. These children were born between 1860 to 1883.

The descent continues through Henry W. M. Kendall.

HENRY W. M. KENDALL

(the writer) born in 1860 just 100 years after the birth of his great grandfather whose picture appears at the head of these extracts taken from Henry W. M. Kendall's letter. Mr. Kendall served in the World War with unusual distinction in the Pacific, France, Salonika, Palestine. Medals and stars were given him. Mr. Kendall married Elizabeth Mary Linkford? (writing not clear) in 1893. Mrs. Kendall served in the great war in the Royal Red Cross. They have three children namely, Joan (1894) married Dr. R. C. Begg; Henry John L., (1885) a Lieut. in the Royal Artillery, in the Pacific, France, Belgium, Germany, (occupation of.), wounded; married Runa W. Norris, April 30, 1929 and they have one son Henry Peter N. born March 15, 1930.

The Australian Poet, of whom there is a monument in Sydney, Australia, died only a few years ago. He was a descendant of THOMAS KENDALL, the first Anglican (Episcopal) missionary out here, but beyond the fact that he came from England, none of his descendants can trace his ancestry. This appears to be a not unusual trait in the tribal archives or want of them, to be more correct.

A tribe of clan wanderers, pioneers, adventurers, and general utility men and a clan devoid of any stigma of rascality or ruffianism. I must admit, however, that there appears to be in a very large number of the Kendall families a disregard for Ancestor worship beyond their own more or less immediate surroundings.

HINC ILLOE LACHRYMOSE.

Either carelessness, or sheer bad luck as exemplified in the destruction of Virginian records during the Civil War. The same in Ireland and England by Cromwell's ruffians and those of William of Orange, who in and about the 17the century dispossessed leading Anglo-Irish families of the name records of which are to be found in official records in the distressful country. A GROVE KENDALL commanded in 1770 the Dillon regiment which fought in the French service in Europe, West Indies, and American War of Independence. In 1794 Dillon was guillotined in the French Revolution, the Dillon regiment ending its glorious (sic) career the year before. I gather that from the report that in this Irish regiment, one of fifteen in the French Service, religious creeds were of a mixed character.

Having inflicted upon you all the particulars, I feel that by "placing all my cards on the table" as is your due from one so strange to you, and to show that we in our branch are on the whole what MR. H. P. KENDALL of Boston calls a "Colourful" lot, (purely I think an American word as I cannot find it in any dictionary).

By a coincidence, I have just received a memorandum on the Viking origin of the name which theory I have already mentioned in my letter.

"The Kendalls of the Coniston Lake District in North Lancashire, England, have resided there for centuries and trace their line back to the Viking stock who built their homes there about 1000 years ago. To this stock belonged Sir John Kendall, Knight Templar, who in 1480 drove the Turks from the Island of Rhodes for which he received a medal believed to have been struck in Venice and to be the first medal awarded a British soldier. The original is now in the British museum but a replica was given to his living descendants."

Rhodes, at the period of the invasion by the Turks, was occupied by the Venetians.

I have copies from an old book "The Privateers of Liverpool" in which the name appears prominently. Kendalls commanding brigs, carrying so many guns, men, and slaves. The last in irons, and branded on the rump. Prizes captured and so on.

With apologies for my poor writing (I have passed the allotted span, having been born in 1860) and for trespassing upon your time and patience, I am, dear sir,

Yours truly,

Henry (W. M.) Kendall

THE OLD PIONEER SCHOOL, AND ITS STAGGERING SALARIES.

And Its Staggering Salarres. .....

We have been permitted to visit many of these schools in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, and in Canada. We give this description to show in a very personal way the workings of these schools even as late as 1889, in Marion County, W. Va. This county 60 years later has one of the most modern school systems to be found anywhere. The Fairmont State Teachers College, presided over by United States Senator Joseph Rosier, is one of the best schools in the Nation. When I attended it the name was the Fairmont Normal.

SUMMARY OF SCHOOL AND CHURCH OPPORTUNITIES IN THE NEW COMMUNITY OF MARION COUNTY.

First schools were subscription schools.

Teacher's qualification — reading, writing, ciphering.

School term, 3 months, or less— cost 2 1-2 cents per pupil for 30 or more pupils. If less than 30 pupils 3 cents per scholar, a day. Parents must furnish a room in a home, barn, stable, loft or an abandoned building. Later the community would have a house raising when all the men would gather together axes, saws, adze, and frow, and teams of horses or oxen and erect a one story log hut usually 16 by 24 feet. If for church and school combined the house was generally 24 by 30 feet one story. The one on Dent's Run was a hewn log building. Nearly all were built of round logs with the bark on them. These conditions obtained from 1778 to 1844. Saw mills came and frame buildings of all kinds were erected. The chief qualification of a teacher was to look "tough" and be able to "lick" any scholar or combination of scholars in the school and if necessary, later some fighting parents. Pioneers are born fighters from the cradle to the grave. It was an outstanding distinction to be the best "scrapper" in the community, but that position had to be defended every Saturday afternoon at the "old swimming hole" or the recreational center in some neighbor's meadow bottom where all the young men met weekly to test who was the best wrestler, foot racer, hop-step-and-jumper, horseshoe pitcher, ball pitcher, ball dodger in the bull pen, and finally the two best boxers put up the fight without gloves. On Saturday nights the barn dance, or outside platform d. ., was held with all the boys a . rls in the community. In summer time Saturday afternoon picnics for everybody were held with d.ncing and all the above mentioned amusements with others, carried on till midnight. Our teachers and preachers would be participants and on-lookers at times.

In 1844, the year my father was born, there were 63 of these subscription schools in Marion County with 600 poor children entitled to the benefits of the Literary Fund distributed by the State to children in need of assistance at the rate of 2 1-2 cents per day. Four hundred of this class of boys and girls were enrolled in the schools and the sum used, or received, in the county was $717.47. This indicates that about a third of the 400 were absent. In 1848, there were 22 more schools in the county, or a total of 85 in the county with an additional increase of 107 pupils. In 1850 when my father started to school there were 92 schools in the county. Ten years later nearly all these schools went out of existence because of the Civil War.

WILLIAM RYLAND WHITE, an old Sunday school teacher of this writer, was appointed the first State Superintendent of Free Schools in West Virginia beginning in 1863 and served until 1869 (the year I was born). He received an annual salary of $1,250.00 and had no assistants. On January 13, 1866, he made a written report to Governor Boreman, and at that time there were only 133 school houses in the State of West Virginia with a total valuation of $40,-341.00 or an average value of $303., 00 a building. Excluding the Wheeling buildings the value was $63.00. The total school expenditure for all of West Virginia for the year 1865 was $7,722. In some of these buildings as many as two terms were taught, and in addition a number of old barns and houses were used for school purposes; because the report shows there were 387 teachers and 431 schools. The school enrollment was 15,972. The average term of school was 2.7 months. The highest salary paid any teacher outside of Wheeling was $40 a month. Most salaries ranged from $9 to $18 a month. Superintendent White said what West Virginia schools needed was good teachers and good buildings. Outside of these two items it seemed to be all right.

The law provided for five grades in the schools. Among the books adopted by the legislature as text books were:

McGuffey's New Revised Readers

McGuffey's New Eclectic Spelling Book

Ray's Arithmetic

Ray's Elementary and Higher Arithmetic

Pineo's Primary and Analytical Grammar.

Mitchell's New Revised Geography

Goodrich's Common School History of the United States

These books were in use when I attended my first school in 1876. To the above course the teacher was expected to use his own method of teaching West Virginia and local County History. He could use any system of penmanship. The Spencerian System was generally used; later the Vertical System, and then the Back-hand. Harvey's English Grammar was added, with Kidd's Elocution and Brown's Physiology. McGuffey's Readers numbered from One to Six, inclusive. All the above books I used as text books during my ten years spent in the country schools in two log and two frame school houses. The log houses had for equipment a wood stove sitting in the middle of the room in a box of dirt; a large wood box in one of the rear corners for the wood; four benches ten feet long made from split chestnut, or oak saplings, with hickory pins in them for legs, were set in a square around the stove for seats. No backs and no desk in front. Then six more were made just like these to set around the walls of the room. Two of them were used on a platform six feet wide, with an eight inch rise running full width of the room, as recitation seats. Just above these seats a black board made of two poplar boards, each two feet wide, running full width of the room, was located. The teacher occupied the right end of the platform facing the ment consisted of a stand table two and a half feet square with a drawer in it, and an arm chair usually furnished by the teacher himself. Just back of him in the corner from two to five hickory withes of various sizes and length, stood as a solemn reminder of law enforcement. And the law was written on the black board where these implements of law enforcement stood. It gave one the opportunity of studying the law and and the implements at the same time. The idea was very practical and very impressive. Besides very few days passed without a demonstration performed on the platform in full view of all.

Usually there were from 60 to 90 pupils of all sizes crowded in these small huts. Classes ranged from A.B.C. to higher arithmetic. In the higher classes those who were planning to teach were used as assistant Teachers. At least 30 class recitations a day was necessary. We were allowed 30 minutes on the seats around the stove to get warm. The bell rang and we moved back on the seats around the wall where we could rest our backs against the wall and let the shivering ones come to the stove. The scholars were divided into three clans—"the stove huggers," "the wall leaners," and "the class reciters." The frame school houses finally had those beautiful, curved "store seats." In the log huts the writing desk was a wide board on pins along one side of the hut. My average term of school was about three and one half months for ten years. I then taught for ten years using same books.

I taught the Hickory Knob School four miles west of Brink, W. Va. It was a new frame building completed a few days before the term began, and was located in Wetzel county. This building was located in a vast timber region, and had only about a half acre cleared around it. I walked about three miles from my boarding house to the school and did my own janitor work, because we received $7.50 for the full four months term for building our own fires, sweeping, dusting and scrubbing the school room. One morning after building the fire we went out to the wood pile to bring in a load of wood, and incidentally we looked down the hill and saw two little girls and a boy running around a big black dog partly in play and to keep it from getting in their dinner buckets.. We started down to help them get by the dog, as I thought, to the school house. We had not gone far until we discovered it was no dog, but a very large black bear. We kept our safe distance with our right eye on the school house door, and tried to get the girls to throw out part of their dinner to the bear and while he was eating it to run to the school house. I could not make them believe it was a bear and of course I could not get them to part with their dinner, even after promising them mine. I then appealed to the boy and after he took a couple of squints at the animal he realized, at least, that it was no "hound dog," and he took the lid off his bucket and threw the hunk of bacon and corn bread down the hill and when the bear went after it, the children made their escape to the school house, and I think I led the chase. It was but a few minutes, and the bear had completed his meal and started toward the school house in which there were 34 children and myself. The large boys and girls had not yet arrived. The bear could easily come in the windows. Pandemonium and terror took hold of the children and they fled through the windows and down the opposite side of the mountain.

I ran out to the woodshed to get an ax. Just at this point one of the patrons of the school arrived with his little boy and three fox hounds and an airdale dog. The dogs at once saw the bear coming and the Airdale, that is afraid of nothing, made a bee line for the bear and the other dogs followed, and the chase was on. Word was dispatched to hunters at Brink, Logansport, Seven Pines, Glover Gap, Burton, Littleton, Willeyville, Robinson's Mill, Pine Grove and Earnshaw. By noon more than 300 dogs were in the chase. No dog lived if he got within reach of the bear's powerful fore-paw. Many dogs were found along the course of the chase with crushed heads and broken backs. The chase lasted until after midnight. At Earnshaw a farmer heard his hogs squealing and in a state of panic, arose and started across his yard to the hog pen and could see the outline of a large animal through the darkness, climbing over the fence. He opened fire with his old muzzle-loading rifle and luckily for him he struck a vital spot and the animal fell back in the pen. His wife brought a lantern and to their utter astonishmen they witnessed the dying of the "big black bear that they had heard of about noon that day, never for once thinking they would ever see that animal." It had killed three of his pigs before he fired the fatal shot that ended the mighty, exciting big bear chase of Wetzel County. It was over a week before I could get my school back to normal. It was announced that a number of bear had been coming from the southern counties to Randolph, Barbour and Wetzel counties for mast — chestnuts, beech nuts, acorns, etc.

There is another unusual and interesting matter I shall mention about this Hickory Knob school. About 100 yards down the hill on a flat stood a little new log hut in the edge of the woods facing a clearing of about four acres. A Civil War veteran, age about 55 years, he drew a pension from the government for injuries received in the war and he and his young mountaineer wife lived in this hut. They were married when she was about 14 years old and within four years they had three fine looking baby boys. Her husband could not read because of impaired sight, and she had never attended school. She did not know one letter from another. At the end of my first month of school she came with her three babies to enroll as a student. This was my first puzzling problem. The law said that anyone between the ages of 6 and 21 years of age was eligible to attend school. The problem was the three little fellows. I could not maintain order with them in the room. She said under the circumstances she could not leave them at the house, and that she would go insane if she could not learn to read and write. Two of the older girl students solved part of the problem by suggesting that she be given lessons from 8 to 9 o'clock and from 4 to 5 o'clock and they would take care of the children. I have directed and taught lessons and books to many hundreds of persons in my time. I have never known an individual that could devour books as rapidly and understandingly as this young mother. The whole school became interested in the "Mother Pupil" as they called her, and asked that she be permitted to attend the school with her children and they would see that they did not interrupt the regular order of the class work. We consented and the older students built a pen in one corner of the school room with stove wood and put the three children in it with playthings. Nothing could have worked better. At the end of the three months she attended, she could spell any word in McGuffey's Speller; she completed McGuffey's readers from the 1st to the 6th inclusive; she was the best writer in the school; completed the major part of Ray's Third Arithmetic, Mitchell's Geography, U. S. and State History and Civil Government; Physiology and Hygiene, she knew all the book had to tell and she put it in practice and soon had the most sanitary home and surroundings I ever saw in the country at that time. She read the New Testament through, also Goodriche's History of the World and many other books and papers. Her husband told me she studied at least 20 hours a day and that he did all the work to give her the opportunity she cried for so many times. At the last examination held on the last two days of school her grades were: Orthography, 96; Reading, 94; Penmanship, 90; Arithmetic, 84; English Grammar, 88; Physiology and Hygiene, 99; U. S. History, 80; W. Va. History, 84; Geography, 82; Civil Government, 88.

In those days we used our best scholars as assistant teachers and she was the best one I had. Believe it or not. It is just things like this that make you glad that you were one time a teacher. It has been about 52 years ago since I taught this school. One of my old pupils, Mr. E. P. Jackson, of Smithfield, W. Va., president of the Hickory Knob Home Coming Association, hold their annual meeting at the Hickory Knob School house about the 1st of September in honor of the first term of school and the teachers and scholars who have attended that mountain school house.

MY SECOND AND THIRD TERMS were taught at my old home school at BRINK five miles east of Hickory Knob school in Marion County. Nothing out of the ordinary happened at this school. It served a good purpose, and had a successful career in educating the Mountaineer "seng" diggers (Ginseng). These are a few examples: Rev. Lewis E. Ressegger, a prominent M. E. Minister; A Tilden Spear, a high class attorney at Elkins, W. Va.; Dr. Howard Batson, a World War overseas doctor, Marion County health physician, at Mannington, W. Va.; Leroy Kendall, Lewis Spencer, Porter Kendall, Trainer Snodgrass, Howard Kendall, Hagar Ott, Bruce Snodgrass, Ulysses Wright, "Red" Toothman, and myself were some of the Old McGuffey teachers. Also Homer Toothman, County Superintendent of Schools, and Sheriff of Marion County. Business men above the average came from this same hayseed "hick" school, viz., Everett G. Kendall, prominent oil operator, Ada, Oklahoma; Jacob Ott, A. Ward Kendall, John Henry Snodgrass, farmers and many others.

MY FOURTH TERM was at the White School on Bartholomew, west of Seven Pines. In that day this school was located in a wealthy community. There were no underprivileged students in this school. The young folks had plenty and had been given the best of opportunities. One of my boy students was a construction engineer later, on the Panama Canal. (Mr. Cole.) He constructed many of the improved highways in W. Va. One of his difficult jobs was the construction of U. S. Highway No. 50 over the mountains east of Grafton, W. Va.

The financial rewards for my first 4 terms gives us the following picture. The first term was on a No. 2 Certificate. The other three on a No. 1. $7.50 was allowed for janitor work.

1st term. Salary per month $22.50. 4 months total $90.00. Janitor $7.50—Total income for the term, $97.50. 4 months board $7.50 per month, total $30.00; Institute 5 days attendance, $7.50, $37.50. Net income, $60.00.

2nd term. Salary $27.50 per month plus janitor work, $117.50. Expenses $10 a month for board plus institute costs, $47.50. Net income, $70.00.

3rd term. Salary $32.50 per month plus janitor service, $137.50. Expenses board $10 a month plus institute costs, 47.50. Net income, $90.00.

4th term. Salary and janitor income same as above, $137.50. Board $12.50 a month plus institute costs, $57.50. Net income, 80.00.

Grand net total income for the four terms, $300.00. Educational investments for the same period was one summer Normal at Pine Grove, W. Va., under County Superintendent McAllister, and three terms at the Fairmont Normal and the four County Examinations $280.00. Grand total net income for four school years $20.00. (1885-1886-1887-1888)

,To make a living I worked on the farm clearing land, plowing, hoeing, cutting and shucking corn, sowing and cutting wheat and hay, peeling tan bark and delivering it to the Burt Tannery at Mannington, ten miles away. Buying sheep and wool for Baltimore firms, receiving wages at the rate of 50 and 75 cents a day for 12 and 14 hours work. This was partly during the "Cleveland Panic and Coxey's Army Days." One thing can be said about these times any one could find a job and get work any and every day. Loafing jobs were just as hard to get then as now.

LIFE'S MILE STONES pass by swiftly. As I looked out today throuh life's window I saw standing in front of me "Kendall's Seventy-third Mile Stone." I at once thought "how long have I been traveling to reach this Mile Stone?" The wheels in my head began to turn and they turned up the following to my gaze:

YOU HAVE LIVED—

876-months.
3,796-weeks.
26,645-days.
639,480-hours.
38,368,800-minutes.
2,302,128,000-Seconds.

IN SEVENTY-THREE YEARS.

KENDALL RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Under "unfinished business" the house took under consideration the KENDALL resolution inviting Will Rogers to speak before the house this afternoon and see "a magnificent joke in operation."

The joke part of it was a little too strong for the delegates and on motion of delegate Keatley of Kanawha, it was stricken from the resolution. It was then suggested by Dr. Robinson that Mr. Rogers be invited to speak at a joint session of the house and senate. The Kendall resolution was thereupon amended and the hour was set at 3 o'clock.—Charleston Gazette.

William B. C. Kendall, born May 18, 1844, died May 16, 1926, son of Elias Kendall, born March 10, 1816, died April 4, 1905, who was a son of Rev. William Kendall born 1782, died 1855, who was a son of Samuel Kendall (the Twin), born 1749, died 1821, who was a son of William Kendall, born 1717, died 1790, who was a son of William Kendall, Sr., born 1695, died 1777, who was a son of Thomas Kendall, born 1672, died 1720, who was a son of John Kendall, born 1617, died 1679 and who came from England.

William B. C. Kendall, owned and operated a large stock farm. Was a veternarian, trained horses for circus shows, and was himself a ring-master in a large circus; a justice of the peace; a school trustee; overseer of the poor; road supervisor; active member of the Farmers Grange, and was secretary of this organization for a number of years; a contractor and builder of round log houses, hewed log buildings; frame buildings. Made a specialty of building cut stone chimneys; dealer in thoroughbred horses, sheep, and cattle. He was a bridge builder in the Union Army; hired two substitutes for the army—one was killed. He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge and the Masonic Lodge. He attended subscription and private schools; entered Duff's College at Pittsburgh, Pa., where he graduated. He collaborated with Dr. Kendall of New England in producing a very popular class of Medicines for horses and all other animals. Politically he was a Democrat. He was a Baptist. Mother's Day

(Mother's Day originated in Andrews Church at Grafton, W. Va., where Mrs. Ann Reeves Jarvis gave a third of a century as head of the primary Sunday School department; a daughter of a Methodist minister; the Mother of Anna Jarvis, Founder of Mother's Day, on the anniversary of her Mother's death in 1908; now observed in every nation on earth; the writer served in this church eleven years as Superintendent of Sunday Schools; and in 1907 at the request of Miss Jarvis, I made the first address advocating the launching of the day for all mothers everywhere, and then in 1908 Miss Jarvis did launch the day, and in three years it made its way around the world, the most universally accepted memorial day in all the world.)

The following address is taken from a book "Mother's Day, A History of its Founding and its Founder," by Norman F. Kendall.

Why a Mother's Day?

The First Mothers Day Address, by Norman F. Kendall, Andrews M. E. Church, Grafton, W. Va., May, 1907.

To preserve Mother's best traditions, best ideals, best history, best philosophy and the best service given to her country, her church, and her family. Let us have a Memorial Mothers Day in honor of our Mothers for the love, devotion, sacrifice, and inspiration given without stint to her sons and daughters. Our Mothers are our first instructors and our staunchest friends throughout life.

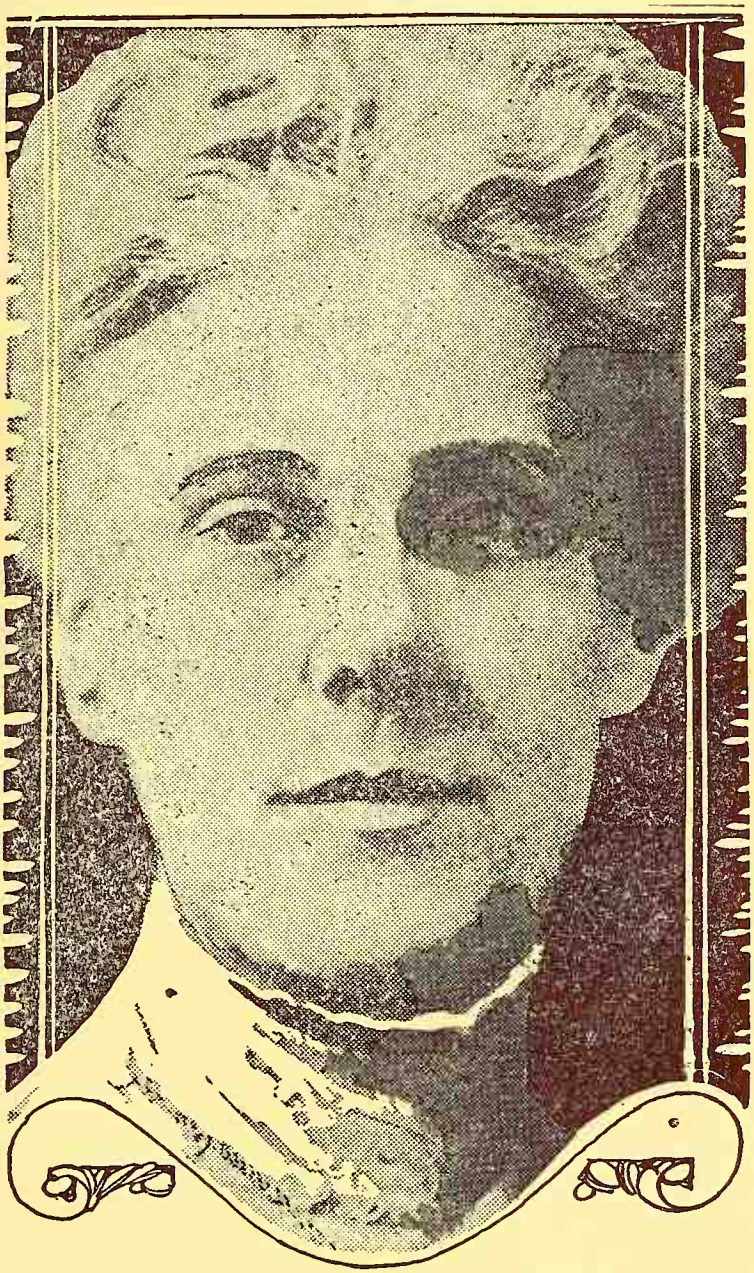
Both justice and fairness require that we should bestow on our Mothers an honorable appreciation and remembrance for her noble achievements. She lived, loved, and labored with dad, that we might have a better world in which to work and be happy. God will not prosper an ungrateful son, or daughter. He commands that we "Honor our fathers and mothers that our days may be long upon the land he has given us." This is the first commandment with a promise.

"BEHOLD THY MOTHER." These words make the shortest will ever written. Jesus, the Man of Sorrows, looked down from the cross upon His grief-stricken, heart-broken Mother, bequeathed her to His beloved disciple, John. John, "Behold thy Mother—Mother, behold thy son." John did love and care for Jesus' Mother. Mary, His Mother was the only inheritance Jesus had left on earth, and He did not forget her, even when dying.

"BEHOLD THY MOTHER." Today, down across the centuries, this command rings out again to all the sons and daughters of men to give consideration to Mother—that word of power, of magic, of inspiration, next to that of Jesus, the sweetest word the world has ever known—Mother.

In the history of every land, ancient and modern, motherhood has holiness in its profound idea. It is based upon sacrifice. Without sacrifice there can be no progress no salvation. That is the lesson of motherhood. That is the lesson of life. Mother is now, and ever will be, one of the great stabilizing forces for a better Christian civilization, because, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

MOTHER'S DAY, MAY 13, 1928



MISS ANNA JARVIS, FOUNDER OF MOTHER'S DAY

Born at Webster, four miles from Grafton, W. Va. A woman of strong character, far-sighted vision, commanding personality, a fluent speaker. Her early church life was spent in Andrews Church, Grafton. "The Old Mother's Day Church."

MRS. ANN MARIA (REEVES) JARVIS

Mother of Miss Anna Jarvis, Founder of Mother's Day.

She was the daughter of Rev. Joshua W. Reeves, D. D., an able M. E. preacher. While visiting his daughter he preached in Andrews church. Mrs. Jarvis was Primary Sunday School Superintendent of Andrews Church, Grafton, for 25 years. Through her work more than 1,400 young people united themselves with the churches of Grafton. It was she who prevented the M. E. Churches of Grafton from dividing on Civil War issues. Of her eleven children, only two are living—the two daughters. Mrs. Jarvis suggested the Mother's Day idea to her daughter.

MRS. RACHEL KENDALL

Mother of Our Teacher, Norman F. Kendall.

Mrs. Kendall was born January 22, 1848. She lives at Rymer, near Mannington, W. Va. Wm. B. C. Kendall, her husband, died at the age of 83, May 16, 1926. She is an active member of the M. E. Church, South. Her oldest sister, Mrs. Shaver, mother of Clem Shaver, has been a member of the same church for 76 years, and is still active.

Mrs. Kendall says, "My prayer is that my children be an honor to their parents, a credit to the church, and loyal, law-abiding citizens to their country."

When thou art feeble, old, and gray,
My healthy arm shall be thy stay,
And I will soothe thy pains away,
MY MOTHER.

The General Conference of the M. E. Church in 1912 recognized Mother's Day as a Special Church Day.

During Woodrow Wilson's Administration a Resolution, called "The Mother's Day Flag Resolution," was enacted, calling for the display of the Flag on Mother's Day.

No language can express the power, the majesty, the beauty of a mother's love; it grows stronger where man faints, and over the wastes of worldly fortunes sends the radiance of its quenchless fidelity like a star in heaven.

Mother should always be remembered, and remembered often. See her; write her, telephone her, actively love her.

MOTHER'S DAY, MAY 13, 1928
ANDREWS M. E. CHURCH

"Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother."

COMPLIMENTS OF THE KENDALL BIBLE CLASS.

Mrs. Jarvis insisted that, "Mothers must have faith in God, faith in the church, faith in their country, faith in their community, faith in their family, and a large faith in themselves;" and this led to her establishing in connection with her children's work, her mothers work for better Mothers, better homes, better children, better men and women.

The great desire of Mrs. Jarvis for a Mothers Day Memorial had a profound impression on her daughter, Anna, who passionately loved her Mother. As the years passed the idea impressed her daughter more and more. Finally that Mother, so dear to Miss Anna Jarvis, was taken to "a mansion in the sky," to rest from her long years of labor in this church.

So Miss Anna Jarvis decided to make her Mother's desire and dream come true. She has asked us to observe this First Mothers Day, especially in honor of her mother, who gave her life to this church and this community. She wants this day, also, to include the honoring of all Mothers in this county and community because they were her friends and co-workers in advancing right and righteousness. She has called on us to make the day a home-going and letter-writing day to Mother and father.

Desiring to perpetuate the teachings and work of her Mother for all Mothers, Miss Jarvis has, through the years, fully visioned and planned a Mothers Day to honor Mother and appraise her great worth in the higher qualities and eternal things of life. Mother imparts everlasting lessons to her children; she is the greatest factor in the church life of the nation. Women are the leading and dominant factors in the schools; and she now bids fair to dominate the politics and the government of the nation; she has in a large way entered the field of business, and the professions. Miss Jarvis says, "Is this not reason enough for establishing a Mothers Day in honor of the Mothers of the nation?" In this we heartly concur-there should be an approved Mothers Day, and she knows her old home church and friends will lend their full support.

This new Mothers Day is to honor our Mothers—living or dead. It is to be a day every nation can adopt, without question, because Mother-love is the same in the life of every nation, and every people. Bread and water are universally accepted by every living person as food. The cry of a baby sounds the same, and is the same, regardless of its race, color, or nationality. Mother's love is just as universal in its power and influence, as applied to the human race. Napoleon said: "Mothers are makers of men, regardless of where they live."

An English prisoner of war attempted to escape from one of Napoleon's ships. He was brought before the great general to answer for the offense. Napoleon said, "Sir, did you intend to try to cross the Channel in such a frail little boat?" The prisoner replied, "Yes, General, I meant to try, in order to see my Mother, who is old and infirm." "You shall see her," said Napoleon. "Take her this money from me, for she must be a good Mother to have such an affectionate son, and God's blessings go with you, and heaven's benediction upon your good Mother."

A soldier boy without permission jumped overboard from one of Admiral Dewey's ship, after an old coat, during the battle of Manilla Bay. Admiral Dewey asked, "Why did you leave the ship without permission for that old ragged coat?" The soldier said, "Admiral, it was not the coat I was after; I did not care for that; it was Mother's picture in the pocket I was after." Admiral Dewey said, "No soldier shall be punished on my ships who will take that risk for the sake of his Mother's picture."

"The noblest thoughts my soul can claim,
The holiest words my tongue can frame,
Unworthy are to praise the name
More sacred than all other.
An infant when her love first came—
A man, I find it just the same,
Reverently, I breathe the name,
The blessed name of Mother.

We dismiss Mothers not to the chambers of forgetfulness and death. What we admired and prized, and venerated in them, can never be forgotten. To feel not and speak not; this is not the end of existence to the Mothers who have breathed their spirits into the institutions of their counry, and their character and inspiration into the hearts and lives of all humanity.

Sorrow for the departed is the only sorrow from which we refuse to be divorced. We seek to heal every other wound; every other affliction to forget; but this wound we consider our duty to keep open. Where is the Mother that would forget the infant that perished like a blossom from her arms, though every recollection is a pang? Where is the child that would willingly forget the most tender of parents, though to remember be but to lament? Beautifully have these sentiments been expressed by Everett and Irving.

No, the love which survives the tomb is one of the noblest attributes of the soul. There is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song; there is a recollection of the dead to which we turn even from the charms of the living. The graves of those we loved—what a place for meditation. There it is we call up in long review the whole history of virtue, and gentleness, and the thousand endearments lavished upon us. No! these are not dead.

Tell me, ye who tread the silent city of the sleeping, is Mary, the Mother of Jesus, dead? Or the Mothers of Washington, of Moses, of David, of Paul, of Wesley, of Luther, of Lincoln, of Lee, of Jefferson, of Beecher, of Shakespeare, of Moody—are they dead? These are Mothers like your Mother, who never die. Knowing this, then let us be more faithful and affectionate in the discharge of our duties to the living.

Mothers cannot die:—

"These shall resist the empire of decay,
When time is o'er and worlds have passed away;
Cold in the dust the perished heart may lie,
But that which warmed it once can never die."

KEY TO CITY.

Dr. Walter G. Kendall. Quincy's grand old sportsman, has received many honors during his long and active career but none which he prizes more than the key to the city of Boston which was presented to him by Standish Wilcox, Mayor Curley's personal representative, at the 53rd annual banquet of the Boston Bicycle club at the Boston Art club. Before making the presentation of the key, which was fashioned from an old elm on Lexington battleground, Mr. Wilcox read a letter from Mayor Curley, who is vacationing at Palm Beach, conveying his warmest personal regard for Dr. Kendall as a man and sportsman.

Mayor McGrath was among the invited guests at the dinner and he paid tribute to Dr. Kendall by stating that the venerable dentist was one of Quincy's finest citizens and that he did not need a key to the city of Quincy as it was always open to him anyhow. The mayor also touched on the old days of high bicycle riding.

Tom Leavitt, another speaker, recalled a race in Quincy in which ex-Mayor Joseph L. Whiton competed.

Dr. Kendall was the genial master of ceremonies and introduced all the speakers. The doctor also added the fine Kendallian touch to the menu with original verses: The tale of fifty-three years

Is very quickly told;
Some of us have grown prosperous,
But not a soul grows old.
Our waists are waxing larger,
Our heads are touched with snow,
And we can't kick the pedals
As we did long years ago.

Election of officers resulted in Dr. Kendall being named captain of the club for the 45th time. Quincy Kilby was chosen president emeritus and Albert E. Schaaf of Cleveland the next president. Dr. Kendall's son Charlie is on the Governing committee.

Dean Stanley always read a book through, carefully, three times: 1. For the story. 2. For the thought. 3. for the plan and style. He had another rule he always carried out, and that was to "TAKE DOWN MY FAMILY HISTORY REVIEW IT ONCE A YEAR, AND AS OFT AS I DID, I DID IT IN REMEMBERANCE OF MY ANCESTORS FOR WHAT THEY DID FOR ME." He further says he added annually all births and deaths, and marriages, and where they lived, carefully giving dates so essential history.

SGT CHARLES EDMOND KENDALL, son of Dennis and Elizabeth Kendall. His picture may be found on page 57 of this book, and also may be seen in the Appendix at the head of the Canadian Kendall troops of World War one, with his brother Rev. Oren Kendall. The following is his family history.

Sgt. Charles Edmund Kendall born July 10, 1868, Chelsea, Que., married Martha Eoline Hoffar, born March 16, 1881, Walla Walla, Washington, April 12, 1904, Vancouver.

Her father was Noble Stonestreet Hoffar, B. A., M. A., Architect, Georgetown University, and was born at Washington, D. C. Died Nov. 1907, at Vancouver, B. C. Her mother was Sarah Anne Odom from Missouri, born about 1862. Mr. Hoffar was Vancouver's first architect.

They had four children — 9th generation in America and 4th in Canada.

1. Noble Edmund Kendall, born January 2, 1907, Waldo, B. C. Canada. Pianist and teacher of piano.

2. Anne Eoline Kendall, born October 16, 1908, Waldo, Died October 24, 1908, Waldo, B. C.

3. Philip Charles Kendall, born December 1, 1910, Vancouver, B. C. Shipbuilding apprentice at Boeing Aircraft company, Vancouver, B. C.

4. Richard Arthur Kendall, born August 29, 1922, Vancouver, B. C. All living at 1156 Burnaby Street, Vancouver, B. C.

Sgt. Charles E. Kendall learned the millwright trade and at 23 was in charge of sawmill design and construction, and continued this work for 24 years until the Great War broke out. Then he joined the Gordon Highlanders of Canada, at Victoria, B. C., for overseas service and later transferred and went to France with the 67th Battalion "Western Scots" as a machine gunner. Was in the trenches at the Battle of Ypres in Belgium and the Somme in France and in October, 1916, was transferred as draftsman to 4th Division Intelligence Dept. After the battle and taking of Vimy Ridge, he was sent on special duty to the New Zealanders at the battle and taking of Messines Ridge in Belgium, then ordered for duty with the Royal Engineers attached to 5th army at Amiens.

In the latter part of 1917 he was transferred for special duty with the Forest Control Department and later to duty with Canadian Forestry Corps and travelled constantly through France and Belgium on this work. Was recommended for Commission, in the field, three times, but declined the honor for personal reasons. Was shell-shocked and gassed at Ypres, slightly wounded at the Somme, gassed at Vimy and seriously smashed up near Valenciennes, October 28, 1918, just two weeks before the Armistice. After passing through hospitals in France and England was placed on hospital ship "Araguaya" at Liverpool, England, April 15, 1919, and arrived in Canada May 1st, obtained discharge from army as sergeant May 23, 1919, marked "medically unfit" and had to attend hospital daily for many months for massage treatment.

He was too much crippled to take up his old profession again and was engaged by the Waterous Engine Works Company of Brantford, Ontario, and is still with them as sales engineer for British Columbia.

He became a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of B. C., Mechanical Engineer. Has mostly recovered from his disability.

JAMES B. KENDALL, born about 1843; married Annie Shoultice, at East Empleton, Quebec, Ontario. James was a tall thin fellow; he had some "wild cat blood" in him and did some fighting. He heard about the Civil War way down in the United States and he thought that would be a place to get in a real "scrap." He put on a coon skin cap, a raindeer pair of pants, Eskimo moccasins on his feet, and a grizzly bear overcoat and came down to see UNCLE SAM, and he gave him a ticket to join the Union army, and Sgt. C. E. Kendall (See page 57 of this Book) says the following about him:

James in his younger days was a very wild young man, with a fine tenor voice and a comic opera style. He and his sister Jane and his brother Isaac used to congregate at Dennis Kendall's, my father's house, and the four of them made a great quartette for sacred songs and glees. When out with the boys, Jim specialized in Darky Plantation songs. He would have made a great comic opera singer if it had been possible to get serious thoughts of study into his head. While he was not a quarrelsome man, he seemed to delight in fighting. He was tall and slender and active as a wild cat. My mother Elizabeth Kendall used to tell about one time in Buckingham, her servant girl came running into the house crying out "Oh, dear, that tin (thin) faced Kendall is fighting again" and this name always stuck to him. Jim joined the Northern Army, during the War of Rebellion and was seriously wounded at the Battle of Cold Harbour, before Petersburg, while skirmishing. The Confederates were in rifle pits and he was behind a tree and while firing his rifle he put his foot out to steady himself, when a sniper shot him in the leg. The wound never properly healed and his leg was shrunken and short, but in spite of this handicap he remained a very active man. He was a successful millwright and builder.

You may note the number of SARAH KENDALLS named in this book. It is a Bible name, as you know. If you know your Bible you will recall that SARAH in the Bible is the only woman whose complete age, death, and burial are recorded in the Scriptures.

The marriage of ISAAC is the first in the Bible of which we have the particulars. A very long chapter is devoted to it. And when you read the many marriages in this book, and maybe your own, there is usually a long, long chapter after these marriages, and the results of these marriages have produced many pages of living history. Wise people keep a worth-while record of this family history for those who come after them, who in after years take great pleasure in keeping your memory and your works and your sacrifice alive, with real appreciation.

3. Kathleen Nora Kendall married Urie Woodall at Los Angeles. Born August 22, 1908, Vancouver, B. C.

They have 1 child, Arthur Robert, born May 16, 1928, Los Angeles. Address: 236 No. "L" street, Tulare, California.

Descent from Dennis L. and Elizabeth (Carson) Kendall. (See Page 57 in this Book).

Dr. Kendall was educated at Columbia College, New Westminster, and taught school for a number of years, then entered McGill University, Montreal, as a medical student. He graduated in 1902, and started practicing at New Westminster, and later bought a district at Cloverdale, B. C., where he practised for a number of years.

He wanted to take post graduate work and having a chance to sell his practice he did so and went back to McGill for a term. He later took charge of the childrens' Floating Hospital in Boston for the summer months, then went to London, England, for post graduate work in the University of London and afterwards in the University of Edinburgh. Returning to British Columbia, he opened an office in Vancouver, B. C. and won instant popularity and a large practice. He was greatly interested in mountain climbing and was secretary of the Alpine Club of Canada. During the summer months of 1910 he became run down in health and taking a few days off he climbed Mt. Baker, which was too severe a strain, and a few weeks later he was attacked with typhoid fever from which he died. He was attaining high rank as a physician and surgeon and was very popular with the people. He had a good baritone voice and was a good pianist and organist. During his student days in Montreal he sang at the Metropolitan Methodist church. He was a member of the Baptist Church at New Westminster and later the First Baptist Church at Vancouver, B. C.

Arthur Lloyd was educated in the Vancouvevr public schools and attended the Vancouver and Toronto technical schools. He is now employed as salesman by an engineering company at Vancouver, B. C.

Galloway, Xenia, Ohio.

Prof. Wm. Kendall of Arkansas sends us the following quotations: "Under God's law He speaks of blotting out the sinner; under the dispensation of grace he only calls for blotting out sin. When the law was proclaimed, three thousand lost their lives. At the first preaching of the gospel, three thousand gained life everlasting. This is evidence that the world is growing better. Old thoughts must die and new thought must take its place." We find this name idea proclaimed in letters received from Kendalls from every part of the world.

After you have read and studied the One thousand years of KENDALL HISTORY covered by this Book you will be impressed how this family has figured, largely, in Church and Educational matters, and in Commerce and Agriculture. For the last 400 years they have not ranked high as office seekers in politics. They do figure conspicuously in appointive positions where efficiency counts, and responsibilities are exacting.

Hon. N. F. Kendall,
c/o House of Delegates,
Charleston, W. Va.,

Dear Sir:-

We have just received your courteous letter of 20th inst. informing us of the Governors approval of House Bills No. 50 and No. 337 and that No. 51 becomes a law unsigned; aside from the sense of satisfaction that you have in having faithfully performed your duty to your County, you have also earned the gratitude of the progressive and well meaning element in this City and County.

Respectfully yours,

The American Legion of West Virginia

June 9, 1927

Hon. N. F. Kendall,
Member House of Delegates,
Charleston, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Kendall:

Although it has been several weeks since the session of the Legislature terminated, at which the most of our Legislative Program was enacted into law, I desire to take this opportunity of expressing to you, on behalf of the members of the American Legion, our appreciation of your support of the majority of these measures and especially for your very effective work done in regard to the Taylor County National Cemetery Bill. I am sure that your work in behalf of that measure will be appreciated by the veterans of all Wars in the State.

We would be very happy to have you with us at our State Convention at Williamson, August 4, 5 and 6, in order that you might receive from the boys in convention assembled there the welcome which you deserve.

With best personal wishes, I am

Cordially yours,

ROBERT B. McDOUGLE, Department Commander.

OUR OWN

Our representatives in both houses, Messrs. Kendall in the House of Delegates and Senator Smith in the upper house, have introduced the American Legion's measure providing for an annual allotment of $1,000 to the Grafton post of the American Legion to defray the expense of a proper annual observance of Memorial Day or Decoration Day on May 30th at the National Cemetery in this city, the only National military burial plot in our state. This measure has the endorsement and backing of the Legion all over the state, and assuredly it will go thru. The law at present allows $500 a year to the G. A. R. post of this county for this purpose; but the old veterans of the Civil Ware are about beyond the day of handling the matter, and it is both timely and well that the younger hands of the veterans of our latest great war, with the added amount to make it equal to the purchasing power of the original sum allotted the G. A. R. for this purpose.

By a vote of 74 to 3 the house passed the bill to provide for annual memorial exercises at the National Cemetery in Grafton, where DELEGATE KENDALL said, are buried soldiers from every county in the state.

OUTLINE FROM BERKELEY COUNTY, W. VA.

MARRIAGE RECORDS.

On the 26th April, 1928, George Hughes obtained a Marriage Bond to marry Margaret Candel. Thomas Woolford signed the bond. They were married the same day by Benedict Reynolds.

On the 11 January, 1864, Henry F. Kendel and Mary V. Fauver were married by C. G. Ferris. He was the son of John H. and Elizabeth Kendel. She was the daughter of Isaac and Harriet Fauver.

On the 26th January, 1871, John W. Kindle and Mary R. Rutherford were married by P. H. Thomas. He was the son of John and Elizabeth Kendel. She was the daughter of George T. and Mary Rutherford.

On the 5th of October, 1884, John W. Kindle and Maggie Dugan were married by H. F. McKeefry. He was the son of J. H. and E. Kendle. She was the daughter of John and B. Dugan.

On the 23rd March, 1891, Thomas E. Kindle and Mamie E. Gosnell were married by S. R. Snapp. He was the son of H. F. and M. V. Kindle She was the daughter of William and F. Gosnell.

On the 12th April, 1899, John W. Kindle and Annie E. Hohman were married. He was the son of George R. and R. A. Kindle She was the daughter of F. C. and S. J. Hohman. Married by J. A. Price.

On the 21st April, 1924, Vernie Kendall and Howard William Shores were married by C. L. Miller. She was the daughter of John and Lillian Kendall. He was the son of William and Gertrude Shores.

On the 25th November, 1925, Hubert E. Kendall and Leona A. Carbaugh were married by R. L. Wood. He was the son of Abram and Ida Kendall. She was the daughter of William and Amanda Carbaugh.

For a long period of years the marriages were only indexed in the name of the man. Consequently, if you are searching for the name of a woman, and you do not know whom she married, it would have to be looked up, in the woman's name, on every line of the index.

In the Book of Genesis you may find the very earliest money transaction on record. The first money transaction on record made by a Kendall in America was made by Col. William Kendall, and his kinsman, John Kendall when they purchased a HOME and a Farm, and paid cash for it. There is a good suggestion here.

THE INSTITUTION OF SLAVERY.

You will recall what Lt. Col. William Kendall said about the first SLAVES sold in JAMESTOWN in 1619, on another page in this book. "Every evil institution, every evil thing, of whatever kind, has within its own body, the seed, "the worm" of its own death, and the punishment to be meted out to the perpetrators, and the condoner." Kendall, in substance said, "the price to be paid for this institution of 'Black Slavery' cannot now, or ever will be estimated in the years to come. I shudder when I think about it." Yet Lt. Col. WILLIAM KENDALL, one of the real founders of JAMESTOWN, the FIRST PERMANENT ENGLISH SETTLEMENT IN AMERICA WAS THE FIRST KENDALL TO BUY AND OWN A SLAVE IN AMERICA. My Kendall ancestors, and your Kendall ancestors understand in part what Col. Kendall said 290 years ago. (Turn to the APPENDIX and look over the KENDALL names.)

PROFESSOR JOHN S. KENDALL, late of Tulane University, and now lives in New Orleans, Louisiana, a noted traveler, writer, teacher, historian; a descendant of our Virginia Kendalls, has written much on this "PECULIAR INSTITUTION." In the preparation of this Book I have had many communications with him. His ancestors grew up with this peculiar institution, and knew it first hand. We shall now quote from his writings in the Louisiana Historical Quarterly, written in 1939 and 1940.

He begins his writings on this subject for the period beginning prior to the year 1700, when the first slaves were negroes and Indians, and with the rapid growth of slavery from 1619 to 1700. In Louisiana alone the number of slaves from 1700 to 1785 grew from 2,000 to 16,500. When the United States took over in 1803 within four years the number reached the astonishing total of about 25,000. In fact you could say New Orleans was a Negro town at that time.

WE NOW QUOTE FROM PROF. KENDALL:

NOT ONLY WERE SLAVES OWNED by individuals in the Southern metropolis, but business houses, commercial organizations, and eleemosynary institutions of all sorts invested in this kind of property. The New Orleans Gas Company, Pontchartrain & New Orleans Railroad, the Red Brick and Tile Company were concerns which made use of considerable numbers of Negro bondsmen in carrying on their enterprises. The Louisiana state engineering department secured from the Legislature the right to purchase slaves to build levees, dig canals, and make other public improvements. Some of the local convents and hospitals required the services of considerable numbers of slaves. Berquin Duvallon, the traveler, writing in 1808, describes two cotton mills and a bakehouse on the outskirts of the city which were operated by slave labor. Mention is also made of distilleries where the work was performed by blacks. Slaves were, in fact, listed as vendable assets by many kinds of corporations. There were mortgages executed on slaves, and slaves were sometimes offered as security in other kinds of financial transactions.

PEOPLE BOUGHT SLAVES for the same reason that they nowadays buy stocks and bonds—as an investment. Widows and minors were particularly fond of putting their money into this kind of property. Slaves so owned were hired out by the day, week, month or season to people who, for one reason or the other, did not wish to acquire permanently such dependents. The returns from these sources were not to be sneezed at. Negro men trained as blacksmiths or carpenters were in demand. In 1860, a slave blacksmith could earn for his master as much as $450 per annum; field hands, from $269 to $360; a competent woman worker from $170 to $336. The compensation demanded for the services of a slave was generally proportioned to the sum which he would bring if put up for sale on the AUCTION BLOCK. Bancroft says that slaves were hired out at from twenty to thirty per cent of their market value. A visitor to the city in 1830 has left on record the fact that all the waiters at the Planters' and Merchants' Hotel were slaves hired from their masters at from $20 to $25 per month, board and washing to be given gratis. A well-trained waiter was, apparently, a valuable acquisition. This writer says that a likely young "buck" so qualified, if sold, would bring $1800 to $2,000. In general, well-trained Negroes sold for two or three times as much as those untrained.

SKILLED NEGRO SLAVES might be, and often were, leased to themselves, the slave paying the master a proportion of his earnings and retaining the balance until he had accumulated enough to purchase his freedom. This course was pursued by John McDonogh, the millionaire philanthropist, to whom New Orleans is indebted for its PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM. McDonogh owned large numbers of slaves, although he disapproved of the system and showed a strong desire to see his salable servitors work out their emancipation.

It must be confessed that slaves put out by their masters for hire were not always treated kindly. The people for whom they worked were not interested in their physical or moral welfare. They looked only to the amount of labor that could be exacted from the slaves at the lowest possible outlay; consequently, the Negroes were not infrequently ill-treated, underfed, and overworked.

DOMESTIC SLAVES WERE, on the whole, well treated. There were many good-natured, indulgent masters. On the other hand, there were instances when domestic slaves were treated with great cruelty.

A NEGRO SONG, popular with the colored people.

I born in Sout' Ca'lina,
  Fines' country eber seen.
I gwine f'om Sout' Ca'lina,
  I gwine to New Orleens.
Ole boss he discontentum,
  He take de mare, Black Fanny,
He buy er peddler wagon,
  He bound fer Lousy Anna.
Chorus:
Ole debble Lousy Anna,
  Dat scarecrow fer po' nigger,
Where de sugar cane grow to pine trees,
  An' de pine tree turn to sugar.

Abdy says that the singers of this ditty knew that, if put to work in the sugar cane fields, it meant that the duration of life was problematical; a slave so employed could hope to survive only a few brief years.

After 1808, the South came to depend on the domestic slave trade. This was supplemented by the illegal importation of slaves from Africa, although this became steadily more and more precarious. The points from which Louisiana derived its principal supplies of black labor were Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, and—strange to say—the District of Columbia. The interstate slave trade was not only a thriving business, but became an essential feature of the slave system. Its volume can be estimated from the facts that, in 1836, Alabama purchased $10,000,000 worth of these human goods, and that some 60,000 slaves passed through a certain town on their way to the Southern market. In fact, the existence of this traffic was one of the principal motives for the perpetuation of the system and for the demand for the extension of slave-owning territory.

Abdy, the traveler whom we have quoted elsewhere, said: "The slave trade is considered the staple of Virginia." There does not seem any doubt that the breeding and export of slaves was a recognized industry not only in that state, but in several of the neighboring states. In 1835-36, Virginia sent out 120,000 slaves, most of them carried away by the owners, who were going to settle in other parts of the South; but 40,000 were slaves exported for sale. In 1836, it is reliably reported that the border states sold to Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana no less than 250,000 slaves.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE of the magnitude of the domestic slave trade is furnished by the fact that in Virginia alone the annual revenue from that source in 1836 was $24,000,000—a sum which increased as slavery was extended to new territory in the West and Southwest, to Texas, for instance. "Virginia," says Alexander Mackey in his Western World, published in 1849, "enjoys the unenviable notoriety of being the chief slave-breeding state." It is said that there were Virginia "farms" where Negroes were bred "like cattle for the market," to employ the picturesque phrase of Reed and Matheson, in their Visit to the American Churches.

SLAVES FROM VIRGINIA and the other centres where they were bred for the market were sent overland to the places where they were wanted. At certain seasons of the year one might see convoys of blacks being marched southward en route to the great slave markets at Charleston, Savannah, Montgomery, Natchez, and New Orleans. The Mississippi river steamboats also offered, not infrequently, a similarly melancholy spectacle, filled with groups of Negroes chained together on their way to Natchez and New Orleans. They were, of course, in charge of white men—dealers, sometimes respected for their integrity and humanity, sometimes quite the reverse, but under no circumstances considered socially eligible.

The financial features of a slave ship's voyage was, according to the Delta, "very variable." Basing its conclusions on the report of a boat which had made a trip to Africa and back to "Mississippi City," the editor said that, "owing to the vigilance of the cruisers, Negroes had accumulated on the coast and, in a manner, glutted the market, in consequence of which the price had fallen under $30 a head. The payment had to be made either in gold or silver, as the headman would not, as formerly, barter for merchandise." As a general rule, it appeared a slave ship trading to the ports contiguous to New Orleans had accommodations for about a hundred Negroes, "although," adds the Delta, "many more than that number are frequently carried." None of them should be over twenty-five years of age. The Negro purchased on the African coast for $30 would bring in Louisiana or Cuba from $450 to $1200. The Delta imagines that a slave ship might bring as many as seven hundred Negroes, which might be disposed of at an average price of $500, netting a total of about $350,000. "Allowing $150,000 for the entire expenses of the voyage, and all possible loss, the profits of one round voyage will amount to $200,000. . . ."

THE PARISH OF ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST. It seems that in St. John the Baptist hundreds of negroes, many of them savages newly imported into the parish, deserted the plantations and joined in a howling mob with the announced intention of murdering their masters and burning or laying waste property. No less than five plantation houses were fired. White men and white women fled on foot or in such conveyances as they could command in that moment of terror and despair. Emboldened at their success, the blacks prepared to attack the city. There were in their ranks men who had participated in the uprising in Hayti, and these took command of the movement. Companies were organized, with elected officers to lead them. The motley array marched down the river towards the city. At each plantation the slaves abandoned their tasks to join them, or were forced to do so.

A mile beyond the Trepagnier estate they found the road blocked by detachments of militia, one of which, hastily sent down to the scene of disturbance from Baton Rouge, was under Major Hilton, and the other, hurried up from New Orleans, was commanded by General Hampton. A brief but bloody battle ensued. The troops fired one volley. The blacks immediately broke and fled screaming in all directions. They left sixty-six of their number dead on the field. Sixteen prisoners were taken. How many negroes were wounded was never known, but they were many. The survivors sought refuge in wood and swamp, and every day for a long time afterwards, additional bodies were discovered in these gloomy retreats, where some badly injured black had gasped out his last breath in the still, dark solitudes to which he had somehow made his way.

A hideous fate was meted out to the prisoners. They were sent down to the city, tried, and immediately convicted of that most terrible crime in old Louisiana—the revolt of the slave against his lawful master. Their heads were struck off in the Place d'Armes, in front of the St. Louis Cathedral, and stuck on high poles were set up at intervals along the river road. There these pitiful relics remained, object of terror to every passer-by, until they mouldered away.

The uprising seems to have been instigated by negroes who got into Louisiana by way of Barataria. Laffite's agents had a pleasant custom of raiding the remoter coasts of the Southern States and stealing salves who were conveyed to Barataria and subsequently sold to the Louisiana planters. These may have spread dangerous propaganda among the local slave population.

At any rate, such was the theory developed at an official investigation eventually held into the matter. Claiborne, (it was Claiborne's vote that elected Jefferson president over Aaron Burr), the governor, fearing a repetition of the rebellion, determined to extirupate the Baratarians; and it was this intention which motivated the attempt made at this time to obtain from the territorial council authority to raise money and men to attack the pirate stronghold. We know how this project fared. The council declined to assist. The peril of the rebellion was over, and the mercurial Creole temperament refused to consider the future. It was better to close one's eyes to what might happen; but one must hold the reins tight over the blacks. They must know who were their master. A lashing now and then might help; besides, when one is afraid one is apt to be cruel.

Nearly a year later, however, Claiborne induced the customs officials at New Orleans to do something about the slave smugglers. That was when Captain Andrew Holmes made his foray on Barataria. He was part of a kind of elementary coast guard service extemporized for the purpose. His enterprise was successful insofar as the capture and removal to New Orleans of some of the pirate leaders was concerned, but it did not break up the slave trade. It required a far greater and more sinister military event than Captain Holmes could engineer to put an end to the illicit business of "black birding."

That was one aspect of slavery. There was another, scarcely less unattractive.

Some years after Latrobe's visit, under the splendid dome of the great white St. Charles Hotel, auctions of slaves were held every Saturday. You could go there and see human beings, male and female, young and old, set up like cattle on the block and bid in by excited purchasers. "I have here a likely young fellow," the auctioneer would announce, in the staccato tone favored by the profession down to this day. "Sam —your name is Sam, isn't it?— is a good cobbler,—" or carpenter, or cook, or what-not, enumerating his qualifications. "How much am I bid?"

These sales were held in the famous barroom of the hotel, a semi-circular room on the ground floor, with huge brick columns supporting the vast structure above. There were two auction blocks, one at each end of the bar, this one for male slaves, that one for females. Sometimes there were only a few negroes to be disposed of; sometimes there were a great many.

What the scene was like on an auction day we may gather from some random notes jotted down years ago afterwards by one who actually witnessed more than one of these occasions. He says:

Slaves brought fancy prices, in those days, between 1857 and 1860. The importation of slaves had practically stopped then, and the prices were good. Besides, the war cloud had not come so close that men really believed there was going to be a gigantic struggle. Planters from all along the river, from Natchez and Vicksburg and all places between, used to congregate in New Orleans and come around for the purpose of buying a likely-looking man or a likely-looking woman.

The men always brought the best prices, of course, because they could do the most work. Sometimes the price went as high as $1,200 and sometimes it was as low as $500. It all depnded on whether the planter who was selling had to sell or not. Things were very much as they are now in that regard, and men were as apt as ever to take advantage of the misfortunes of their brthren.

If the slave was a man and warranted in good health, the first bid was somewhere in the neighborhood of $500—that is, if the owner did not have to sell him to pay his debts. That being the case, the first bid was liable to be in the region of $300. Then the contest started, and the auctioneer, after the manner of his kind, enlarged on the value of the man he was selling and what his productive capacity was when he got to the field and was in charge of a hoe or had the direction of the energies of a mule. The bidding would go along until it reached $1,000, and then there would be some hesitation until those who really liked the man for his general appearance could have time to adjust themselves to the situation. Finally some man would timidly bid $1,200, and there would be a pause, unless the slave on the block was an unusually good man.

After the war there were still auctions in the old barroom at the St. Charles, but they were merely of those things which we can still sell, and that is of no interest.

Some of the practices which rose in connection with the slave auctions in New Orleans before the Civil War were hard to condone. That was especially so in regard to the sales of women and girls. They were put on the block no less frequently than the men. Of course, good health, good temper, and the ability to work were just as desirable in their cases as in regard to the other sex.

A recent historian quotes "an old Creole attorney, known to be an authority on the law and customs of slave trading," regarding the stripping of women. "They would strip them," he said, "especially the nice-looking quadroon girls."

The most important detail in the case of female slaves was their ability to bear children.

The next point, however, seems to have been looks. A handsome half-breed girl was sure to attract many bidders. New Orleans before the Civil War was pre-eminently a sporting town. Gambling, racing, the Carnival and a thousand other lures drew to the city annually thousands of those belonging to what we euphemistically term the "sporting class." To such the possession of a handsome mulatress or quadroon represented a peculiarly attractive form of luxury. It was a highly remunerative part of the slave dealer's business to provide "fancy girls" for these men. Such girls brought very high prices. In 1837 a girl "remarkable for her beauty and intelligence" sold for $7000. In 1841 a girl named Sarah was disposed of in the rotunda of the St. Louis Hotel for $8000.

"REBECCA" LAST SLAVE SHIP TO COME FROM AFRICA TO AMERICA.

But if it was possible in the later years of the "peculiar institution" to land a cargo of slaves directly at New Orleans only by resorting to the most elaborate subterfuges, it remained to the last relatively easy to fit out a vessel for the African coast and send her forth from a berth at the city wharves. In 1859, the "Rebecca" was so equipped and dispatched under the very noses of the United States officials. They, indeed, watched the ship and her crew with steadily deepening suspicion, but the responsible persons beguiled them with specious excuses, until the time came for the boat to get under way. The manner in which this was done has been described for us by George Howe, a young New Orleans medical student, who went with her to Africa as physician, and who, late in life, wrote for Scribner's Magazine an account of his experiences.

THE "REBECCA" was a Baltimore clipper of approximately 550 tons burden, capble of making seventeen knots an hour with a favorable wind.

For weeks the "Rebecca" idled away the time at the wharf, and her new proprietors bit their nails in angry retirement. Then suddenly, everything cleared up.

IT SEEMS THAT McDONOGH, at his death in 1850, left a will which emancipated a number of slaves, on condition that they should emigrate to Liberia at the end of a period of years. The time had elapsed and arrangements were being made for their removal to the newly founded republic on the west coast of the Dark Continent. "All the Negroes old enough to work," says Dr. Howe, "had been taught trades and occupations, and all the wages they had earned since their master's death had been placed to their credit, and would be distributed among them, ... they were fully equipped with all the agricultural and mechanical appliances they might need to make them self-sustaining upon their arrival at their future home. There were carpenters, blacksmiths, and coopers among the men; cooks, laundresses, seamstresses, and nurses among the women." It was planned to send them to Baltimore and thence to Liberia in a sailing ship which left annually in the spring for the African coast, taking emigrants and supplies and bringing back such products as the colony exported. When the two "Spanish-speaking gentlemen" heard about it, however, they stepped in with an offer to take the ex-slaves to Liberia on their ship, at a price so low that the McDonogh commissioners accepted it at once.

Thereupon, THE "REBECCA" became the scene of the greatest activity. "Now began the purchase in large quantities of rice, white beans, pork, and biscuits, which were, ostensibly, for our passengers," writes Dr. Howe. "With a long hose all the casks were filled with water from an opening below the water-line in the ship's bow, a supply of lumber was obtained, and bunks constructed between decks the whole length of the ship's hold, and for several times the number of passengers expected."

It will not be necessary to follow THE "REBECCA" on her long and adventurous voyage, except to remark that, from the point of view of her owners, it was very successful. The captain, indeed, on the way out, had the idea of landing his McDonogh protegees in Cuba and selling them as slaves; but Dr. Howe, who was consulted about this pretty scheme, resolutely refused to countenance it, so, somewhat reluctantly, the emigrants were safely disembarked in Liberia. In the Congo the "Rebecca" took on 1200 Negroes.

DR. HOWE TELLS US HOW THE "REBECCA" was repeatedly hailed by British and American warships, escaping on more than one occasion by the narrowest of margins. On the other hand, Cuba was close at hand; the slave markets there were well stocked; Spain had never prohibited the slave trade; prices ranged from $300 to $400 per head, and it was comparatively easy to run a cargo of "black ivory" across the Gulf of Mexico into the shelter of "Pearl River" and the bayous of which "Pearl River" was typical.

THE "REBECCA" LANDED HER CARGO on the south coast of Cuba; Dr. Howe made his way back to the United States and never knew what happened to his fellow-adventurers. The ship, however, was burned and sunk, in order to leave no trace whereby her unholy errand might be traced and her proprietors implicated. Unquestionably, it was a circular traffic—vessels leaving the United States brought slaves from Africa to Cuba, the slaves were smuggled into Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas — wherever you will. The profit was enormous; where so much money was at stake, it was futile to expect anybody to give a thought to the human victims of the traffic. "Each morning three or four dead would be brought up. . . ."

Let us conclude this imperfect account of a unique social situation with a description of the device whereby many slaves were brought in at New Orleans, in spite of the vigilance of the customs officials. Collins, in his DOMESTIC SLAVE TRADE, quotes the story from the DEMOCRAT PRESS, a Southern newspaper of some repute. An agent would be dispatched to Cuba to buy slaves. In the course of time, a vessel loaded with hapless blacks would put in at the Balize, near the mouth of the Mississippi. Here the agent would leave her, hasten up to the city, seek out the authorities, and breathlessly relate a series of entirely fictitious adventures ending in his learning of the true character of the ship. Whereupon the Customhouse would dispatch its emissaries to the Balize and take possession of the boat and her cargo. Up to New Orleans she would come. The courts would be invoked; an order would be issued for her sale and the sale of her cargo. The informer collected one half of the proceeds as a reward for his patriotic interference; and this amount was usually far in excess of the investment which he had made on behalf of his principals, who then, in some retired corner of the city, doubtless over a bottle of fine wine, shared the ill-got gains. Not infrequently, too, these men purchased the slaves at auction, where they brought lower prices than they would if sold separately and at private sale. In that way, there were several profits to be made. It is estimated that, in this ingenious fashion, not less than 10,000 slaves per annum found their way into New Orleans during the closing years of the history of slavery in the city.

THE "REBECCA" WAS THE LAST SLAVE SHIP TO COME FROM AFRICA TO THE NEW WORLD. The flames that consumed her, consumed something else, intangible, but far more important than her shapely hull and towering spars. A few months later THE CANNON BOOMED AT FORT SUMTER; THAT PUT AN END TO MANY THINGS, to New Orleans' interest in the slave trade among others.

As we close the extracts copied from Mr. John S. Kendall's writings, we recall that our own father and grandfather witnessed the last auction sale of slaves at our Old Home Town at Mannington, W. Va. Just before the Emancipation Proclamation was issued, a large number of slaves were bought up at bargain prices at Winchester, Va., shackled and driven to Pruntytown, near Grafton, W. Va., "fed up" and sold at public auction. Harry H. Kendall of Boothsville witnessed this "big Sale." It was at Pruntytown the first slaves were freed as a result of the Civil War. It is a long road from Jamestown, 1619 to Fort Sumter—the beginning and the end. It was a long dream filled with "night-mares" from Lt. Col. William Kendall, the first man of the name to own a slave in America, to "Rebecca" the last slave ship to come from Africa to America. Look at the APPENDIX of this Book and study the names of the Kendall Soldiers.

DR. KENDALL'S AFFABILITY and brilliance have caused him to be made permanent toastmaster of the Boston Terrier and French Bulldog specialty clubs. He has a ready pen, as indicated by the little jingle with which he recently invited his friends to his seventy-first birthday party.

On Tuesday, the first of July,
My birthday is scheduled to be,
And I hope that my pals
Both the boys and the gals,
Will come out and look pleasant at me.

Any time from the florid forenoon
Till the clock in the steeple strikes ten.
For between you and me
I shall seldom be seventy again.

His attitude toward his pets is shown by another little verse with which he concluded a pamphlet on the Squantum Kennels. It read:

When things go wrong, as they sometimes do,
And the world is cold and I'm feeling blue;
He asserts his right to assuage my woes,
With a warm red tongue and a nice cold nose
And a silky head on my arm or knee
And a paw as soft as a paw can be.

The many victories of the Squantum dogs are known to fanciers of the Boston and Frenchie all over the country. Most of them, however, do not know that Dr. Kendall did so much to establish the breed on a standardized line.

In honor of the occasion, Ray P. Clisham, local bard, has written an original poem, entitled, "Dum Vivimus Vivamus", which means "While We Live, Let Us Live." The poem follows:

DUM VIVIMUS VIVAMUS
By Ray P. Clisham

I greet you Doctor Kendall,
Goodness knows I am a dumb thing,
And though I'm somewhat slow to learn.
You sure have taught me something.
Your great delight, it seems to me,
Is in the art of giving,
And if you've taught me nothing else,
You've taught the joy of living.

Seventy-seven years ago
The stork was all a flutter,
When he saw his precious cargo
He couldn't even stutter.
And when the Doc began to yell
Nursie brought him something nice,
But Doc cried out "Hey Bring some Scotch
And don't forget the ice."

His childhood days, I do not doubt,
Caused many a mild sensation.
The nurse maids and the neighbors, too,
Were threatened wtih prostration.
And when his school days opened up
His teachers said, "By thunder,
How one skin can contain so much
Of devilment's a wonder."

But soon the high wheel came to pass,
The doctor kept them busy,
His list of records stands alone,
'Twould keep a sportsman dizzy.
And when it came to raising dogs,
His old friend, T. A. Dorgan,
Got many a laugh about the time
Doc sold a pup to Morgan.

In his modest home in Quincy town,
The section called Atlantic,
He raised grapes that bring him fame
And drive the vinters frantic.
And when his cronies come to call
His friendship so beguiling,
Brings cheer to every bleessed heart
And sends them home a smiling.

But what's the use, this pen of mine
Can never tell the story,
The Granite City feels that Doc
Has brightened Quincy's glory.
And when the day will come at last
To raise a slab above him,
We'll just inscribe these simple words
And tell the world "We Love Him."

DR. W. G. KENDALL IS "FATHER" OF BOSTON TERRIER

DR. WALTER GARDNER KENDALL of Quincy and Boston, Massachusetts.

We set out more than ten years ago, by writing all over the world to the Sports Historians to learn the name of the most outsanding KENDALL SPORTSMAN IN THE WORLD. Without an exception they gave me the name of WALTER GARDNER KENDALL, Dentist, in Quincy-Boston, Massachusetts. They gave him credit of being the most widely known Kendall sportsman in the world, with the best reputation for being an all out good, clean, fair, honest-to-God sportsman. Had best personality, best winner, best loser that ever walked on two feet. His friends could be counted by the thousands all over the world. He knew more things well than any man they knew. He had that insight and ability to bring to perfection what he did know. He reached out all over the world by the way of his big wheel Bicycle, and the KENDALL BOSTON TERRIER DOG—WITH A HUMAN HEART. Many very pleasant communications were exchanged between he and I after I found him through the World Sport Historians. Mr. Kendall sent me a large amount of what the newspaper world and others have said about him and I have condensed it and give to you. It suggests many fine ideas to gloomy Kendalls, who have not yet learned the very great importance of SPORTSMANSHIP IN ANY AND ALL WALKS OF LIFE. So we take pleasure in introducing to you the World's Greatest Kendall Sportsman, DR. WALTER GARDNER KENDALL.

WON 275 FIRST OR SPECIAL PRIZES WITH BOSTON TERRIER SQUANTO II

That was just after the sale of another Boston terrier, His Nibs, to J. Pierpont Morgan, the international financier. The price, $2000, paid for Squanto was the top price of that time and was unexpected. When I refused an offer of $1500 from Mr. Morgan at the time of the sale of His Nibs, the breeders said that the market top had been reached.

Squanto at that time was 18 months old. He had won first as a puppy and first novice prize at the Boston show in 1896. Later he captured first prize at the New York show in the greatest class ever shown, up to that time.

I have had many of these wonderful dogs in my kennels since those early days as a dog breeder back in the seventies. There has been at least one Squanto in my possession since the first was sold in 1897 for $2000 to a Philadelphia purchaser who asked that his name be kept out of the transaction.

At one of the banquets of the Boston Terrier Club a toast was called for the Boston terrier, and to it Dr. Wallace Snow answered. The words of the verse that he used more than express the words that I feel for that finest of dogs and also the feeling that other breeders have for them.

"Maybe there are no pearly gates for either dogs or men.
Yet we must cross the Great Divide, we know not how nor when;
And when I reach the other side and join the old bunch there.
With all our lives and all our hopes just naturally laid bare,
I know I'll feel some lonesome, sizing up that sinners line.
For I'll only care for Heaven with that little dog of mine."

SPORTS BETTERS THE BREED

"When I was young, we used to span the waists of our lady loves with our hands and the dear things used to faint at mice. Now, I understand, a waist is an armful, and the girls don't faint at anything. Normalcy and sense are great things. Sports have made sane creatures out of irrational females, also sports are breeding a finer race. In my youth, I was considered a big man. In the new order of things, I sometimes stand these days beside some brawny college kid and I feel like a veritable pygmy."

Well, that's the Doc. Those sentiments were spoken some while ago, but so far as this authority can learn he still feels the same way about it. And here is his birthday poem. It will ring the bell with the old-timers and will make some of the rest of us who're beginning to feel rickety, especially in this sort of weather, sit up and envy a grandpappy's pepper.

"The Spirit of '76."
"We live in the spirit of youth,—
Not in the matter of age."

"Doctor, tell us the truth," said the curious youth,
"When a fellow has reached seventy-six,
Doesn't he have to lookout, how he wanders about,
And abstain from all juvenile tricks?
Doesn't he snuffle and wheeze
and have rickety knees,
And a back that is nothing but cricks?"
But the party addressed proudly threw out his chest,
And responded explosively, "Nix!"

"I am perfectly sound, and as good all around
As I was when I reached twenty-one.
On a bicycle still, I can scoot up a hill,
I can skip, I can dance, I can run.
From the dawn of the day, until light fades away,
I am right in the thick of the fun,
While I certainly feel, when I tackle a meal,
That existence has only begun."

Then the other averred he had frequently heard,
Though it might be authentic or not,
Manly vim disappears after fifty-nine years,
And at sixty a man should be shot.
And he said, "I assume, you will go up the flume Pretty soon, now you're reached seventy-six."
But his auditor smiled, he was not a bit r'iled,
And r e s p o n d e d convincingly,
"Nix!"

"Why, you underdone mutt, I can tell you just what,
I'm undoubtedly right in my prime!
That I'm not on the shelf any more than yourself,
I'll willingly bet you a dime.
I can walk you a mile in my usual style,
Any faulty digestion is out of the question,
I can eat, and, thank God, I can drink!"

ENVOIE

All of which tends to show
Years don't make the real one slow,
Some put in their biggest licks
After reaching seventy-six.

It's a real pleasure and privilege to wish the Doctor many, many happy returns. Regardless of Father Time's records, he's still one of the young fellows with us and we hope that he never grows up.

THE END

On the farm I always noticed when a horse begins to kick, he stops pulling. It is the same way in church, lodges, business, education, government, home etc.

Whatever lies in the well of your thought will come up in the "Old Oaken Bucket" of your speech. When you are accusing your neighbor being all wrong, it is 9 chances out of 10 you are talking about yourself.

The Bible says, "This one thing I do." That is a lot better than saying, "These fifty things I dabble in."

William B. C. Kendall, father of the writer, called his six boys to watch him make an ox yoke. "Before coming out here I was reading in the Bible where it says 'My yoke is easy.' Sons, you see this yoke is made for two necks. If Christ is with us the yoke is easy, and we are blessed. . . . Get this, there is no room for a third neck."

....William O. Kendall, name sake of the writer's father, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kendall, of Mannington, W. Va., is a soldier in World War Two, in the United States Navy, one the U. S. Ranger.

Elmer F. Kendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kendall, 106 New street, Fairmont, W. Va., was promoted to the rank of corporal. He is stationed with the 100 Service Command, Perrin Field, Sherman, Texas.

In the service since November, 1941, he is now acting as a parachute line inspector.

George Kendall of Pennsylvania gives us this quotation:

"The first Adam was tempted in a garden, and fell flat."

"The second Adam was tempted in a wilderness, and came away victorious."

"If you want to be fishers of men get away from your old stinking nets."

"The Law was given to a man of God, on a mountain."

"The Law was expounded by the Son of God on a mountain."

Rev. J. N. Kendall, Idaho, gives us this quotation based on a chapter in Matthew, in the Bible:

Two gates—Strait and wide;
Two ways—Broad and narrow;
Two classes—Many and few;
Two destinations—Life, and destruction;
Two trees—Good, and corrupt;
Two fruits—Good, and evil;
Two things done to threes—Hewn down, and cast out;
Two houses;
Two foundations — Rock, and sand;
Two builders—Wise and foolish;
Two storms;

Two results, the one house stood, the other fell. This give each of us two things to think about.

JEFFERSON COUNTY, W. VA.

On June 11, 1942 we examined the records of Jefferson county for Kendall information. We find the records go back to the year 1800. The name is spelled two ways in this county Kendall and Kindle. We find the name often spelled three ways in the same family-Kendall, Kindle, Kendle. We find Henry Kindle made a will dated June 24, 1820 and it was probated October 22, 1820. In this will he mentions his wife, Jane and two sons Ely and Jerry. The deeds and deeds of trust indicate there were nine children, namely Jane, Polly, Patsy, Eli, Jeremiah, William, Harriet, Eliza and Martha. Martha is made a party to a deed of trust but does not sign it. Eliza married Gideon Ganson and they and William convey their interest in their father's estate to their mother, Jane, in 1834. In a deed made by Jane Sr., Jane, Jr. and Harriet in 1835 it says that Patsy, Eli and Jeremiah have died. In 1835 Jane, Sr., and Jane, Jr., buy a house in Shepherdstown. On September 14, 1813. Henry Kindle, husband of Jane, Sr., purchased a farm of 65 acres on the Potomac river, near Shepherdstown. Jane, Sr., and Jane, Jr. sold this farm in 1835. We find no further record of them from 1835 to 1850 in which year Jane, Sr., and Jane, Jr., "now of Perry County, Ohio" sell the house and lot in Shepherdstown, and in 1853 they reelase a vendors lien on the property.

The marriage records are as follows: Angeline Kindle married Robert A. Dunn, January 24, 1877; Amos B. Kendall and Rebecca E. Lantsbaugh, married September 12, 1878; Martha Kindle and B. F. Martin married July 3, 1879.

MORGAN COUNTY, W. VA.

The records of Morgan county June 7, 1940 shows that Thomas E. Kindle owns property and resides at Great Cacapon, W. Va.

MONONGALIA COUNTY, W. VA.

On May 5, 1942 we examined the records of Monongalia county, W. Va. and that no Kendall name now appears on the tax books of this county, notwithstanding the fact Kendalls moved to this county back in the very early days. The following marriage license records reveal the early Kendall settlers in this county. Ransom Kendall married Lydia Rex August 26, 1838, Jeremiah Kendall marries Delila Park February 4, 1849, Ann Kendall married Aaron Musgrove October 12, 1823, Mary Kendall married Jacob Shuman January 15, 1824, Sarah Kendall married Levi Shuman April 12, 1825, Hannah Kendall married William Hayes August 25, 1841, William A. Kendall married Sarah Snyder February 1, 1872, Bertha B. Kendall married William C. Kelley December 24, 1891, Jerry D. Kendall married Malissa McCartney, September 7, 1923, and Elma Kendall married John Heis April 3, 1925. Ransom and Jeremiah Kendall were the sons of James Kendall who settled on Paw Paw creek, now Marion County in about 1800. Ransom moved to Ritchie county, W. Va. and Jeremiah to Tyler county and were the founders of the Kendall families in these counties.

HARRISON COUNTY, W. VA.

On May 24, 1942, we examined the records of Harrison county for Kendall information. The old land titles are mostly found in Richmond, Va. to which reference has been made elsewhere. The assessment records show that one person by the name of Kendall lives in the county now, namely Thomas J. Kendall, Wallace, W. Va. The marriage records give the following information: Zebadee Kendall and Amelia Baker, March 26, 1835; Elias Kendall and Isabel Snodgrass, August 30, 1838 (grandparents of the author of this book.) Ann Kendall and Henry Metts, January 13, 1828; William H. Kendall and Mary L. Glenn April 17, 1889, ages 26 and 24 years; Sarah Kendall and Owen Allen McAtee, December 20, 1902, ages 25 and 22 years; both single, parents Charles and Alice McAtee and W. C. and Nancy A. Kendall, marriage performed by Rev. S. A. Shanabarger; Lessie Kendall and Lee R. Miller, December 25, 1908, ages 22 and 19 years, both single, parents, Henry and Rebecca Miller and Robert K. and Hettie Kendall, Rev. B. A. Winn, officiating; Bessie Kendall and Lee Meadows, December 25, 1911, ages 22 and 17 years, both single, parents, Major and Mary Meadow, and Robert and Hetty Kendall, marriage performed by Rev. J. W. Dawson.

RITCHIE COUNTY, W. VA.

We examined the records of Ritchie county for Kendall information, May 10, 1942. Ransom Kendall moved from Marion county to Ritchie in 1849, and established the Kendall family in this county. The following is taken from the marriage records: J. E. Kendall, single, age 21, married Roanna Lowther, single, age 20, on October 16, 1861; David J. Kendall, age 21, and Sarah E. Giffin, age 23, both single, married January 25, 1872, Rev. D. W.

Proffitt officiating; David J. Kendall, widower, age 25 and Rachel M. Birch, single, age 17, married February 3, 1876 by Rev. Daniel H. Davis; Jeremiah J. Kendall, single, aged 23, and Maggie R. Darnel, age 18, single, married March 28, 1876 by Rev. D. A. McGinnis; John M. Kendall, widower, aged 32 and Salina Butcher, single, aged 33, married December 25, 1898 by Rev. J. C. Jones; Mary E. Kendall, age 29, single, and Charles A. Mahaney, single, aged 33, married September 23, 1900 by Rev. Adam Westfall; Fannie Kendall, single age 22 and Amos M. McFarland, single, age 27, married by Rev. Daniel W. Smith October 30, 1904, live at Cairo, W. Va., Route No. 2; Stephen Kendall, age 24 and Martha Esther Hall age 18, both single were married by Rev. R. A. McMillan, October 10, 1915.

TYLER COUNTY, W. VA.

We find on May 10, 1942, the marriage records of Tyler county show the Kendall marriages as follows: James L. Kendall and Eleanor A. Wilcox married June 24, 1860; Samuel J. Kendall and Sarrah E. McCullough married April 7, 1879; Lydia A. Kendall and Jonathan Hoskins were married February 22, 1877; Lavina J. Kendall and George Darnell, married January 16, 1879; on December 5, 1887 John M. R. M.) Kendall and Susan Davis were married; Mattie Kendall and Cyrus Vernon Deloe were married June 20, 1900; the wedding of Bessie Kendall and John L. Grim was on November 24, 1906; Nannie M. Kendall married Floyd H. Keys September 22, 1907; Olive Kendall and Alva S. Darnell were married October 17, 1914. We find that Joseph Kendall and J. J. Kendall, brothers are living in this county at Joseph's Mills and J. J. at Pennsboro, W. Va. Jermiah, son of James Kendall who settled on Paw Paw creek in Marion county in about 1800, is the founder of the Tyler county Kendall family.

THE FOLLOWING KENDALL FAMILIES in various ways belong to the first families of America. Sargeant C. E. Kendall, of Vancouver, Canada, attempted to find the first ancestor of some of these who came to America but so far we have not put our finger on the exact fellow. We give you the list so you can have a starting point to keep up the search.

SOME ENGLISH WILLS AT NEWPORT PAGNELL, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE.
P. C. C. REGISTER, BRENT 249.

NUNCUPATIVE WILL OF THOMAS MILLS ALIAS KENDALL, of Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire. 13 October, 1652. Being desired of several persons to make his will, he did promptly declare these words or the like in effect, viz:

That for his three eldest children he had done well enough already for they had sufficient portions, and he would give nothing away from his wife but would leave her all the estate he had to her disposage. And he nominated Elizabeth his said wife his executrix.

WITNESSES SWORN:
(John Mills Alias Kendall.
(Elizabeth Mills Alias Kendall.

Supplied by Clifford Kelly, B. A. M. A. Oct. 9, 1929. Also duplicate from G. E. Kendall, Esher, England.

The Rector at Newport Pagnell thought this was the parents of Francis, Thomas and Mabel Kendall, but the facts are too plain to the contrary. In the first place they were married July 1st, 1622, and Francis and Thomas were born before 1620, Thomas being the elder. No Kendalls are shown in the birth records that agree with the facts as stated. Besides Francis signed the marriage register at Woburn as having been born 1620, Kent County, England.

The fact that he signed his name Francis Kendall, alias Mills, induced me to have these records looked up in hopes this would solve the problem of our descent in England. The above Kendalls never used the "Mills" except when signing wills and Court Documents, Why they used the two names is a mystery that I have not been able to solve.

REV. OREN EDWIN KENDALL,

First Baptist Church, Plainwell, Michigan. See on page 57 of this book, a picture of his father and mother, Dennis and Elizabeth Kendall, and also his brother, Sgt. C. E. Kendall. You may find the picture of Rev. Oren and Sgt. Kendall at the head of a list of Canadian Kendall soldiers, serving in World War One, in the APPENDIX of this BOOK. The following is the family records of Rev. Oren E. Kendall:

Rev. Oren Edwin Kendall, born Feb. 8, 1864, Chelsea, Que., married Ruthella Moore Day, born April 2, 1870, Mt. Carmell, Pa.; June 6, 1900 at Philadelphia, Pa.

Oren worked on the farm in Texas until about 1884, when he returned to Canada. Later he went to Montreal and learned the millwright trade at Miller Bros. & Mitchell's. In 1888 he left Montreal with cousin Isaac Kendall and Father, for British Columbia where he worked at millwright work for a number of years. He was a great worker in the Baptist Church and the Y. M. C. A. and became a fluent speaker. He felt the call for greatusefulness and finally decided to study for the ministry. He attended Woodstock College and McMaster University, finally graduating and ordained a minister in the Baptist denomination.

Pastor of First Baptist Church, Plainwell, Michigan.

They have four children, 9th Generation in America.

DR. OREN EDWARD KENDALL'S BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO HIS FATHER AND MOTHER:

Dennis Leman Kendall and Elizabeth Carson were married in Buckingham, Que., September 15, 1854, both being in their twenty-second year. Neither had enjoyed educational advantages, a characteristic of pioneer days. Both were self-taught. Father was blessed with a fine personality, possessing a splendid physique, a supple action, blue eyes and fair complexion.

Mother was above medium height, well proportioned, with soft dark brown eyes, brown hair, a beautiful woman in appearance.

Father excelled in bodily strength. It was said that next to him, the strongest man in a community of lusty mill and lumbermen could lift a case of mill files from the counter to the floor. Father could lift it bodily from the floor and deposit it upon the counter. He was athletic, loved sports and among other features enjoyed boxing and wrestling. The writer recalls a conservation overheard between Father and Mother of an incident falling early in their married life. A bully, sufficiently under the influence of liquor to create combativeness, persistently baited him beyond the point of endurance. Father gave him battle and so thoroughly thrashed him that Mother said "You ought to be ashamed, to your dying day, of the punishment you gave him!" Father chuckled his response, evidently enjoying in memory, the thrill of battle. It is further said that once he observed a driver struggling with a loaded cart, mired in the street. He grasped the hub with one hand and, placing his shoulder against the rim, gradually lifted cart and load to a position of safety.

Our parents always endeavored to maintain a religious atmosphere in the home. They professed conversion at Buckingham, Que. in their early married life under the preaching of two English evangelists, Lord Cecil and Mr. Dunlop who toured Upper Canada holding tent meetings. If my memory serves me there was no Baptist Church in Buckingham. They were baptized at Blanche Mills, on the River Blanche near Thurso, Que., and were found later in membership with the Baptist Church of the latter place.

Father's religious spirit moved him to associate in a movement to reach the settlements lying north of Buckingham on the River Lievre, with the Gospel message A small band of consecrated laymen would spend the Sundays travelling by canoe and overland on foot to reach these needy places. Two incidents of this service are worthy of record. At one time a deep spiritual interest was seen moving the people. On a certain Sunday the men tramping the rough trails towards this community were so greatly burdened for their salvation that they knelt four or five times in prayer, pleading for the people to whom they were going. That evening in response to the earnest exhortations of these uneducated and untrained servants of Christ, a number of men and women made public confessions of faith in Him.

Another occurrence in this work reveals Father's sense of humor. It is a remarkable fact that Father never mentioned what he himself did, but we remember that he had facility in public address even before we knew him.

In one of these settlement schoolhouse meetings held on a cold winter's night, a large box stove supplied an excessive degree of heat. With great fervor the speaker gesticulated and perspired, thus melting the buttonhole in one end of his paper collar. When the truant member stood out at right angles he snatched at it, but it eluded him. Then following it round to nearly a full turn he seized it and tearing it straightway, with great indignation cast it upon the floor. The Congregation laughed outright. A solemn worshipper deeply offended arose and sternly rebuked their levity, saying "You d—— sinners, how dare you laugh in church!"

Father was very fond of music, a characteristic of all the Kendalls I have known. He possessed a rich bass voice and in the use of it nearly ruined the sweet girl soprano of our eldest sister Anne Laura.

I recall a day about the year 1870 when the little Estey cabinet organ was unpacked in our home in Rockland, Ont. One hundred and fifty dollars was a great amount of money, in the purchasing power of that day, to extract from an already over-strained income. Nevertheless, the fond parents made the sacrifice for the sake of a fast-growing family of children. For the space of seven years, till we left Rockland for Texas, it was the custom of the family to gather around that sweet-toned instrument when anthem after anthem in continuous succession was rendered in full voice and harmony. The text of some psalms remains indelibly fixed in my memory till this day and renders me much ready service in my ministry. One glorious result of our parents religious emphasis was the profession of an evangelical faith by all the twelve children and identification with the Baptist denomination. Father earned an unsullied reputation in every community in which he lived and easily occupied a front rank position in the promotion of every enterprise for the good of the people. All the tweleve children came to full maturity, married, reared families, were industrious and resourceful, made valuable contribution to the public good, escaped distinction and wealth.

This letter would be incomplete without a further word about our wonderful mother. I recall as a boy her unceasing labors as nurse, mother, baker. tailoress, dressmaker, laundress, mender and knitter of socks and mitts, for a family of eight sturdy boys and four normal girls. Her hours of work were never dictated by a

Labour Union. They began early and continued late. She sacrificed everything for her family, including both social culture and social enjoyments outside the home There was no machinery in those times to lessen the burden of the weary mothers' and housewives' unending tasks, yet she kept a neat comfortable and hospitable home in which guests were nearly always found. Relatives and friends loved to come to our home. Her household often contained eighteen persons for months at a time, yet she directed and actually performed with her own hands most of the multitudinous details incident to it. Her patience, her courage, cheerfulness and endurance are still a mystery to me, yet the years of her pilgrimage were just a little over ninety-one. Doubtless the secret of her wonderful life lay in her confidence and resource as expressed by the Psalmist "All my springs are in Thee". Her children rise up and call her blessed

DOC KENDALL, BELOVED SPORTSMAN.

"Flowers to the living, tell it to his face.
Don't wait until a friend has passed away,
Now is the time, and this the proper place
To say whatever good there is to say.
"There is no sense in holding back our praise,
Our appreciation of a friend's true worth,
Till he has reached the parting of the ways,
And bade farewell to everything on earth."

By BILL CUNNINGHAM

It all must depend upon the point of view. There was, for instance, the fellow who got himself through school by caring for a baby in a rather large way, and then another who got bunted out of the self same academy for the self same reason.

And then there's the case of OLD DOC KENDALL. That is, we young lallygaggers call him Old Doc because he's seen so much and he's been here so long, and is so wondrously wise in the ways of living and is so blessed with balance and understanding and kindness and compassion—things a man can't get until he's lived long and loved much and felt his share of triumphs and suffered his share of sorrows.

And the occasion of these words is that yesterday was that grand gentleman and famous sportsman's 76th birthday, and the reason for saying that it all must depend upon the point of view is that Doc saluted the anniversary by mailing around to his friends a poetic effusion saying in effect that any young upstart who regards him as a washed up job just because he has bettered the Biblical span is not only daffy but is inviting a smack in the trap.

And we'll bet upon the doctor to deliver it.

There isn't space enough here to do justice to the career of WALTER GARDNER KENDALL, D. D. S., for he's done so many things and has done them so notably for so many, many years. One of our greatest horticulturists, dog fanciers, art students and collectors, the Doc has won more medals and awards of various sorts in his time than the Prince of Wales has first names. And as a patron and follower of amateur sport, all his life has been spent fostering the finer and more enjoyable sorts of athletics. He's long been a feature and a fixture at the B. A. A. events. For 50 years he's been an ardent bicyclist and he still leads the annual Wheel Around the Hub, and has since 1878. He owns the first bicycle ever seen in Boston and has a collection of 20 such vehicles some of them of the antique high-wheeled variety. But it's with himself that the Doc's done the finest job of all.

BELIEVES IN SPORTS.

His splendid fitness today is one of the most striking tributes obtainable to the health building and health preserving virtues of intelligently regulated exercise and temperate, well-balanced living.

He once expanded upon that theme to a local newspaper gal the charming Miss Eleanor Early, in somewhat the following fashion:

"You'll never grow old if you keep in shape. When I was a boy, a woman was an old maid at 30 Now she's only a flapper. A mother was an old lady at 40, and when they go up to 50, they sat by the fire knitting and gossiping, and proceeded to get deaf and crochety. That was before they took up sports and acquired interests outside their homes.

"Now look at 'em. Look at Elenora Sears. She can play polo which is a more strenuous game than football, better than any average man. She has more endurance than most men and she's a better all-round athlete than any man I know. In another generation Elenora would be wearing a little, gray shawl and hugging the fire side, a miserable spinster But—Lord, as it is, she's glorious!"

GENEALOGY, Descendants of Peter and Elizabeth Drushel Kandel by WILLIAM E. Kandel, 1783-1942, a farmer, Millersburg, Route 5 Holmes County, Ohio. This book of 117 printed pages, with a blank page on the back of each printed page, published by Eli A. Reidenbach, a retired farmer, and a great, great nephew of Mrs. Peter Kandel, and printed by Royal Printing Company of Sugarcreek, Ohio. Mr. William E. Kandel's picture appears in this volume. Mr. Kandel did a fine job in the preparation of this family Genealogy, and a good pattern to follow by other Kandels, Kindels, Kandells, Kindles, Kindalls, Candels, Candells, Candeles and Kendales, Kendal, Kendall. A great writer once said, "Any word that lends itself easily to the three vowles—A-E-I—makes a 'spelling mess' out of that word." He further says, "the name KENDALL was carefully guarded, by that ancient family, against this mess spelling, up to the close of the Revolutionary War, when the KENDALLS started their mass migrations from Virginia, and New England south and west, and from that day until now it is the most "mis-spelled name in America—in fact we can scarcely find KENDALL family in America that does not spell their names two or three ways." Every Pioneer Kendall who came to America spelled the name KENDALL. Another writer says, "When any family becomes reckless in spelling his name it leads often to confusion in the settlement of estates, and the later Kendall family is certainly number one in this class; and it has also made them, as a class, poor spellers." Mr. William E. Kandel's book proves these statements, because he adhered to the way his family used and spelled the name. For example: PETER KANDEL, and wife ELIZABETH DRUSHEL, progenitor of the family dealt with in his book, gives their children as follows:

1. John Kendle born 1814, married Elizabeth Troyer.
2. Jonathan Kandel born 1814, married Susan Yoder.
3. Joseph Kendall, born 1815, married Lizzie Hostetler.
4. Susan Kandel, unmarried.
5. Catharine Kandel, married Samuel Holderbaum.
6. Lida Kendel, married Joel Plank.

Mr. Kandel's book is an interesting of the Kendall name allied families. Some research bureaus assign this Kandel, and Candel families, as descendants from John Kendall, who came from Virginia to Pennsylvania in 1699—one says 1700, had sons Joseph, John, Jonathan, Elizabeth, Mary, Lyda, Susan, Catharine. These same names dominate in Mr. Kandel's book. This old Pennsylvania family married into the Miller, Hostetler, Green, Thompson, Hershberger, Buchannan, Horner, Lantz, etc. It seems that Joseph Kendall migrated to Berkley County, Virginia, in 1753 (now West Virginia) and took up land, and when the lawyer made up his deeds he spelled his name KENDLE, and here you will find more names like this than any one spot in the U. S. A. After the Revolutionary War these families over the Old Kendall Trail took up their western journey by way of Wheeling to New Philadelphia, Dover (named for the old towns back east where their ancestors lovd) and some went by the south trail to Columbus. It was in Berkley County where we first discovered Kendle, Kandle, Candel, and you can now follow their trail all over the United States and Canada by these names. In Mr. Kandel's book we find approximately Fifty KANDELS; Seventy KENDLES; one hundred and twenty KENDALLS, descendants of PETER KANDEL. We have had several very pleasant communications with Mr. Kandel during the preparations of our Books—his Genealogy and my General History and Genealogy of the Kendall Family. He covers 159 years of his family in his book. My history covers about 1000 years of Kendall History. Peter Kandel was born about 1783. My Great Grandfather, Rev. William Kendall was born 1781. I start my family Genealogy with John Kendall, Enlgand, 1421, and in America with John Kendall, kinsman, and Susanna Savage, 1627.

EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA KENDALL'S, Especially those of Montgomery, Berks and Schuylkill Counties.

SHERIFF R. L. CUNNINGHAM, Marion, County, W. Va.

DO YOU REMEMBER—

When they tore down the old court house? R. L. Cunningham was the last sheriff in the old court house and the first one in the new one. I remember one evening he did not come for his meal on time and I was surprised. Suddenly a great racket started and I soon learned they were tearing down the court house. (Recalled by Mrs. Annie V. Cunningham, 417 Monroe street, Fairmont, W. Va.)

The above item was taken from the "Do You Remember" department in the Fairmont, W. Va. Times, conceded to be one of the most interesting, informing and popular departments to be found in any news paper in the country. It is edited by a well known and able newspaper man, E. E. Meredith, of Fairmont, W. Va.

DANIEL W. CUNNINGHAM, U. S. Marshall, age 82, was one of West Virginia's most distinguished law-enforcing officers. Mr. Cunningham was born in Jackson County, W. Va., and died in 1942.

REV. THOMAS JEFFERSON KENDALL, first Chapiain of the National Kendall Association, son of Turner Kendall, born in Culpeper County, Va.; relocated in Marion County, W. Va., near Mannington; died at the age of 87 years, at Mannington, in 1940. A Baptist minister. Three times married. Had 15 children by his first wife. Children living at his death: Mrs. Francis Jane Kendall Hawkins, El Paso, Texas; Mrs. Nancy Anna Kendall Rush, Wheeling, W. Va.; James A. Kendall, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Earl Kendall, Salem, Ohio; and Mrs. Martha Ellen Kendall Smith, Ardmore, Oklahoma. He has many grandchildren.

MRS. LENA JUERGENS DAVIS Sutton, W. Va. Jan. 7, 1941, age 51, wife of Attorney George Garrett Davis, son of Squire Will Davis, died; a daughter of E. L. Jurgens, a Sutton, druggist, and Minnie Hilkey Juergens, Attorney Davis is State Secretary and Registrar for the West Virginia Branch of the Kendall Family Associations; a descendant of William and Jamima Kirk Kendall (1738) of Farquier County, Va. Elias and Isabbelle Snodgrass Kendall are his great grandparents of Mannington, West Virginia. Mrs. Davis was a member of an old pioneer family, well and favorably known throughout Northern Virginia.

ARETUS G. KENDALL, son John W. and Emaline Campbell Kendall, age 68 years; born November 1, 1874, near Brink, Marion County, W. Va., a grandson of Elias Kendall, died in the Fairmont Hospital, Jan. 15, 1942. Interment in the Kendall-Snodgrass Cemetery on Warrior Fork near his home. Rev. K. R. Smelson, of the Calvary Baptist Church and Rev. H. E. Sumner of the Logansport Methodist church officiated. Mr. Kendall was an officer in the Kendall Association. Mr. Kendall is survived by his wife Nancy Amanda Youst Kendall, and five children; Jesse; Chester; Harry, all of Mannington, W. Va. Miss Delphia Kendall of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Edna Kendall Bartrug of Fairmont, W. Va. He is also survived by two brothers and five sisters: Lazelle Kendall, Glover Gap, W. Va.; Clinton Kendall, of Newark, Ohio; Mrs. Clara Kendall McCracken, Newark, Ohio; Mrs. Sarah Kendall Hixenbaugh; Mrs. Belle Kendall Holbert, both of Mannington, W. Va.; Mrs. Lottie Kendall Fluharty and Zana Kendall Ballard both of Littleton, W. Va. Has several grandchildren.

MRS. KENDALL LEE GLAENZER, member of the immortal Lee family of Virginia, noted for her beauty and talent—her reputation as a hostess in Paris and New York. Adores music. Has many friends among modern composers. Loves the outdoors and has a shooting box in the Adirondacks. Her sister is married to Rockwell Kent, the famous artist.

CY KENDALL has millions of radio, moving picture admirers and friends. He is a radio and screen actor; does heavy duty; for he portrays various political grafters that Steve is always fighting.

MISS JANE KENDALL, married G. Grant Mason, of Mason City, Iowa, whose grandfather was a famous builder of railroads. Mr. Mason is a talented cartoonist. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge described Miss Jane Kendall as the most beautiful debutante ever to enter the White House.

HENRY KENDALL from London, England, gives what he calls an interesting item found in the Archives which says, "When King Charles V of Spain appointed Pedro de la Gaska FIRST AMERICAN PRESIDENT sent to rule the New World in 1545 had John Kendall as one of his secretaries to handle any problems that might arise with the English-speaking peoples. This makes Gaska the first American President." It is the first time the word President appeared in America, and it became a very popular word in all kinds of organizations, and impressed itself upon all the peoples of the American Continent; and it is used more extensively in America than elsewhere in the world.

WILLIAM KENDALL of Florida tells us that Ensign Worth Bagley was the only American Naval officer killed during the Spanish American War, and that he had a pal in that war by the name of "Raymond Kendall who was my helping and inspiring friend". It is also said by some records that Bagley was the first man to be killed in that war.

WE SAW A WRITTEN ITEM saying "Jefferson Kendall was a descendent of William C. C Claiborne, of Tennessee; and that Claiborne was the first State Governor of Louisiana; born 1775; a Congressman by 1797 and 1799 when only 22 and 24 years old; he was permitted to remain in Congress, although the Constitution of the United States says he must be 25 years of age. It was Claiborne's single vote that elected Thomas Jefferson, president over Aaron Burr. It was Thomas Jefferson who purchased the Louisiana Territory, contrary to Constitutional restrictions, which doubled the area of this country. Jefferson held that the Constitution and the law cannot be justly interpreted to do an injustice, or damage to the people of the nation, or prevent a just growth and progress of the nation and its people.

DORIS KENDALL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kendall, of South Bend, Indiana, married Elmer Richards, of Weston, W Va., in 1942. Mr. Richards is assistant to the president of the Studebaker Corporation. They reside in South Bend, Ind.

MAHALA KENDALL HAYS: MANNINGTON, Sept. 2, 1942— Bishop Jonathan Hays, 80, farmer, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Earl Lacy, in Worthington. He was born August 9, 1862 a son of Pindle and Mahala Kendall Hays.

Mr. Hays is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lilly Carroll, and seven sons and daughters, as follows: Mrs. Bessie Ice of Mannington R. F. D., Mrs. Mary Day of Auburn, Mrs. Lona Lacy of Worthington, James Hays of Washington, Bernard Hays of Haywood, Charles Hays of Rivesville and Mrs. Opal Freeland of Folsom. Also surviving are two brothers, Howard Hays, Smithfield and James Hays, Smithfield R. F. D., and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Coffman of Clarksburg.

Mr. Hays was a member of the Methodist Church at Brink.

The funeral was held at the Logansport Methodist Church; interment in the Rymer cemetery.

RUSSELL L. SNODGRASS, assistant general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is selected vice president in charge of finance and corporate relations of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, and will take over September 1, 1942. Jesse Jones of the RFC said he had been eminently successful in the work he had done for the RFC.

JERRY KENDALL of Kentucky, married Elizabeth Jackson of Kentucky and Tennessee. They had Edward Johnson Kendall born August 22, 1825, Jeffersonville, Ind.; died August 13, 1901 at Pittsburg, Hickory County, Mo Married October 7, 1845 at Waverly, Morgan Co., Ill. to Lucretia S. Wright and moved to Hickory Mo. in 1867. Miss Wright was a daughter of Reuben Wright of Kentucky, and wife Keziah Jackson of Kentucky and Tennessee. Edward Johnson Kendall and Lucretia S. Wright had a son John Edward Kendall, born April 12 1863 at Franklin, Morgan Co., Ill., and he had Miss Bessie M. Kendall, now Mrs. Jno. Fink, living 1807 S. E. Pittsburg, Kansas. The two Jackson women mentioned in this article are cousins of Andrew Jackson

CONFEDERATE WHITE HOUSE in Richmond, Va., is one of the most interesting buildings in America. While looking for Kendall history I visited this building, on a very hot, sultry day. The guides had been let off for the afternoon, and there was but one girl in the office (a West Virginia girl by the way.) She told me to make the tour through the building alone. I did so. By the time I got on one of the upper floors, a sudden, vicious wind storm struck the building, and in the frantic efforts of the girl and myself to get the windows down a big wreathe was torn from the wall by the wind and crashed on my head. Two big Rododendrum leaves were torn from the wreath and left on the floor. I picked them up and the girl said you may have them and that will pay you for the "sore head you will have." I then looked at the History Card attached to the wreath and it read: "THIS IS THE LAST WREATH REMOVED FROM THE CASKET OF PRESIDENT JEFFERSON DAVIS JUST BEFORE HIS BODY WAS PLACED IN ITS FINAL RESTING PLACE." The two big leaves are now in my archives. I wanted a nail on exhibition that had been made from the armour plated war ships used in the Civil War—the first of the kind ever used. The clerk said she had no orders not to sell any more but she had heard the board say it would be well not to dispose of any more since only 27 nails were left. She left the dish on the counter and told me to look at the little six penny nails, and incidentaly she said they sell for a quarter a piece. I left two silver dollars lying on the counter and told her that the next time she counted the nails there would be only 25 left. She said "I will get an order from the board not to sell any more of them." So there are two nails made from the armor plate of these "Cheese Box War Vessels" in my archives.

MRS. SAMUEL A. KENDALL, wife of Congressman Kendall died at her home in Myersdale, Pa. August 22, 1932. Mrs. Kendall was a school chum of Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

MR. AND MRS. CALEB ANDERSON SNODGRASS, live at Delta Pa., Mr. Snodgrass was a Confederate veteran; a native of Newcastle, Va., and Mrs. Snodgrass of Linden, Va. They have seven children. Dr. Frank P. Snodgrass of Darlington, Md., is his son.

JOHN CHRISTIAN KENDALL and wife Mrs. Catharine Mason Kendal, live at Crelin, Md. Their children, John Allen; Teresa; Lucille; and Martha Kendall. His sister Miss Mattie Kendall, a principal of a school at Homestead; also a brother of Congressman Sam A. Kendall,and Judge U. S. Kendall late of Fairmont, W. Va. Kendall was a postmaster at Crelin, Md.; a 32nd degree mason, a mem- of Homested, Pa., lodge A.F. & A.M.

EMMA KENDALL, daughter of Rev. Daniel Kendall, married John Michael Brumage. They had May Brumage who married Artist Lee Bates, had Ellen Lucile; Linzy Lee; Margaret May all born between 1920-24. Her parents died when a child and she was taken and raised by her aunt, Nancy Jane Kendall Mercer, who changed her name from Brumage to Mercer, and was married in that name. She has a sister Mrs. C. W. Downey, in Fairmont, W. Va., and brother Harry Lee Brumage, Canada. May Prunty, of Folsome, W. Va., gets into this picture and she may be May Brumage, who married Bates for her second husband and she appears by her statements to have married Vincent A. Prunty, a son of Nicholas Prunty and Rachel Underwood, who was a son of John Prunty and Dorcas Swiger, who was a descendant of John Prunty, for which Pruntytonw, W. Va., is named. Her statements make it appear that Mr. Prunty had 1st married Martha Philips who had seven living children when she married him and she later married Bates. She taught three terms of school 1918-21 at the Kendall School House, now used as a church called Kendall Gate. Her husband was born in Doddridge County, W. Va., on Talkington Fork, where they now live. This interpretation of badly mixed statements on the three or four families involved may not be connected as it should be.

GEORGE SAMUEL KENDALL, lecturer and world travelor, gives us what he says "will fill the bill," of his family history. Wife Jessie C. Kendall, and a son Frank M. Kendall who married Emma V. Kendall. My grand son Frank G. Kendall. My granddaughter Beverly June Kendall. By this it appears that all parties concerned were Kendalls, and he starts the genealogy with himself. Mr. Kendall is a very able lecturer, fluent and interesting in his manner of presenting his subject. Lives at Washington, Pa.

REV. SAMUEL KENDALL 1812, whose picture appears in this book, had a sister Margaret Kendall, born 1800, married Samuel Hall, 1820, at Monroe, now Hopwood, Pa. Their children located on farms in Fayette County, Pa. Children: Abram Biggle 1822-1886; Liza Ann; Isaac; Calvin; Taylor; Kendall; Renaldo; Sarah; Margaret; Alpheus.

ABRAM BIGGLE HALL, married Sara Ann Morris in 1842: Children: Samuel Kendall, 1844; Morris Thomas; 1846; Sarah Malissa 1848; John Morris, 1850; Abram Biggle, Jr., 1852; Charles Chandler 1862; Maude Blanche, 1869, married William Kendall in 1897; their son Morris Hall Kendall Nov. 15, 1899. Informant Maude Hall Kendall, Atlantic 840, Va. Beach, Va.

ERASTUS W. SNODGRASS, born 1884, died 1942, at Beaver, Pa., son of Raleigh and Lyda Woodruff Snodgrass, of Mannington, W. Va. Mr. Snodgrass married Miss Monnie Arnett. Had issuse Earl Snodgrass, and daughter Mrs. E. J. Clovis, both of Beaver. Mr. Snodgrass was buried at his former home, Hundred, W. Va., in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Some years ago we were in the city of Beckley, W. Va., on Sunday evening, and went out of the hotel, walked down the street and entered the first church we came to, and it was crowded with colored people. The preacher was an old time colored orator, lambasting the evils of the world. In a great burst of oratory he yelled, "Bretheren, Money is the Root of All Evil." An old colored gentleman sitting back in the audience cried in a loud voice. "Amen, give me some more root." The "tittering and giggling" was so loud and persistent the preacher had to cut his sermon short. Being the only white man present he came back to greet me and apologize for the old brother who had caused the laughter. I informed him that I could see nothing wrong in his prayer; the Bible does not say that Money is the Root of all evil. He stared at me for a moment and went back to the pulpit, looked at his Bible and called for silence and announced that he had made a mistake in his text, and all was invited back to hear a sermon from the corrected text.

JOHN KENDALL of Houston, Tex., replying to an inquiry, Give me the names of an unusual husband and wife, bearing the Kendall name. Reply: "My wife was telling me a remarkable dream she had, and in it she saw husbands sold at auction, and that one magnificent, up - standing husband brought $50,000 spot cash". I asked, "Was he anything like me? She said, "Heavens no, John, husbands like you were sold just like toothpicks, at a nickle a bunch. "You could put us down as that unusual husband and wife. I see it don't pay to be a runt."

JAMES KENDALL in West Virginia has already 15 children. We inquired if they worried him much, and if he had any anxious concern about their future welfare. He said, "Yes, when I go home from work, I see babies out in the yard, babies "skinning-the-cat" on the clothes line, babies up on the washhouse, babies out in the garden, babies on my right, babies on my left, babies everywhere, and they bring to me a sense of joy and happiness. But what I worry about is will they be babies in thought, mind and charcter. Baby doctors, baby lawyers, baby farmers, baby preachers, baby church members, and baby wives and husbands. Babies in business, politics, and religion. Babies in mind and character? It is a fine thing to be a baby, if it is not too old, because age has everything to do with the sweetness of a baby. I think a baby five years old is a darling, but a baby fifty years old is a pest and a nuisance. I am sure a baby with whiskers is a mighty trying thing in a home. Every day I make each one of my 15 babies repeat to me what St. Paul said. "When I became a man I put away childish things." I am aware that failure to do what Paul teaches us keeps many of us from being a Paul. I understand Sam Jones, the evangelist, when he said, "It is easier to climb a greased pole then it is to put away childlish things."

HENRY KENDALL of the State of Oregon, after replying to a letter, in turn asked me to name to him the unforgettable men and women I had met and talked to. I gave him some of them as follows: Helen Keller, the miracle blind woman; Rev. Dr. Conwell, an amazing man, remembered for his famous lecture, "Acres of Diaonds"; Dwight L. Moody, who had what it took; Sam Jones, the evangelist, who could skin you alive, make you like it and go back for more; Carrie Nation, and her Little Hatchet, who, after I knew her, had so much more sense than I thought she would have; Billy Sunday, who had more dynamite in him than any man I ever met; Bishop Fowler, of the Methodist church, who with his brilliant thinking, and his thunderous, musical, oratory could carry one to the gates of the ternal and drop him back to earth with a thud, if he wanted to; President McKinley, who could talk to you for five minutes, and you would take away something you could not forget; President Wilson, made you know you were in the presence of a master mind, and he left an impression that some great events were pending; William Jennings Bryan, was the most brilliant and pleasing orator I ever knew; President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after a few moments made you know he faced the future cheerfully, confidentially, and without fear, that the world had reached the stage that all nations must be neighbors, all individuals must be friends, and that we all are our neighbors keeper. Of course many others I have met are unforgetable.

"There is nothing better than character; there is nothing worse than greed. Manhood belongs to both worlds; material things belong only to one world. Gladstone gave more character to England than all England's commerce for a hundred years. George Washington gave more character to America, and added more to her glorious history than Wall Street can do in a thousand years. America lives on because of the Washingtons, the Jeffersons, the Jacksons and Amos Kendalls, and her Lincolns, and her Roosevelts, and not because of her millionaires, and her riches, in material things." A. W. Kendall, of Texas.

Some years ago Judge U. S. Kendall was making a pep speech at a business men's club on the subject "A Business Fact and How to Take Advantage of It." During the speech, he was telling us "That prosperity had come again; the railroads, the lumber mills, the coal mines, and the wheels of industry were running at capacity; that prosperity had actually hit us. Just at this juncture, the local leader of the Know Nothing party arose and said, "Sir, it hain't hit me yit." Kendall looked across at him for a moment and said. "My friend, it is mighty hard to hit nothing." The man sat down. Kendall remarked "It is also a fact, that whatever truth, or fact, is presented to a mixed crowd, there is always some fellow who will argue against a fact. You remember the nut that asked Christ, 'What is the truth?' when he was looking at it."

When we wrote to several hundred Kendalls all over the world to send us their Philosophy of Life, or some quotation that expresses it, we were trying to find a general rule which the Kendall family followed. We have been quoting a number of them in this book. They do not believe in being too serious about anything; they adhere to the idea of sweetening the hard and the sour places with "sugar-fun"; that facts and fun should be mixed. They set up a rule of philosophy to do the best thing, in the best way, at the proper time. We might describe a philosopher to be a man who knows what to do, and when to do, and how to do the best thing. It appears to us that is a good description, but a fellow like that would be pretty lonesome in any crowd. My mother's people, the Cunninghams, came from Irelana, and that is the reason I like an Irishman; he gets fun out of any thing. My great uncle, Rev. Dave Cunningham, was preaching to a bunch of "railroad Irishmen" at Mannington, W. Va., when the B. and O. Railroad was under construction, and he was hauling his Irish friends over the coals for drinking. Pat came up to Rev. Cunningham and said, "Yer Riverence, ye can talk agin likker and abuse likker, but it's the best eyesight medicine I ever seed and tried yit. Now, there is me brother Meike, born blind, never seed a thing; he jist drank likker a week, and the divel may kill me in my tracks, if he didn't see snakes all over the place. And nothin' iver hilp his eyesight but likker." The vast majority of Kendall letters say, "Let us keep facts and fun together."

You may note the number of SARAH KENDALLS named in this book. It is a Bible name, as you know. If you know your Bible you will recall that SARAH in the Bible is the only woman whose complete age, death, and burial are recorded in the Scriptures.

The marriage of ISAAC is the first in the Bible of which we have the particulars. A very long chapter is devoted to it. And when you read the many marriages in this book, and maybe your own, there is usually a long, long chapter after these marriages, and the results of these marriages have produced many pages of living history. Wise people keep a worth-while record of this family history for those who come after them, who in after years take great pleasure in keeping your memory and your works and your sacrifice alive, with real appreciation.

In the Book of Genesis you may find the very earliest money transaction on record. The first money transaction on record made by a Kendall in America was made by Col. William Kendall, and his kinsman, John Kendall for a HOME and a Farm, and paid cash for it. There is a good suggestion.

Dean Stanley always read a book through, carefully, three times: I. For the story. 2. For the thought. 3. For the plan and style. He had another rule he always carried out, and that was to "TAKE DOWN HIS FAMILY HISTORY AND REVIEW IT ONCE EVERY YEAR, AND AS OFTEN AS I DID, I DID IT IN REMEMBRANCE OF MY ANCESTORS FOR WHAT THEY DID FOR ME." He further says he added annually all births and deaths, and marriages, and where they lived, carefully giving dates so essential to history.

The Bible tell us that the "Old School of Thought" is unable to deal with the new difficulties of life that continues to come year after year. Thought must move up as progress moves along to higher and better things.

We see where Rev. John Kendall in 1454, saying "The first plague was to turn the Egyptian waters into blood. "That the "first miracle of Jesus was to turn water into wine (joy). "He goes on to say, "we all wonder about the river turned into blood, but I have never heard any one wonder about the heart turned into stone."

Do you know there have been more lives of Christ written since I was born, than were ever written before I was born. In the last fifty eight years there have been written more lives of Christ than in all the past ages since he walked among men. Don't you think that is an astonishing fact?

I wrote to 100 learned Kendalls asking for a short biography of themselves or some one else: Three-fourths of them said "See the Bible. One of Christ's desciples wrote his complete History and Biography, as follows "HE WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD."

While talking to my five year old nephew, Kendall Young, he said "I am hungry." I asked "How do you feel when you are hungry?" He said "I feel like I want to chew something."

Nancy Kendall, of Wyoming, while on her sick bed, asked her doctor to read a certain verse from the Bible; and he read, "I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee." She said Doctor, "I will just go home on that."—and closed her eyes and died.

We knew a Jeremiah Kendall whose mother told him never to marry. He remembered that Jeremiah was the only man in the Bible who was told not to marry. We often wonder what was the matter with those "birds?"

In the Bible, we find two genealogies of our Lord:

1. By Matthew who makes Christ king: a king must have a genealogy.

2. By Mark who makes Christ a servant: all a servant needs is character.

3. By Luke who makes Christ a perfect man: And a perfect man must have a genealogy.

4. By John who makes Christ God: God needs no genealogy.

Angeline Kendall, of Michigan, sends us a thought about the Cross of Christ; and the crosses of the two thieves; "Christ died for sin; one man died in sin; the other a sinner, and he died in faith." This makes it clear that from the very side of Jesus one man may go to heaven, and another to hell. The thief wanted to be remembered in heaven, and Christ wanted to be remembered on earth.

Fielding Kendall, of Louisiana, says, "The Bible informs us that women were the first evangelists of the resurrection; and the "man of Macedonia" turned out to be a woman."

KENDALLS FAVORITE POEM: We wrote Kendalls in every State in the Union, and some of the Provinces of Canada, calling on them for their favorite POEM. We received the following: The Psalm of Life; In Memoriam; Evangeline; Snow Bound; The Rainy Day; The Chambered Nautilus, Hiawatha; The Elegy in a Country Churchyard; The Coter's Saturday Night; The Builders; Paradise Lost; The Eternal Goodness; Thanatopsis; The Prayer-Perfect; Longing; Bitter-Sweet; Moment by Moment; Lead Kindly Light; Nearer My God to Thee; A Day at a Time; I Cannot Think But God Must Know; Opportunity; We Are Seven; Sometime, Somewhere; The Courtin'; Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud? Ode to the American Flag; Enoch Arden; The Reaper and the Flower; The Sin of Omission. The Lady of the Lake; Lincoln, the Man of the People: Just Be Glad; The Battle-Hymn of the Republic; My Psalm; Crossing the Bar; Lucile; Pilgrims of the Night; America; Jesus Savior Pilot Me. SOME TELL WHY I LIKE MY POEM: I love Bitter Sweet by Holland for its sweet picture of home life. It helps me understand why evil is permitted in this old world. Snow Bound pictures to me the beauty of common things; dignity of honest labor; unselfishness in the home; more contentment in a lowly sphere; more thought of nature and God. One Kendall kid wanted me to name the authors of all the poems I received without referring to books for the answer. I was able to name only 67 per cent of the authors. Can you do better?

The Bible tells us that the "Old School of Thought" is unable to deal with the new difficulties of life that continues to come year after year. Thought must move up as progress moves along to higher and better thinks.

THE KENDALL FAMILY ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA AND ENGLAND

At the instance of Norman F. Kendall of Grafton, W. Va., this association was organized September 8, 1929.

THE PURPOSE: To preserve the best traditions, the best history, and the best philosophy of more than 700,000 Kendall descendants.

A STATEMENT: Any reader of the Bible cannot help being impressed with the importance of genealogy.

Both justice and decency require that we should bestow on our forefathers and mothers and honourable remembrance.

A family that takes no pride in the noble achievements of their ancestors, will ever achieve anything to be remembered by their descendants.

Respect for our ancentors elevates the character and improves the heart.

Our fathers and mothers lived, loved, and labored the we might have a better world in which to work and be happy. We should keep their good names and their good works alive in our family genealogies. When a worth while thing is done let the world know it. Hiding good works under a bushel is condemned by the Bible. God will not prosper an ungrateful child.

BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER

In following down pedigrees of families it is very noticeable how clanish families are. Rev. William Kendall married Elizabeth Simons born 1781, died 1822. On June 17, 1768 there is an indenture on record in Prince William County, Virginia, made by George and Mary Kendall binding out their son William Kendall to John and Jane Simons to "train him to write and read the Bible."

Edward Kendall, born 1789, of Austrey, England, married Anna Maria Darling in 1810. There daughter Angelina, living in 1909, married Jenlinger Cookson Symons—the original way of spelling the name.

Col. William Kendall was a member of the House of Burgesses of Virginia 1655 to 1686 and was Speaker from 1678-1686. His second wife was Susanna Baker, sister of Daniel Baker, mother of Capt. William Kendall. also a member of the House of Burgesses 1688 to 1693, and Mary Kendall, who married Hancock Lee, Kendalls and Bakers have married by the score since that far off day. Col. Wm. Kendall owned more than 30,000 acres of land in Virginia and his son, Capt. William owned more than 10,00 acres.

The Revolutionary records mention Ann (Wilkins) Floyd who died leaving the following children Littleton, John W., and Elizabeth Kendall Floyd. Elizabeth Kendall Floyd leaving Thomas, Samuel L. and Elizabeth Ann Floyd. There are a lot of letters on record in Richmond, Va., written between Governor Floyd and the Kendall relatives of his.

Scores of Floyds and Kendalls have since married.

The Kendall-Shuman marriages equal the Kendall-Floyd marriages. John and Elizabeth (Smith) Shuman emigrated on horseback from near Philadelphia in 1776 and settled on Minister's run, now Marion county. After some trouble with the Indians they made peace with them and they assisted him to build his log hut 16 by 20 feet. It had no floor and no ceiling. They proceeded to give the community what it needed—a population. They closed this effort January 22, 1817, when the youngest of their 14 children was born and no room was left in the log hut for more inhabitants. Then came along the Kendalls—Rev. William, Rev. Samuel, Ransom, Sr., and James. They proceeded to look for wives and Rev. Samuel, II., found and married Mary Shuman born 1786-died 1854, and moved to Dent's run. James Kendall prevailed on Catharine, a sister of Mary to marry him, and they lived and died on Paw Paw creek near Amos. Matilda, daughter of Rev. William Kendall, married James (Wm.) Shuman. Mary, another daughter married Jacob Shuman. Mildred a 3rd daughter maried John Shuman. Sarah, a daughter of James Kendall, married Levi Shuman. August 25, 1825, Mansfield Kendall, born 1806-died ——, son of Ransom, Sr., married Hannah Shuman and they had at least four children: Jane, David, Sanford, and Harry H. Kendall age 22, married Mary C. Burnett age 14, of Taylor county July 31, 1856. Settled at Boothsville and their children: Wm. The Statesman, JOHN TAYLOR
Taylor County was Named in Honor of This Virginia Gentleman

The Hon. John Taylor says: "It is a part of wisdom to make a favorable connection with a Bank and establish for yourself a good credit. It is a serious mistake for any one not to have at least $1000.00 in ready CASH in BANK to meet that 'Rainy Day' that surely will come.

"The way to have it is to live on the last three week's salary of each month."

—John Taylor,
Caroline County, Va.

THE TAYLOR COUNTY BANK, Grafton, West Virginia

HISTORY--The Hon. John Taylor and Taylor County

I have made a thorough investigation at the instance of Mr. Joseph F. Johnson, of Pruntytown, W. Va., as to the facts regarding the naming of Taylor County. Mr. Johnson says his father, Loney Johnson, assisted in the formation of the county and he says: "It was named after a member of the legislature who championed the formation of the new county." The general assembly of Virginia passed the bill creating the new county January 19, 1844. The act simply recites the boundry lines and declares the territory so bounded "shall form one distinct county to be called Taylor." Some of the late historians say it was named after General Zachary Taylor, a Virginian born, and twelfth president of the United States. His star had not yet risen when Taylor County was formed. My investigation makes it very clear that this county was not named in honor of President Taylor.

Mr. Loney Johnson, who assisted in the formation of he county, declares it was named in honor of a member of the legislature who championed the cause of the new county. Mr. Johnson is partly right and partly wrong. This county was named after a man who had been a member of the legislature; but he could not have championed the cause of the new county because he died twenty years before the new county of Taylor was created. (Mr. Johnson, the second prosecuting attorney of the county no doubt knew the facts. We may have added too much to his statement.)

Who, then, was it named for?

Mr. Howe, one year after the formation of this county, issued a book, "The Antiquities of Virginia," in which he says, "Taylor County was named for John Taylor, of Caroline county, a distinguished Virginian statesman." The newspapers of Richmond, Virginia, in writing up the acts of the legislature on the day the bill was passed says: "A new county was created in the northern section of the state on the Tygarts Valley river. It was given the name of Taylor in honor of John Taylor, of Caroline county, one of Virginia's most distinguished statesmen."

I accepted a statement recently from a prominent Virginian that "Taylor County was named in honor of the two distinguished Taylors of Virginia." This investigation proves that this is not correct. There is absolutely no question but what Taylor County was named in honor of John Taylor, of Caroline County, Virginia.

Who Was This John Taylor of Caroline County, Virginia?

After much effort and search we found a painting of John Taylor from which his picture on this leaflet was made. This is perhaps the first picture the citizens of Taylor County have ever seen of its namesake. The examination of various histories reveal some discrepancies in the accounts of the life of Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Wingfield's History of Caroline County, Virginia, asserts that the Congressional Directory is in error when it says that John Taylor was born in Orange county, Virginia, in 1750. W. W. Scott's History of Orange County agrees with Mr. Wingfield. They both emphatically state that John Taylor was born at Mill Hill, Caroline County, Virginia, in the year 1754. I am not able to find the month and day of his birth.

Wingfield's History of Caroline County says: "John Taylor died at his plantation, Hazelwood, in Caroline County, on August 21, 1824." The Congressional Directory says he died August 20th. I am inclined to accept Wingfield in every instance. The Congressional Directory is full of errors, it appears. If as the Congressional Record says: "John Taylor was born in Orange County, Va., in 1750," he was 74 years of age when he died. If the two historians of Caroline and Orange counties are correct (and we think they are as to the county) that "John Taylor was born at Mill Hill (some say Mill Farm) Caroline County, Va., in 1754," he was 70 years of age when he died.

Mr. Taylor's Own Statement:

In an interview by an editor, Mr. Taylor says: "I am a Christian first. It matters not what church I belong to. In business, I am a farmer. I work more with my head than my hands--as every farmer should. It is hard to get a farmer to see that a head farmer is far more successful than a hand farmer. However, they both go together with the emphasis on the head.

"My time to acquire an education was limited when I was young. My philosophy was, if a young man did not fear hard work and long hours he could get just about what he wanted. Our wants control us. I knew what I wanted, and I intended to make a success, as I saw it. At the age of twenty I graduated (they say with honors) from William and Mary College. I studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1774." (This would indicate that he was born in 1750). "I was one of the many young Virginians who believed that we were competent to run our own business in America without the aid of England. I espoused the cause of the colonies at the very outset of the Revolution, and put myself and all I had into the fight for freedom. I rose to the rank of Major. I was a colonel of malitia under General Lafayette, one of the finest men that ever lived. Politically I am a Democrat."

Mr. Taylor held several local offices. He was a member of the state legislature from 1779 to 1787. He was appointed a United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard Henry Lee, and was re-elected in 1792 and served until May 11, 1794, when he resigned. He was again appointed to the United States Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Stevens T. Mason, in 1803, serving from October 17, 1803, to December 13, 1803. He again was elected United States Senator in 1822 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James Pleasants, and served from December 30, 1822 until his death in Caroline County August 20th or 21st, 1824. Mr. Taylor was a presidential elector on the Adams-Jefferson ticket in 1797. He and Thomas Jefferson were great friends.
